Are We Turning Chinese?
Mr. McAdoo, He Flies.
About Tax Exemption.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

DR. HENDERSON, professor of applied physiology at Yale, ought to know something about the human body, and he says, "4 per cent beer is not intoxicating." His definition of intoxicating is "A beverage which consumed in the ordinary way would induce a temporary disturbance of physical conditions and behavior."

DOCTORS HAVE said that a child can absorb in a day, harmlessly, as much as two ounces of alcohol. If that be true, that child in a day could drink more than three quarts of four per cent beer, without injury.

But, all that is theory. He who drinks now must drink bootleg whisky or "needled" beer, into which bad alcohol has been pumped with a hypodermic needle.

THE EXTREMELY able Manchester Guardian, Great Britain's most solemn and substantial newspaper, worries about us. The editor thinks our gangsters are of the same breed as Chinese bandits, and "our civilization is failing."

LET US HOPE that the Manchester Guardian is too gloomy. Our gangsters shoot each other. Chinese bandits don't do that.

Chinese bandits kidnap women, cut off a finger, or an ear, and send it back, with a request for cash. Our gangsters have not adopted that method.

THE CHINESE bandit is a product of chaos in government. Our gangster and our several-billion dollars a year bootleg crime system are the products of our noble experiment, probibition.

The wets say that if we abandoned the noble experiment, we'd also recover from gang rule. The drys say no.

Time will tell.

KINGSFORD-SMITH sets a new flying record, flying from London to Allahabad, India, in five and a half days.

Airplanes may crash, and dirigibles break in two, but fliers are not discouraged. The history of man has been one of unconquerable effort. That's why he rules the earth, and all earth's inhabitants except the microbes.

MR. McADOO, who dug tunnels under the North River, where others had failed, thus connecting Manhattan Island with the United States continent, turns now to the higher realms of transportation.

He is on his way, by air, from Los Angeles to New York, determined to learn "how fast an average business man can fly from the Pacific to the Atlantic."

NEW YORK wants $330,000 a year taxes from the Chrysler Tower, built on land belonging to the benevolent Cooper Union, and supposed to be free of taxation.

At the same time, a taxpayer would compel the Knights of Columbus to pay taxes on their hotel in New York, which contains stores, a barber shop, etc.

The reply is made that at least one big Masonic building, with stores, is also tax-exempt.

JUDGES, CAREFULLY selected, will decide these points. Meanwhile the little man wishes that somebody would free from taxation the house in which, by the sweat of his brow, and the worry of his soul, he feeds and raises his children.

SUPPOSE THE founder of Christianity returned and were asked: "Would you free from taxation the humble dwelling of a poor man and woman with five or six children or would free a fine building costing millions erected in your honor?"

What do you think he would answer?

THE CHIEF officials of the New York Stock Exchange, it appears, dined with President Hoover at the White House on Sunday, and answered some questions.

The President is supposed to have told the stock exchange officials what he thinks about conspiracies to lower values and increase apprehension by short selling. If he told them all he thinks, they heard a good deal.

YOU ARE "almost persuaded now to believe" that the old law of supply and demand is not so powerful when you are not afraid of it.

Ordinary talk about interfering with short sales, or any form of conspiracy to diminish or injure prices in Wall Street, would be silenced with, "Supply and demand regulates that."

But after President Hoover had a talk with stock exchange leaders, supply and demand suddenly ceased to take the form of poisonous attacks on stock values, at least for one day.

If wise, the exchange will modify the activities of racketeers on the short side and avoid unpleasant federal regulations.

IN THE OLD days in China, superfluous girl babies thrown into the water were not interesting. There were so many of them.

In our day racketeers and others "put on the spot" have become part of routine news.

But there is some interest in the improved methods of killing.

According to the police, men disappear, detectives know that they have been taken for a ride, but their bodies are no longer found, thrown out on the road.

The improved method kills the

VOTE BUYING PLAN TO AID HEMPHILL CHARGED

Former Governor Declares Money to Be Used in East; Sees State Payroll Raid

NEWPORT, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Referring to published statements that efforts would be made in Philadelphia to raise a $500,000 fund to carry John M. Hemphill's Democratic gubernatorial campaign into the upstate counties, Gifford Pinchot today characterized it as an attempt of his political opponents "to buy votes."

Pinchot said here at a Republican rally:

"I see a committee in Philadelphia is attempting to raise $500,000 to buy votes upstate. Upstate voters cannot be bought. These men realize the importance of the upstate counties in deciding the election, but they are going about it in the wrong way to get upstate votes. What they need is a sound program."

HUNTINGDON MEETING

Pinchot was accompanied on his tour here by several other statewide Republican candidates. The final meeting of the day will be held at Huntingdon, after stops at Mt. Union and Lewistown.

Questioned concerning his conference last night at Harrisburg with Mayor Kline, of Pittsburgh, Pinchot said that he was "highly gratified with what Mayor Kline told me." Pinchot did not disclose what the Mayor's statement at the conference was, but it was generally understood among the touring party that Mayor Kline had assured Pinchot that Pittsburgh would give him a large majority at next month's general election.

INTERNATIONAL ART EXHIBIT OPENS HERE

By PENELOPE REDD

Nine and twenty times has Carnegie Institute paid the freight to and fro on the entries of hundreds of painters to the International Exhibition.

To what extent art has been benefited by Carnegie Institute's contribution, the world never will know. Too often the exhibitions have been monuments to dullness.

The exhibition, which was previewed last night with some pomp and circumstance was, as we all know, gathered by Homer Saint Gaudens, art ambassador and minister plenipotentiary of the Carnegie Institute. Director Saint Gaudens has succeeded in bringing to Pittsburgh the best collection of modern painting that ever has been presented here—probably the best of its kind to come to America—to date. Critically, the exhibition is well nigh impeccable.

AMERICA SHOWS GROWTH

The twenty-ninth exhibition has not only the first names in contemporary art in its catalogue, but excellent paintings represent those names on the walls of the Carnegie Institute.

The twenty-ninth exhibition is more animated than any of its predecessors. For an international exhibition always has a distinct personality. Despite the fact that it is gathered from 14 countries, when it is assembled it assumes the air of being a whole.

This time the parts are reconciled to the whole in harmonious and vivacious fashion.

The United States with the largest section offered evidences of

GRACE CLEARED OF BLAME IN AUTO DEATH

Driver of Upset Car Held; Rum Bottle, Unopened, in Steel Head Son's Machine

Charles B. Grace, of 6201 Fifth avenue, son of Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, today was exonerated in the death of Solomon Balsam, of 4822 Second avenue, by a coroner's jury.

Allan Golub, of 2320 Fifth avenue, driver of the car that killed Balsam, was recommended held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter.

LIQUOR IN CAR

Witnesses at the inquest testified they saw a bottle of liquor taken from Grace's car, but said the bottle had not been opened and that Grace appeared sober at the time the two cars crashed at Fifth and Aiken avenues on the morning of September 26. No charge of transporting liquor has been placed against Grace.

Policeman C. D. Nicholls and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Tucker, of 3066 Glenmawr avenue, who were at the scene of the crash, told of the whisky incident.

RUNNING BOARD VICTIM

Grace testified Golub's car hit his from the rear and turned over. Balsam was said to have been clinging to the running board of Golub's car, in which Frances Goldberg, Julius Fittlebaum and Harold Kepner were riding in the one seat with Golub. They testified they knew little of the accident until their car overturned.

Police Inspector James Hoey today said, regarding the whisky seizure in Grace's car, that he was out of the city when the seizure was made. Hoey said:

"I likely would have ordered Grace's arrest for transporting liquor if I had been here."

ARMY PILOT BLIZZARD VICTIM

International News Service.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 16.—The body of Lieut. William Caldwell, of Oakland, Cal., was found in his wrecked plane at a point north of Lookout, 30 miles northwest of Laramie, this morning.

Lieut. Caldwell was accompanying Lieut. Irvin A. Woodring, who was carrying a copy of the Japanese ratification of the London naval pact from Victoria, B. C., to New York.

Woodring succeeded in battling through a blizzard and reaching Cheyenne early last evening. He hopped off from here this morning for the East.

Lieut. Caldwell apparently lost control of his ship in the storm late yesterday afternoon, and it crashed to the ground in the rolling sagebrush country. Caldwell's body was found badly mangled, but there were no signs of burns about it. The plane was damaged.

PENNINGTON IN PITTSBURGH

John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator for Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, arrived in Pittsburgh today on what he termed an "inspection trip."

Pennington said he contemplated no changes in the Pittsburgh district and was satisfied with conditions here.

Shortly after his arrival Pennington received a message from Elizabeth, N. J., saying the grand jury had indicted nine men for the murder of John Fineilo, former Pittsburgh dry agent, who was slain during a raid on the Rising Sun Brewery in Elizabeth on September 21.

Among those indicted was Sam Grossman, who was taken by prohibition officers in Chester, Pa. He is being held in Philadelphia without bail.

REPEAL SNYDER ACT—HEMPHILL

John M. Hemphill, Democratic-Liberal nominee for governor, today continued his attack on Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee, in an address before the Bond Club in the William Penn Hotel. Last night he addressed 1,800 persons in Syria Mosque.

In his talk today Hemphill declared that a canvass of prospective members of the next Legislature revealed that the Armstrong-Snyder prohibition enforcement act would be repealed. He said:

"If I am elected I will sign the repealer. I ask my opponent what he will do if he is governor. Will he be faithful to the will of a majority of the people as expressed by their representatives, or will he be faithful to the fanatical few Denial of any authoritative request being made to the State Federation of Pennsylvania Club Women that she be permitted to speak at the convention in Scranton was Mrs. Gifford Pinchot's answer to a report that the Republican candidate's wife was denied an audience there.

Citing that she was on a three-week trip through Western Pennsylvania and that it would have been impossible to have appeared at Scranton, Mrs. Pinchot charged:

"It must be a political trick. My route and time has been arranged and I never had had a thought of attending the federation convention. No one could have made the request

Baby Killed By Mother's Auto

While backing her automobile out of a garage in the rear of her home this afternoon, Mrs. Louise Knoll, 26, of Chess street, Bridgeville, ran over and killed her 4-year-old son, Norman, according to a morgue report.

The mother had left the child standing on the lawn in the rear of the home and entered the garage. The child wandered into the driveway into the path of the car as it was being backed out.

Mrs. Knoll heard the shrieks of the boy and leaped from her car, shouting for help. The child was dead when a physician arrived.

KIDNAPER SLIPS POSSE'S TRAP

GREENFIELD, Mo., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Their search temporarily halted by a downpour last night, possemen from several Southwest Missouri counties today were ready to resume their search for the abductor of Mrs. Alma Wilson McKinley, 24-year-old oil heiress.

Mrs. McKinley, whose story of nearly 24 hours with the kidnaper has stirred this section of the state, today was under the care of a specialist from Springfield, who said her condition was "not good." Effects of the long exposure, the doctor said, sent her temperature to 101 last night. She is an expectant mother.

STIMSON'S DOG FOILS PROWLER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—"Cricket," pet Scotch terrier belonging to Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, was the hero today of the secretary of state's house because he sprang to action last night when a robber attempted to enter the Stimson home, "Woodley."

The secretary said the burglar attempted to enter a second-story window while he and Mrs. Stimson were resting before dinner last night. Attracted by the noise, "Cricket" went to the window and barked, causing the secretary to open the shutters and frighten away the prowler.

"Cricket has been a family institution, but he is our hero today," the secretary said.

Young Hoover Plans Winter in Asheville

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Herbert Hoover, Jr., eldest son of the President, who is taking treatment for a minor tubercular infection at the presidential camp on Virginia's Rapidian River, will continue his rest cure this winter at Asheville, N. C., the White House announced today.

He will leave the mountain camp probably November 1 and take up quarters with his wife on property leased in the outskirts of Asheville, on Sunset Mountain. Their two children will remain with relatives in Pasadena, Cal., where they are now staying.

Mrs. McLaughlin has been injured several times while riding her spirited hunters. About a year ago she suffered a broken rib during a fox hunt.

Her latest accident occurred west of Lake Forest, as she was riding with her husband, Maj. McLaughlin. She was taken first to a hospital and then to her home.

Boyd Overrides Protests, Insists on Return Hop

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Against the advice of meteorological experts and over the protests of United States Ambassador Dawes, Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Lieut. Harry P. Connor definitely decided today to attempt a return flight across the Atlantic in November.

The airmen made their first trans-Atlantic crossing last week, when they flew from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to Tresco, in the Scilly Islands. Boyd told International News Service today:

"We have definitely decided to attempt the return flight in November. During full moon the weather should be favorable. We will take every precaution for safety, and I am certain we will make it."

The fliers have not yet decided upon their destination on the American continent. They said they might fly to some city in Canada or possibly continue straight through to New York.

NATION WATCHING PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW YORK FIGHTS

VOTE RESULT AWAITED AS DRY GUIDE

If Anti-Prohibition Forces Win, G. O. P. Will Face Repeal Battle in 1932

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—While national political leaders here are naturally more interested in the congressional aspect of the oncoming election than they are in purely state contests there are two notable exceptions to that rule—the governorship fights in New York and Pennsylvania.

The politicians' interest in these two battles might be said to exceed that of any senatorial or congressional fight, no matter how outstanding. The reason therefor is not far to seek—it is 1932.

In New York the Republican party has gone anti-dry after 10 years of allegiance with the drys, nominating in Charles H. Tuttle an anti-dry candidate upon a platform calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The Republican drys have bolted and put up a third ticket.

PENNSYLVANIA SPLIT

In Pennsylvania, a large section of the Republican party has bolted the candidacy of Gifford Pinchot and served notice of its intention of supporting John M. Hemphill, who styles himself a Democratic-Liberal, running on a platform that also calls for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Should Tuttle be elected governor of New York in November, and Pinchot defeated in Pennsylvania, it probably means that the New York and Pennsylvania delegations will go to the Republican convention of 1932 prepared to battle for an anti-dry plank in the national platform.

The Republicans of New Jersey already are anti-dry in both candidate and platform. Massachusetts is teetering on the edge, and if former Senator William M. Butler loses, it probably means the Bay State delegation would fall into line.

PROBLEM FOR HOOVER

Thus, four of the largest and most powerful states in the national convention of 1932 may be found lined up for prohibition reform. It may put President Hoover in a somewhat embarrassing position if, as expected on all sides, he is a candidate to succeed himself.

On the other hand, should Tuttle lose in New York and his defeat be traced to the votes taken away from him by the dry-independent Republican candidate, and should Pinchot triumph in Pennsylvania over the bolting anti-dry Philadelphia machine, it probably would make President Hoover's convention pathway much easier traveling.

BALANCE OF POWER

The drys could then triumphantly point out that they hold the balance of power in the Republican party of the East's most powerful states, and the anti-drys could either take it or leave it.

Consequently, the election now but 19 days away is considered in Washington as much a wet-or-dry referendum within the Republican party in the East as it is anything else. It is of incalculable importance in all the figuring that is being done against 1932.

If the anti-drys win in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts—they have already won in New Jersey—then it is assumed here that the convention delegations from these states cannot do otherwise than to battle in 1932 for the inclusion of the national platform of that year of a prohibition reform plank. To do otherwise would be the negation of their pledges at home, on which they won.

The outcome is being watched with intense interest in Washington, the White House included.

JOINS OTHER NOMINEES

The Democratic-Liberal nominee went to New Kensington this afternoon to join other nominees on the Democratic ticket. They will address a rally at Greensburg tonight.

Attorney B. B. McGinnins spoke at the noonday rally at the Democratic headquarters in Fourth avenue today.

Other speakers at the Mosque last night were Attorney Arthur M. Scully, Liberal party county chairman, who presided; Charles Dorrance, state chairman of the Liberal party, and Mrs. Marion Booth Kelly, of New York, representing the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform.

HUMPHREY ATTENDS

Seated on the stage with the speakers were A. L. Humphrey, president of Westinghouse Air Brake Company, and W. S. Dalzell, of counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Hemphill declared:

"We Democrats are loyal to the teaching of Thomas Jefferson and the doctrine of state rights and we have been joined by the best elements in the Republican party."

SCOFFS AT PLAN

He scoffed at Pinchot's plan for ending public utility abuses by substituting the Public Service Commission, which Pinchot charges is controlled by the big utility companies, with a Fair Rate Board.

Concerning prohibition repeal, Hemphill declared that the regulation of liquor, properly, was a problem for each state, and not the national government.

At a dinner in the Schenley Hotel prior to the meeting, Hemphill was presented a silver plaque commending him for valorous service with the A. E. F. in France during the World War. The presentation was made in the presence of about 325 former service men, by Hemphill's former commander, Gen. Mark L. Hersey, of the Fourth Division.

KIDNAPER SLIPS POSSE'S TRAP

in a dense woods near Stockton. After sending for additional help, they searched in vain for the man, who told Mrs. McKinley he was a former convict and would rather hang than return to prison.

SEND DOGS BACK

Because of last night's downpour, investigators said today bloodhounds would be of no further aid to them. Dogs from Springfield have been sent home.

Although Mrs. McKinley, in her high school days at Greenfield rated as the greatest woman basketball player in the world, talked freely of her experiences, she refused to confirm a report she had agreed to pay the kidnaper $10,000 after her release.

The abductor treated her with "utmost respect," she related, "and before he finally let me go we became downright confidential."

Although the kidnaper, who invaded the Wilson home Monday night armed with a sawed-off shotgun and forced Mrs. McKinley to drive away in her own motor car, repeatedly told her about "the gang," investigators today were inclined to believe he worked alone. He appeared familiar with the Wilson family, even mentioning the exact amount involved in a law suit involving Benton Wilson, Mrs. McKinley's father, several years ago.

VIEW PICTURES

Mrs. McKinley and her mother yesterday viewed rogues' gallery pictures from the Kansas City police department. Mrs. Wilson, who was bound and gagged by the abductor, said:

"It looks like the man," she said.

While being held by her abductor, Mrs. McKinley said, he repeatedly assured her he would guard her "with my own life," and told her he would be "bumped off" by "the gang" if he tried to prevent them from killing her if relatives did not produce $60,000 ransom.

Australian Record Hops Develop Race

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Aviation circles here watched with growing interest today the dramatic race developing between Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith and Flight Lieut. C. W. Hill, both engaged in an attempt to lower the flying time from England to Australia.

with any authority, and I'm sure Mrs. John H. Cross would not have done so without my knowledge."

Mrs. Cross is director of the Pinchot campaign in Philadelphia. News stories from Scranton reported Mrs. Cross as having admitted making the request.

Official denial of the rumor was issued at Scranton by Mrs. John Frick, of Allentown, president of the federation, who said no request had been received. Reports that Mrs. Charles Dorrance, wife of the Liberal party state chairman, would be a convention speaker, were likewise denied. She was not eligible to speak, according to Mrs. Frick, because she is not a delegate to the convention.

Both Mrs. Pinchot and Mrs. Charles Etter, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee, were enthusiastic regarding the women's support manifested for the Republican nominee.

Mrs. James J. Davis arrived in Pittsburgh today from Washington and with Mrs. Pinchot was honored at a reception this afternoon in Hotel Henry. The reception was arranged by Mrs. Laura J. Hinnau, vice chairman of the County Republican Executive Committee, who was assisted by Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence and Mrs. George McBride.

GIVEN LUNCHEON

A luncheon was tendered in the William Penn Hotel at noon. Speakers at the reception were Mrs. Etter, Judge Sara Soffel and Miss Susanne Beatty.

Tonight Mrs. Pinchot will speak at the Congress of Women's Clubs on the Pinchot South Sea Island expedition.

Mrs. Pinchot, who arrived from Kittanning, will be here the remainder of the week. Among programs on which she will appear will be the Adult Bible class rally tomorrow night in the Smithfield Street M. E. Church, speaking with Judge Soffel, James Malone, Judge James H. Gray and John W. Vickerman.

Mrs. Pinchot also will be honored tomorrow night at a reception of the Fifth Ward Republican Committee of Colored Women at the Watt street school auditorium. Mrs. James B. Drew will share honors. The nominee's wife will show a motion picture of the Pinchot trip through the South Seas. Mrs. W. T. Poole is committee chairman.

ing changes in the Public Service Commission," the gubernatorial candidate declared the statement was an indorsement of his fair rate board proposal. Pinchot declared:

"Gen. Martin's indorsement of my public utility program should quiet once and for all every honest fear that it might be radical or that it would be injurious to any square deal utility or any investor in a square deal utility's stock.

"Gen. Martin as a business man indorses my public utility program. I realize that that is of great importance and that it will do great good."

SEES PAYROLL RAID

Stopping at the state capital long enough to take issue with his opponent over political patronage, the former governor in Harrisburg last night said that Hemphill would be compelled by "the hungry Democrats and the hungry Philadelphia gangsters" to replace present state office-holders and employes with other men and women of their own choosing. Hemphill had previously stated employes need have no fear of the political mace from him if they were efficient.

TELEGRAPHS BORAH

Pinchot yesterday also sent a telegram to Senator William E. Borah, Idaho, promising the Senator assistance in his proposed inquiry into reported public utility backing of Hemphill's candidacy. The telegram said:

"This situation goes far beyond any question of the governorship of Pennsylvania. It involves the control not only of the state but of national politics and if not checked will result in complete utility domination of national affairs."

Pinchot was accompanied on his trip to Harrisburg from the Cumberland Valley by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for the United States Senate; Gen. E. C. Shannon, for lieutenant governor, and Philip H. Dewey, for secretary of internal affairs.

Business Men Raising Half-Million for Hemphill

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Philadelphia businessmen supporting John M. Hemphill, Liberal-Democratic candidate for governor, and the managers of the Liberal party campaign, today launched a movement to raise a half million dollars to carry on the campaign in Eastern Pennsylvania.

The movement followed the organization of a group of insurance businessmen who pledged their support to Hemphill, and the opening of new headquarters for the Liberal party at Broad street and South Penn square.

A huge rally with speeches by State Chairman Charles Dorrance, of Scranton, Mrs. Graham Dougherty, state vice chairman, and Randolph W. Childs, Philadelphia chairman, formally opened the Hemphill headquarters here at noon.

Dynamite Diet Fails To Exterminate Bear

BLACKSMITH RAPIDS, Ont., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A bear which apparently has more lives than a cat, is bothering a construction camp here. The camp cook decoyed bruin into the bush and fed him a stick of dynamite smeared with honey, fuse attached. Bear gulped, cook lighted the fuse and ran. Boasting that Bruin was no more, he began peeling potatoes. Then Bruin appeared at the cookhouse and began stealing spuds. The cook fainted.

BOB GONE WEEK, MAY RETURN FOR QUIZ

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Charles V. Bob, missing New York financier, now being hunted throughout the country in connection with some $7,000,000 worth of securities, may show up in New York within the next three days.

A mysterious telephone message was received by the Washington Herald last night from a man claiming to be Bob's secretary, who declared:

"I wish you would announce in your paper that Charles V. Bob—you know, who is missing from New York—will return there within the next three days to answer any charges made against him.

"I am on my way to see him now. He is not in Washington."

CHARGES THREATENED

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Charges were threatened today against Charles V. Bob, missing New York financier, and his business associate, Frederick C. Russell, by Watson Washburn, assistant attorney general in charge of the State Bureau of Securities.

Washburn claimed he had evidence, and charged irregularities in connection with the affairs of Metal and Mining, Inc., an investment trust which Washburn said was controlled by Bob.

DISCREPANCIES

Members of the bureau of securities revealed that a questionnaire answered last spring by Bob concerning the financial status of the Metal and Mining Shares company contained serious discrepancies.

The financier was last seen on Wednesday, last week, at Chicago Municipal Airport when he left orders there to have his private monoplane tuned up for a return flight to New York on Thursday morning.

Col. Dean Lamb, Bob's pilot, who flew the financier to Chicago, also is reported missing.

JOSEPH FEDIGAN DIES IN PHILA.

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Word was received here today of the death in Philadelphia this morning of Joseph James Fedigan, 38, for years a telegrapher for the Associated Press in Pittsburgh and other cities.

Death at 1:45 o'clock this morning followed an operation yesterday in University Hospital, Philadelphia.

Fedigan, a native of Sharon, leaves his mother, Mrs. Lawrence Fedigan, and two sisters.

Funeral services will be held at Sacred Heart Church here Monday morning, with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Joseph James Fedigan, veteran telegraph operator, had lived many years in Pittsburgh and was well known. Several months ago his sight began to fail, and he left to seek surgical relief. News of his death was a shock to hundreds of friends here and in Sharon, his home.

Named In Suit

ALICE BRADY

Miss Brady, stage and screen actress named by the wife of her leading man in Atlanta stock, Donald Cameron McClelland, in divorce action brought in Detroit. "It's an outrage!" Miss Brady expostulated in Atlanta.

ACTRESS DENIES DIVORCE CHARGE

ATLANTA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Alice Brady, stage and screen actress appearing here as the guest star of a stock company, today maintained there was not the slightest foundation for her being named corespondent in a Detroit divorce suit brought by Mrs. Bernice McClelland, wife of Miss Brady's leading man.

Donald Cameron McClelland, defendant in the divorce case, issued a statement saying:

"I think it a shame that anybody as fine as Miss Brady should be dragged all over the front page of the newspapers. My only dealings with her have been purely business."

The divorce bill charged Miss Brady made trips with McClelland.

The daughter of William A Brady, theatrical producer, ends her engagement here this week. She said:

"I do not know Mrs. McClelland. Either Mrs. McClelland is mistaken in naming me in her divorce action or the charge is an outrage against me. There is not the slightest foundation for any charge."

Three Men Hurt As Autos Collide

Three men were hurt early today when their machine collided, head on, with another in Brighton road, North Side. Frank H. Stugan, 1207 Liverpool street, and Chedo Skender, 15 Fordham avenue, West View, were bruised and cut. Their automobile, driven by Stugan, crashed with that driven by J. S. Schweininger, 14 East Forrest avenue, Bellevue. Another passenger in Stugan's car suffered slight cuts.

First Ward G. O. P. Indorses Pinchot

Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, and all other nominees on the state ticket, were indorsed by the First Ward Republican committee at a meeting last night in the City-County Building. Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, Republican ward chairman, presided.

Jewelry Worth $500 Lifted From Window

Thieves threw a padded brick through the front window of the Mur Jewelry Company, 810 Wood street, Wilkinsburg, early today and scooped up watches and rings valued at $500, according to police.

GOLDEN GATE CITY HAILS HEARST

San Francisco, Scene of First Editorial Triumph, Pays Tribute to Publisher

Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—The city in which William Randolph Hearst began his career as publisher, nearly half a century ago, paused today to do him honor.

Men and women representing virtually every walk of life, every phase of community endeavor, are taking part in San Francisco's civic welcome.

From 8:24 o'clock this morning, when an advance guard of notable San Franciscans met Mr. Hearst at San Jose and accompanied him to the city aboard the Lark, until the conclusion of the civic luncheon at the Hotel St. Francis in the afternoon, the ceremonies hold a two-fold meaning.

City officials, veterans of many wars, business leaders and labor representatives are honoring the American newspaperman.

OFFICIAL ESCORT

San Francisco's reception began at San Jose, where Mr. Hearst was greeted by an official escort. Another committee, with a color guard from veterans' organizations and delegations representing the Gold Star Mothers and War Mothers, met him at the Third and Townsend station.

From the station he was escorted to the Palace Hotel, and later left for the City Hall, where the official greeting was given him on the rotunda. The luncheon at the Hotel St. Francis, sponsored by the Downtown Association, was the concluding feature of the public demonstration.

BROADCAST CEREMONIES

Two radio systems broadcasted the ceremonies at the City Hall, and the speeches at the Downtown Association luncheon. Frances Gabrielle, prima donna soprano of Earl Carroll's "Fioretta," and Cecil Cunningham, singer of character songs, were among the entertainers at the luncheon.

Scores of individuals and organizations, Supervisor Gallagher explained, volunteered their cooperation in arranging the program or asked to be represented in the public tribute to Mr. Hearst.

The state and municipal judiciary, many other state and municipal officers, organized labor, local improvement and civic groups and several fraternal societies are among the many who notified Supervisor Gallagher of their desire to take part.

OAKLAND FETE SET

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 16.—(INS.)—William Randolph Hearst's triumphal tour of California will come to a brilliant close tomorrow night in Oakland.

A civic reception will culminate in a huge banquet attended by the mayor and other officials of Greater Oakland, business and professional leaders, war veterans and representatives of civic bodies.

Col. Charles I. Anderson, city commissioner, will be the toastmaster and will introduce first E. B. Anderson, oldest Hearst employe, retired now for many years.

Americanism of Mr. Hearst and his services for veterans will be extolled by Philip O. Solon, prominent veteran. E. B. Field, president of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, will extend greeting of business men.

Robert Sibley, general manager of the University of California Alumni Association, will speak on the benefactions of the late Mrs. Phoebe Hearst and her son, William Randolph Hearst, to the university. Capt. W. B. Voortmeyer will speak as representative of 43 improvement clubs.

Women of Oakland will be represented on the program by Mrs. Henry G. Hill, manager and first president of the Women's City Club. Preston Higgins, city attorney, will deliver the official welcome of the city.

Mayor John L. Davie then will introduce Mr. Hearst, who will present the closing address.

Blast Wrecks Home, Burns Jeannette Man

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—State police were investigating an explosion early today in the home of Sam Laverdale, 21, Jeannette. Laverdale is in hospital in serious condition with burns. His home was wrecked by the blast.

Coolidge Declares Sham In Politics Ineffective

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 16.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

We have in this country a certain type of office holder, fortunately not large, who are always out with a square and compass seeking to find out what the political effect will be of every action they take. They do not need to make such elaborate investigations. Anyone with a little experience can tell them in advance that the effect of action based on such motives will always be bad. All the predominant political opinion of the nation which is worth cultivation is never impressed by decisions made for effect. Those who compose that body want responsible office holders to try to find out what is best for the welfare of the people and do that. They are moved by sincerity and integrity of purpose. Pretense does not appeal to them.

Calvin Coolidge

That is the reason why those who seek popularity so seldom find it, while those who follow an informed conscience so often are astonished by a wide public approval. The people know a sham even when they seem to be trying to fool themselves, and they cannot help having a wholesome respect for a reality. The best political effect usually comes to those who disregard it.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Nobody Wants Man-Eating Monkey; Murren Puzzled

Chief George W. Murren, of the County Detectives, has a man-eating monkey from Borneo which he'll sell for nothing or give away. His name is Nick, and he spends his time nicking folks who come too near him.

Nick was plucked from a carnival company in Castle Shannon several weeks ago, after he decided to chew up some of the customers of the menagerie. He bit a couple of detectives, did the same to several attaches of the district attorney's office, and caused such a commotion that the detectives sent him to a pet shop to be sold.

Now comes the pet shop keeper with a story of customers and other monkeys chewed by Nick's sharp teeth, threats of lawsuits from the victims, and a request that Nick be taken back by the county. Also, the pet shop man would like $20 for boarding Nick these past weeks.

Gloria Swanson Reported Planning Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Examiner says Gloria Swanson, screen star, is preparing to file suit for divorce against the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudraye, on the ground of desertion.

The actress, the newspaper said, confided her plans to several friends, then left Hollywood for a short vacation.

Definite announcement such action will be taken verifies rumors current in the film colony for some months. Last August when the Marquis returned from Europe he took a room in a hotel instead of going to the Swanson home in Beverly Hills.

The couple has been separated and reunited several times since the marriage in Paris in January, 1925.

STATE CLUBWOMEN VOTE FOR DRY LAW ENFORCEMENT

OPPOSITION FAILS ON FLOOR

Sentiment for Resolution After Bitter Discussion Surprise to Liberals

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—With only seven dissenting votes, the resolution declaring the Eighteenth Amendment and laws designed to aid in prohibition enforcement had the support of the Federation of Women's Clubs was approved at today's session of the Federation convention here.

The overwhelmingly approving vote came as a surprise after the interest discussion of the resolution had aroused within the past few days, and after intimations that a strong movement would be made against adoption of the resolution.

OPPOSITION FADES

The movement, as such, failed to materialize on the convention floor when the proposal came out from the resolutions committee.

Delegates themselves, who had anticipated that Allentown delegates would take a definite stand against the measure, were surprised when the vote was announced and looked on the ballot as evidence that not all the delegates from Allentown had voted against the resolution.

Mrs. John Prick, Allentown, state chairman of the federation, voted in favor of the resolution, it was learned.

The only opposition to the resolution voiced on the convention floor today was made by Mrs. H. S. Dickey, second vice president of the Allentown Women's Club.

INSTRUCTED VOTE

Mrs. Dickey stated that the delegates from that club had been instructed to "vote no on this proposition although that does not necessarily express our personal opinion, nor that of the board of directors." The Allentown club, she said, had polled its members and found but 98 of them in favor of supporting the resolution as it was presented.

The total affirmative vote on the resolution was not announced, but tellers esitmated it at 450 for the measure.

After adoption of resolutions the convention was adjourned for luncheon and resumed this afternoon to take up routine matters. The sessions of the federation will continue through tomorrow.

MAL DAUGHERTY BANKRUPT

CHILLICOTHE, O., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the defunct Ohio State Bank at Washington Court House, listed liabilities at $642,933.47 and assets at $362,346.27 in a schedule of his financial condition filed today with Judge George B. Bitzer, referee in bankruptcy here.

Daugherty, at liberty under bond of $40,000 in Fayette County on 15 indictments charging mishandling affairs at the bank, filed the schedule in connection with involuntary bankruptcy brought against him in behalf of the State Department of Banks. He is a brother of Harry M. Daugherty, former United States attorney general.

Daugherty listed $306,907.37 under a heading "should be paid by others" and his personal liabilities at $336,026.10.

In the "should be paid by others" column Daugherty listed notes and bonds, which he said he had signed as security but which should be settled by the makers.

Co-Ed, Youth Get 'Typical A-H' Titles

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Miss Elsie Onsrud, 19, a co-ed at the University of Wisconsin, is the 1930 typical 4-H girl, and Lyman Davis, 16, Madison, Tenn., the typical 4-H boy. Miss Onsrud's home is at Stoughton, Wis.

Out of 550 boys and girls sent to the National Dairy Show to represent the 850,000 American 4-H Club members, Miss Onsrud and young Davis were selected for the title, officials of the show announced.

2 REDS INSULT HURLEY, JAILED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Two admitted members of the International Communists, J. I. Whidden and R. T. Pierce, faced arraignment in Justice Court here today on riot charges growing out of alleged insults shouted at Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, as the Cabinet member boarded an automobile after on address here yesterday.

The men, alleged ring leaders of the Communist demonstration which was prevented from reaching serious proportions by policemen, also faced Police Court charges of disorderly conduct and peace disturbance. They were held in the city jail over night.

Unruffled by the incident, Secretary Hurley filled appointments in Fort Worth and Oklahoma City, ending a busy day's program here last night at a dinner given in his honor by John B. Nichols, Chickasha oil man, with a speech in which he defended the program of President Hoover.

LABOR ADOPTS JOBLESS PLAN

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The American Federation of Labor today offered an unemployment relief plan in the form of a co-operative committee of public and private groups headed by President Hoover.

Under the plan, adopted at yesterday's convention session, the President, governors of all states, mayors and other city and county officers as well as labor groups, would appoint national, state, county and district committees. In co-operation with federal and state departments, these committees would make specific recommendations for their particular localities.

The convention referred to the executive council the question of unemployment insurance. President William Green said that such insurance limited the liberties of the working man and that while in some European countries it might have been found practicable, the methods used there would not apply here.

REICH OFFERED BRUENING PLAN

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Amid a chorus of epithets hurled at him from the Communist benches, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening today laid before the Reichstag his program of financial reforms with a stirring plea for its passage, in which he hinted broadly that Germany may be forced to ask for revision of the Young plan for reparations payments.

The chancellor's speech was interrupted frequently by Communist hecklers, who split the air with cries of "Hunger dictator" and "Labor murderer!"

Chancellor Bruening told the Reichstag deputies he appealed to them in "this grave hour" to pass the emergency financial measures. In them, he said, lay Germany's sole hope of weathering the present economic crisis.

Much of the chancellor's speech was devoted to assurances that Germany would not default in her obligations, but that international co-operation was necessary if they were to be fulfilled to the letter.

BRAZIL TROOPS MASS IN SOUTH

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Extensive troop movements were being carried out by the federal government today in its campaign against the revolutionary forces, particularly in the southern portion of the state of Minas Geraes.

Newspapers here gave wide display today to the Stimson statement on the attitude of the United States upholding the administration forces in Brazil against the revolutionists, but offered no editorial comment.

Passengers arriving from Pernambuco today said there was a shortage of foodstuffs in the Northern city and that distress was likely within a few days unless supplies arrived.

SEA FLIERS GET $25,000 CHECK

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—The $25,000 check for their New York - Paris - Dallas flight was awarded today to Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte at a luncheon of the Advertising Club. The check was presented by the donor of the prize, Col. William E. Easterwood, of Dallas.

The French fliers will be dinner guests of the Foch Memorial Dinner Committee this evening, and will sail for France tomorrow evening aboard the French liner France.

A program honoring the fliers on board the liner will be broadcast over a nation-wide hookup.

Coste and Bellonte were entertained last night at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Morrow at their home in Englewood, N. J. The only guests in addition to the fliers were Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Breckenridge.

Sun to Last Only 15,000 Billion Years Longer

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—The man on the street may not have observed it, but the sun is gradually wasting away. At the rate it is going, it probably will not last more than 15,000 billion years longer, Dr. W. D. MacMillan, professor of astronomy at University of Chicago, announced.

NYE WITNESS' THROAT CUT

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—James M. Cox, of Cookeville, president of the Gainesboro Telephone Company and of a company formed by consolidation recently of eight telephone companies in Tennessee and Kentucky, who came here as a witness before the Nye investigating committee, was taken to a hospital early today suffering a cut in his throat.

Mr. Cox was to have been questionel by the campaign funds committee today.

Bradley McGinness, of Carthage, Tenn., friend of Mr. Cox, who also was scheduled to appear as a witness, said after Mr. Cox was taken to the hospital that he had heard of the cutting, but could shed no light on it.

A physician said Mr. Cox still was unconscious.

Yesterday Robert Orr, III, of Nashville, Davidson County manager for Cordell Hull in his successful race for Democratic nomination for United States senator from Tennessee, testified he received $4,000 for organization work in the county from either Mr. Cox or Mr. McGinness.

Lindys Rent Farm Until Home Is Built

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has rented a furnished farmhouse near Princeton, N. J., which he and Mrs. Lindbergh will use as a home until they build on their newly-acquired property in that vicinity.

The house is small, but well-adapted for their use, the colonel said, and they will move in within a few days, the grounds are suitable for the taking-off and the landing of planes.

2 Flee Bullets in Holdup At Police Station

After two unsuccessful attempts to hold up motorists—one staged in front of North Side Police Station—two gangster bandits escaped under a hail of police bullets early today.

Two motorists reported to North Side police that two men, riding in a sedan, had attempted to hold them up in North Side streets. Patrolman Joseph Scanlon later sighted the bandit car at the Fort Wayne Station, Federal street, and emptied his revolver at the occupants. Attempts to follow the car failed.

Samuel Berman, of McDonald, Pa., said the men followed his car through North Side streets and forced it to the curb in front of the North Side Police Station at Federal and Ohio streets, and, after threatening to kill him, sped away.

A similar scene was staged with F. Scanlon, of Metropolitan street, according to a police report. Patrolman Scanlon said he saw the car after the motorist had made the complaint.

'LEGS' GAINS IN BATTLE FOR LIFE

Doctors Now Give Diamond Chance; Mystery Deepens, Miss Roberts Denied Bail

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Defying the laws of medical science Jack "Legs" Diamond not only was alive today, but reported improving. The racketeer who was shot by gunmen in the Monticello Hotel Sunday, spent a comfortable night in Polyclinic Hospital and this morning chatted freely between sips of milk.

The attending doctors said they were greatly encouraged by the improvement of Diamond and said unless pneumonia developed Diamond had a good chance to recover.

While the unexpected retreat from death's door was made by Diamond, investigation of his shooting promised to develop into another Arnold Rothstein case. One by one various clues of the police were investigated and shattered and detectives sent scouting on new theories.

PLAN NEW QUIZ

With Diamond's improvement, it was expected he would again be questioned by police in a final effort to get him to reveal his attackers. Police said they believed the racketeer knew perfectly well who shot him and why.

The latest person sought for questioning was Maxie Gordon, alias Irving Wexler, said by police to be a leader in New York's bootleg world and a racketeer of parts. He is the man Miss Marion Roberts, chorus-girl friend of Diamond, who was in an adjoining room when he was shot, said had a conference with Diamond shortly before the shooting. She said he was called "Max" and "Maxie" but police declared Maxie Gordon was the man she referred to.

Diamond's condition was so improved last night that he asked hospital attendants to open the windows of his room so he could hear the cheers as a card of boxing events was run off in nearby Madison Square Garden.

ACCOUNTS FOR TIME

Police Commissioner Mulrooney sought to extract information concerning the racketeer's shooting from Charles Entratta, formerly in partnership with Diamond. Parole Commissioner F. I. Hanscom said Entratta had accounted to him for every minute between midnight last Saturday and noon on Sunday.

Another setback was given the police pursuit of the gunmen when John Ginsberg, the Monticello manager arrested as a material witness in the felony, obtained bail. Marion Roberts was offered bail but refused it.

The offer was made her after Arthur Sleighenheimer, alias "Dutch Schultz," was called to District Attorney Crain's office for identification and examination. Sleighenheimer was questioned also concerning the mysterious death of Anna Urbas, whose weighted body was dredged out of the Harlem River several months ago. She was the sweetheart of Eugene "Bugs" Moran, the bandit who was placed carefully on the spot about the same time.

IRON-CLAD ALIBI

Salvadore Brocco also was brought into the district attorney's office for Miss Roberts to view. She could not recall having seen him before but he observed that "this was funny" because he had been up to see "Legs" in the girl's room last Friday afternoon. Brocco formerly was a chauffeur for "Legs," and accompanied the wounded racketeer on that unfortunate trip to Germany two months ago—but he knew nothing of the shooting, he said. To prove it, he offered an alibi which was so good he was turned loose.

Doumergue Visits Sultan of Morocco

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—President Doumergue, of France, walked from the battleship which brought him here to the Sultan's palace over rich carpets laid along the route from the ship. He was enthusiastically received by a great throng and delivered an address assuring France's continued re-

Advertisers Invite President to Speak

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—President Hoover was invited today to speak before the convention of the Association of National Advertisers November 10 in Washington. He took the invitation under consideration.

Singer Uses Teeth, Slipper, Fists, Fighting Police

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A young radio singer brought into play her "golden voice," fists, teeth and a slipper in an effort to prevent police from taking her to a precinct station on a charge of double parking.

She gave her name as Mrs. Shirley Ernst and described herself as "the girl with the golden voice." On her way to sing over a local radio station she stopped at a music store. When she reentered her car a policeman told her she had parked double, and insisted she go to the station.

Asserting she was "no murderer," the woman ran up the windows on her car, took a slipper in her hand and voiced her determination to stay until her husband arrived to keep an appointment. One of the policemen attempted to lower a window of the car and was bitten on the hand. Another tried to pull her from the car and was beaten with her fists and slipper.

Police reinforcements arrived at the same time the husband appeared. She then agreed to go to the station with her husband. She was released on $5 collateral, but it was too late to keep the radio appointment.

GOLF PRO WEDS VIOLA DANA

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Oct. 16.—(INS.)—A romance that started on the Broadmoor golf course here culminated yesterday with the marriage of Viola Flugarth, known to the film world as Viola Dana, and Jimmie Thomson, 21-year-old golf professional at the Broadmoor club.

It was Viola Dana's third matrimonial venture, and, although the bride is 26, according to Hollywood reports, she appeared like a mere schoolgirl at the ceremony.

Miss Dana arrived by train from Los Angeles and the couple motored to a bungalow in the foothills of Pike's Peak, which they have leased. The marriage ceremony was performed in this "love nest."

Miss Dana told friends she planned to be a "real domestic wife," and that she wanted to do all her own housework and cooking.

HEINZ OPPOSES RATE CHANGES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The H. J. Heinz Company of Pittsburgh advised the Interstate Commerce Commission today that it is opposed to the petition of certain carriers for modification of the report and findings in the eastern class rate investigation.

Asserting it is not entirely satisfied with the rates prescribed in July, the Heinz company said in view of the opportunity given carriers and shippers to submit recommendations and suggestions. "The reasonable course of procedure would be to give the rates a fair and reasonable trial."

It has been indicated that the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce would submit a protest against further revision, and would urge that the order amending the effective date from November 1 to February 1 be permitted to stand.

NEW AIR MAIL ROUTE BEGUN

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Practical operation of the new Atlanta to Los Angeles "All Weather" air mail route was a demonstrated fact today as Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and other officials, here by plane from Atlanta, reviewed the success of the first day's schedules.

The planes of Southern Air Fast Express, Inc., from Atlanta to Dallas, Dallas to Atlanta, Dallas to Los Angeles and Los Angeles to Dallas, all arrived safely yesterday with their cargoes of mail and passengers, although delayed in several instances by receptions and celebrations.

Postmaster General Brown said: "The Postoffice Department is not merely setting up a system for the movement of mails, but is trying to develop a transportation system to serve the entire nation, by carrying passengers as well as mail."

10 FIRED BY GIRL STATE OFFICIAL

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Ten employes in the State Department were dismissed tonight by Alice Lee Grosjean, new secretary of state and successor to the late James J. Bailey.

Miss Grosjean, in effecting a general reorganization of the department, retained only seven of the office personnel of 17 which served under Bailey, including R. H. Flower, assistant secretary of state.

Secretary Grosjean declined to make any comments on the dismissals. Gov. Huey P. Long likewise said he had no statement, referring all inquiries to the secretary of state.

The 10 whose services were dispensed with, effective immediately, included: Charles F. Bailey, chief of the motor vehicle license bureau, and brother of the late secretary, and Mrs. James J. Bailey, widow of Secretary Bailey.

man, takes him to deep water, and throws him in, heavily weighted down with iron, wired to his body.

Dead men, thus disposed of, tell no tales.

THE "RIOTS in Boston," with "red Communists," so called, insisting on sharing the deliberations of the American Federation of Labor, were not serious.

It is interesting to note that "red" ladies were more violent and active than the men.

One, or two of the ladies, it is said, bit and scratched policemen and refused to "act like a lady" when urged to do so by policemen. One even asked, "What do you know about a lady?"

German Pictures For Hoover Denied

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Denial was made at the White House yesterday that President Hoover had commissioned Heinrich Lauer, German artist, to paint three pictures of the village of Ellerstadt in the Palatinate. A German newspaper said he had been authorized to paint them because Mr. Hoover's ancestors were believed to have lived in that village.

3 Ex-Detectives Held in Rum Plot

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A verdict of guilty with a recommendation of mercy, was returned against three former city hall detectives, charged with having bribed custodians of the district attorney's warehouse to permit the spiriting away of 162 barrels of beer which had been seized by police raiders.

HUSBAND LOST, WIFE SUES PAIR

A suit over the alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, David McMeans, after 24 years of married life, was filed by Mrs. Katherine McManus against her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Harbath, in Common Pleas Court, in which she asked $50,000 damages. The parties live in East Pittsburgh.

Mrs. McMeans alleged the Harbaths induced her husband to leave her by lavishing attention upon him, giving him liquor to drink and taking him on long automobile trips. Mrs. McMeans said her husband was employed at night while she was employed during the day.

The McMeans were married in 1906 and lived happily, according to the suit, until April 15, 1926, when they moved into rooms on the second floor of the Harbath home. The persuasions of the Harbaths resulted in McMeans deserting her February 14, Mrs. McMeans alleged.

OFFICERS HELD IN DRY KILLING

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Two deputies were indicted for first degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. Thelma Wooten, 24-year-old mother, fatally wounded as officers fired on an automobile they suspected of running liquor.

The deputies, T. H. Sullivan and C. C. Lane, have been held here without bond since the slaying August 28.

Lane surrendered after the shooting and said he fired into the ground as the automobile passed. Sullivan also surrendered, admitting shooting at the car, but declared he believed it a liquor runner and that the driver tried to run over him.

PHILA. PAYROLL TO DROP 2,800

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—One-third of the employes on the city of Philadelphia's payroll—policemen and firemen excepted—are to be dismissed at the end of the year, according to an announcement made today by Mayor Mackay.

Mackay declared that the retrenchment will mean a saving of between $4,000,000 and $4,500,000 in the city's 1931 budget. This represents approximately 15 mills in the city real estate tax rate.

The mayor's announcement, if it is carried out, means that 2,-800 men and women will be dropped from the city payroll.

10,000 Gallons Rum Sent to Hospitals

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Ten thousand gallons of good liquor accumulated in eight years of police "dry" raiding and stored in the sub-basement of Police Station No. 16, has been ordered distributed to hospitals by Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman, acting on instructions of Federal authorities at Washington.

How Do We Do It?

We make it, we sell it— no extras anywhere.

How to Regulate CANDY eating by Children

Experts on child feeding agree that this is all wrong. As a matter of fact, the craving that children have for candy is just a natural expression of an intense bodily need. Children need quantities of energy. Candy supplies it. Candy is a splendid "quick-energy" food.

Give children candy after meals. That will satisfy craving, it will be an excellent thing for their health and will keep them from eating an excess of candy to the exclusion of other vitally necessary foods.

IN OCTOBER WE WILL NOT KNOWINGLY BE UNDERSOLD

STERN FATHER LOSES SON

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Characterizing home conditions of Sherman Bodwell, 18, of Sharon, Mass., son of Charles G. Bodwell, executive secretary of the New England Watch and Ward Society, as being marked by "too much restraint and repression," Judge Charles A. Walsh in Superior Court ordered the youth be taken out of the home of his father and placed with a man who would give "less harsh treatment and more sympathetic counsel."

The father in open court agreed to the arrangement, and Judge Walsh placed young Bodwell on probation on a charge of larceny of an automobile.

Wife and Court Keep Milkman 'In Control'

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—There are several things Milkman John Pfeiffer may not do, particularly:

He may not rattle milk bottles on the rear porch of his home in the early morning hours.

He may not use the family automobile to deliver milk.

He may sleep on the porch, but not in the house.

His wife, Charlotte, got a court injunction restraining him from the foregoing actions when she announced she had separated from him and would seek a divorce.

SLAYER OF GIRL SEEKS MERCY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Throwing himself on the mercy of Judge A. C. Southern, of the Circuit Court, Paul Kauffman, 31, entered a plea of guilty to the ruthless slaying of Avis Woolery, 17, of Webb City, Mo.

Declining to accept the plea, Judge Southern appointed S. R. Stone and Horace Kimbrell, attorneys, to confer with the slayer.

State attorneys have indicated they will demand the death penalty.

Kauffman confessed to the crime after an all-night grilling by police. He said he lured the girl here on pretense of a nursemaid position, then strangled her to death August 17 and buried her body in Swope Park.

Broadway Mourns Mayer, Veteran First Nighter

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—George Mayer, one of the last of the old-time first-nighters, who never asked for a pass in 45 years of theater going, is dead.

Mayer became a stage fan when Maurice Barrymore was in his prime and held seats No. A1 and A2 for the opening performance of every show in every important theater on Broadway for nearly half a century.

He was a bachelor and his mother accompanied him to premieres until she died in 1928. Then he went alone.

CARNEGIE ART EXHIBITION OPENS

a growth not yet complete. The United States gives the air of nurturing a great many talents. None stands [illegible] to ravish the eye. The serious art of Alexander Brook is present and the flip naivety of a Vaughn Flannery, and a new classicism in the work of Millard Sheets.

PORTRAIT SHOWS POWER

Great Britain makes its adventures by concealing subjects fundamentally eighteenth century and traditional, by an overlay of exotic hocus-pocus. One painter's work in Great Britain is distinguished above the mass, that of Matthew Smith. The Augustus John portrait of Dr. Streseman shows us John's power when he meets up with a subject worthy of his attention.

The French group is in itself a separate exhibition. Assurance is the characteristic quality of this division. Whether one's taste be for the glamorous impressionism of a Henri Martin or for the grave abstractions of a Braque, or for the humorous intimations of Edouard Goerg, there is a conviction that every one of the artists knows his way about in painting.

The German section of painting is the best we have had at Carnegie Institute. Liebermann, veteran of the earliest internationals, is present in person in a self portrait. Karl Hofer, whose paintings engaged the curiosity by ingratiating candor, has a noble landscape in "Bellinzona." Max Kaus has a macabre combination in "Apple Blossoms before a Negro Shield," daring in its color.

EXHIBITION STYLE

The Spanish section with its predominance of figure subjects is pitched to exhibition style. The canvases, disregarding the modern trend towards the small and the compact, are painted for great houses or museums. Few apartment "pieces" are included in the Spanish group. Anglada and Solana in their dignified genre paintings, Junyer in his strange evocations of life in the Baleric Islands, Pruna with his innocent elegance, and Diaz with his majestic portraits, form the nucleus of a collection that is probably the best exhibition material in the whole international.

The Italian section presents no such concerted effort. There are superior paintings, as "The Fisherman," by Montanari. There are paintings that confuse the eye bent on attaining immediate familiarity, as "The Young Heracles" by Giorgio de Chirico. The hearty old days of romantic gusto are sung by Mancini. The group, however, lacks the cohesion that has made it one of the foremost in the last few Internationals.

The Russian section, the first to come directly from U. S. S. R., while numbering but 15 paintings, adds a bright accent to the collection. Pimenov, with the mysterious genre, "Berlin, West," Kouznetzoff with his Crimean pastorals so joyous in color, and Petroff-Vodkine with his peasant women in azure and scarlet, have an irresistible grace.

OPEN TO PUBLIC TODAY

The Swiss and Dutch painters, hung near the Russian, have but slight interest for the gallery wayfarer. The paintings from Poland and Czecho-Slovakia are chiefly of religious and of peasant subjects.

The other three nationalities represented—Austria, Scandinavia and Belgium—have painters of compelling power, such as Sterrer, Fjaested and Paerels, respectively. The majority of these contributions must sadly be catalogued as trite.

The Carnegie International will be open to the public today directly after the Founders' Day exercises and will continue through December 7.

2 Held for Theft, Samaritan Victim

Harold Prescott, 24, and his brother, Joseph, 28, of Chicago, were committed to jail for investigation by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today. Detectives testified that they had stolen $16 and a watch from Michael Walasik, 803 Bell avenue, East Carnegie, a friend, when he took them in until they could find work.

Fake Realty Sales Laid to Prisoner

He was arrested yesterday at the Miller Realty Company's office, 112 Federal street, when he tried to sell a pop factory in McKeesport.

Banker Found Shot, Victim of Robbers

ENID, Okla., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—George Taft, vice president of the Farmers State Bank of Garber, was found last night lying at the roadside by his parked automobile with two bullet wounds in his body. Officers who brought the unconscious man to a hospital expressed belief he was the victim of robbers.

17-Story Building Under Way in China

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—What is said will be the tallest building in China, a 17-story apartment structure in the heart of the residential district, is under construction in Shanghai. The ground floor will house a talking motion picture theater.

OIL-ELECTRIC ENGINE TO ERIE

A "twin six" oil-electric locomotive left the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company plant at East Pittsburgh yesterday to be delivered to the Erie Railroad. The locomotive is to be used between Youngstown and Dayton. It is able to attain a maximum speed of 85 miles an hour and to maintain a cruising speed of 70 miles.

The car weighs nearly a hundred tons. It is divided into three sections and measures 75 feet in length. The forward section contains the motors and generators, the center the mail and the third the baggage. It can maintain a speed of more than 50 miles per hour while pulling four 40-ton trailers.

SACRIFICE WINS ARMY $100 GIFT

Because the Salvation Army workers omitted their campaign dinner this year to help raise the $112,900 needed to carry on relief work for another year, they have received a contribution of $100. A note accompanying the contribution said it was made in appreciation of the fact that the organization found it possible to conduct a campaign without expending money for dinners.

Only three days remain in the emergency week of the campaign. There is still $54,505 to be raised. The campaign originally was scheduled for the first 12 days of October, but it was necessary to extend it another week.

Here's good news

lessens shaving irritation

MEN with tender skin discovered this luxury shave. They found that after it their faces felt cool and smooth, and that their razors never pulled. They passed the idea on to their friends, and now there's quite a group of "Vaseline" shavers. They are not all men with tender skins and tough beards, either. ANY man's face, normal or sensitive, shows its gratitude for this simple, soothing treatment.

Wouldn't you like to join this comfort club? Membership is open. All you have to do is spread a thin film of "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly over the beard before you shave. Lather as usual. Your razor strokes quicker and closer and your face looks and feels better. The Jelly heals any little nicks or scratches, too, and softens dry or chapped skin.

Try it once and you'll never shave without "Vaseline" Jelly. You can buy it in jars or tubes at all good drug stores.

Squirrel Coats

Of Clear Blue-Gray Skins

Clear, dark blue-gray skins, without one rusty streak to mar their perfection . . . that is the first point which makes these coats such wonderful values at the price.

Other points of superiority are the gratifying depth of the fur, the luxurious styles of the coats, and their dependable linings of rich crepe-back satin.

There are three models. The one pictured, with gorgeous collar which makes it adaptable to evening as well as daytime wear . . . Another model with the same cuffs and a deep cape collar . . . And a third model with medium-size collar and cuffs, suited to shorter figures . . . Sizes 14 to 38.

Dressy Frocks

Smart Ones for Women

$25

A good-looking dress at this price may be one of the new chiffon ones with flowing sleeves and velvet-ribbon trimming, like the one pictured. . . . In black, wine, bluglory or brown.

. . . It may be a frock of black chiffon with brightly embroidered sleeves.

. . . Perhaps a black lace ensemble. If for an afternoon function that is to be immediately followed by a restaurant dinner, then a sleeveless black lace frock with a deep shoulder capelet.

. . . Or a velvet dress in black, wine, green, brown or dark blue. Of plain velvet, or of velvet broche combined with chiffon . . . Or a velvet ensemble, with dinner blouse of lace.

RULES

Proper nouns, slang and words that offend good taste cannot be used. SCORING: The first and last letters of each word do not count as strokes. A longer or shorter word can be substituted, but at a penalty. If a longer word is used, each letter above par counts as a stroke; if a shorter word is used, each letter under par counts as a stroke. If players cannot insert a suitable word, add 3 strokes to par for hole and proceed to next hole.

The solution to this puzzle can be found on page 28.

'SQUIRE HELD IN STILL RAID

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 16.—John De Gardeyn, justice of the peace at Point Marion, named as the former owner of a bootleg distillery on the Geisler farm, Dunbar Township, was held for court in $3,000 bail, charged with violating the dry laws, after a hearing before Alderman Robert Wright.

Joseph Hart, recently arrested in Wilkes-Barre, after being a fugitive for a year, testified that the plant, operated from April, 1928, until May, 1929, had an output of 100 gallons daily. The liquor was shipped to Point Marion and held for the West Virginia trade, he said. Hart was to become part owner of the plant after all bills for its equipment had been paid, he said.

JUDGE RESIGNS IN LANCASTER

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Judge Charles I. Landis, 73, of this city, one of the oldest judges in point of service in Pennsylvania, announced he had forwarded his resignation to Gov. Fisher at Harrisburg. While the judge did not say when the resignation would become effective, it was generally supposed here it would be November 1. He will be 74 years of age next month.

Judge Landis has been on the Lancaster County bench since 1899 and last year was elected for his fourth consecutive term of 10 years.

Cuba Protests Film As 'Libel' of Island

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Dr. Jose T. Baron, Cuban charge d'affairs has asked officials of this government to take necessary steps to have all reference to Cuba stricken from the current film entitled "Her Man" and purporting to be a dramatic picture of life in Havana's underworld.

At the same time, O. R. Strackbein, former assistant American trade commissioner in Havana, told C. J. North, chief of the motion picture division of the Department of Commerce, that the picture constituted a libel against one of the cleanest and best policed cities in the Western Hemisphere.

WELFARE DRIVE PROGRESS SEEN

Organization of public affairs and private business offices and industrial plants in a cohesive drive to raise the budget set for the Welfare Fund is progressing rapidly, headquarters of the fund report.

The campaign for $1,520,248 opens November 12. Increases in the budget from last year were made necessary by lack of employment and the admission of eight new welfare agencies, officials announced.

A luncheon meeting of District 9, employe division of the fund, was held to discuss organization plans. Dr. L. B. Bernstein is chairman of the district.

Organization of the public affairs group will be supervised as follows: City government, John S. Herron; county government, Joseph Mackrell; Federal government, Dr. Henry R. Brown; state government, F. J. Mitchell; hospitals, Mrs. J. E. Roth; city schools, Dr. Ben G. Graham; Carnegie Institute of Technology, Dr. Thomas S. Baker; Pennsylvania College for Women, Dr. Cora Coolidge; University of Pittsburgh, Chancellor J. G. Bowman; Shadyside Academy, H. A. Nomer; social and welfare agencies, Miss M. Flower.

Cement Production Decline Reported

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—September production of Portland cement was reported by the Bureau of Mines to have decreased 6.4 per cent as compared with September, 1929. Shipments for the same month were 9.4 per cent lower than in the corresponding month last year.

Production in September, 1929, in the Ohio, Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia district totaled 1,919,000 barrels as against 1,873,000 barrels in September, 1930.

The Extra Cough Help Extra In Power And Price

Creomulsion is a super-help for coughs from colds. It is for deep coughs where you dare not risk a weak help. Seven major helps are embodied in it, including the best known to medical science.

The creosote is blended, emulsified and palatable. It is to soothe the membranes and combat the germs. It presents the world's best help for coughs of this kind in a pleasant form.

There are white pine tar, wild cherry bark, menthol, ipecac, etc. All the greatest helps in one, but with no narcotic. Despite all its power and efficiency, it is harmless to a child.

Some coughs call for one help, some another. Nobody can tell. So we combine the best in Creomulsion to be safe.

Creomulsion costs $1.25—a little more than lesser helps. But all druggists guarantee it and return the full price to anyone not satisfied.

It may be too good for your cough. A lesser help might serve. But is it wise to take the risk when coughs are danger signals? Anyway, a cough from a cold which hangs on calls for this super-help. Do the best men know, to be sure.

SCHWAB TELLS JOBLESS CURE

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The cure for unemployment lies in the science laboratories of the world, Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, said in dedicating the new James Ward Packard laboratory of electrical and mechanical engineering at Lehigh University.

After paying tribute to Packard, whom he said had "established a fortune through the application of science to every-day uses," Schwab declared that that fortune "in turn is reinvested to develop brain power." The laboratory he described as "a crucible of science" in an age when "the expansion of scientific knowledge and method is the outstanding development."

Turning to the relation of science and invention to employment, the Bethlehem Corporation executive said:

"No one has benefited more than the common laborer from our laboratories. Not only has labor gained with respect to better working conditions, but likewise wages have more than doubled and are at levels considerably ahead of the increase in the cost of living."

Waynesburg Lodge Of I. O. O. F. Elects

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—William J. White has been named noble grand of Waynesburg Lodge 469, I. O. O. F., for the coming year, to succeed Roy L. Corwin. Other officers named were: Hestel Huffman, vice grand; Ross Phillips, treasurer, and John Bryan, secretary.

MISS EARHART DISINHERITED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Amelia Earhart, nationally known aviatrix, was omitted from the will of her father, Edwin S. Earhart, it was revealed when the document was filed for probate.

The estate, valued at $5,000, was left to the widow, Helen M. Earhart, stepmother of the girl flier.

N. Y. Firm to Sell German Coal in U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Burns Brothers, coal dealers, announced that they have arranged with the Hockelhovener Coal Company, one of the largest producers of anthracite in Germany, for the exclusive sale of its coal in the United States and Canada.

Sanders Wertheim, president of Burns Brothers, said the arrangement would relieve his company of the necessity of purchasing large sizes of coal to obtain the small sizes most in demand.

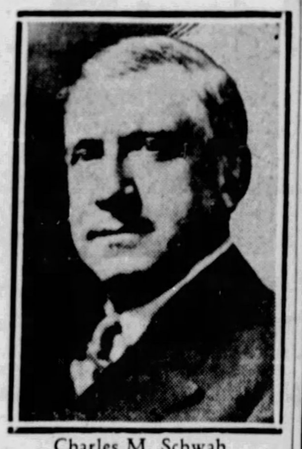
"These Are the Happiest Hours of My Life"

Says Charles M. Schwab in Address at Nicollet Hotel.

"On our large estate at Loretta we have built a replica of our first little home. My wife and I often go there. She prepares the evening meal; I help with the dishes. Afterwards I play the piano for perhaps two hours. These are the happiest hours of our lives."



Charles M. Schwab

What a tribute to Home . . . to Music! And how providential that both these agencies of Happiness are easily within reach of any family that hungers for a closer family fellowship, a retreat from the world of work and worry, a larger and more satisfying kind of happiness!

Let your Piano be a good one; that is, let it be the kind that will endure through the years. It need not cost a great deal of money, but it should be sweet and pure of tone, beautiful to see, and time-tested for durability. 66 MILES ON 1 GALLON? NEW AUTO GAS SAVER

Walter Critchlow, 2291-A Street, Wheaton, Ill., has patented a new Damp Air Gas Saver for all autos.

This invention uses the moisture principle that makes engines run better in the cool evening. New Fords report up to 40 miles on 1 gallon; old Fords up to 44 miles; other makes report up to ¼ to ½ gain.

Mr. Critchlow wants County and State Agencies to make $250.00 to $1,000.00 a month. Write him today for his 1 free to introduce offer.

EDNA HOPPER HOME TO ACT

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Edna Wallace Hopper, who is 65 years old, according to the books, and has a "heart of a girl", according to the doctors, returned on the liner Homeric to take another whirl at vaudeville with her young dancing partner, Ferdinand Grip.

Miss Hopper said that she hoped to appear soon in an acrobatic act, but that American managers would have to be convinced that she can "do her stuff." She weighs 92 pounds, she said, and physicians at Vichy, France, recently pronounced her health perfect.

GETS 9½ YEARS IN WORKHOUSE

Andrew Mason, Negro, 35, of Monessen, today began serving a 9½ to 20 years term, one of the longest workhouse sentences ever imposed in Allegheny County.

Visiting Judge Charles M. Culver, of Bradford County, imposed the sentence after Mason had declared himself to be a big racketeer, saying he operated a booze and lottery business in Westmoreland County and was planning to establish a branch in Allegheny County.

Mason was sentenced on three charges of highway robbery. He was arrested by Clairton police, September 11, after a gun battle in which two other men escaped. It was charged that three persons had been held up at the point of guns, the men who escaped covering the victims while Mason collected their valuables.

German Zoo to Get Rare, Puzzling Animals

BOMBAY.—(INS.)—The latest zoological riddle is now en route to Germany. Found in New Guinea by Herr Kibler, the German naturalist, it is an animal two feet long which:

Has a bird-like bill,
Spines like a porcupine,
A pouch like a kangaroo's,
Lives underground like a mole,
Lays eggs, but suckles its young, and yet
Adapts itself to temperature like a reptile.

Herr Kibler has sailed from Bombay for Europe, taking with him four specimens of this very rare creature, the first ever to be conveyed to Germany.

A mass of contradictions, these incongruous bird-mammal-reptiles have only one thing that is altogether appropriate—their name. They are called zroechidnae nicrosculata.

$30,000 RAISED FOR CHURCH

More than $33,000 of a $75,000 bond issue was subscribed at the annual roll call dinner of members of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church of Dormont last night. This is the first public offering of the $75,000 issue. The bonds are second mortgage, 6% gold bonds, issued to help finance the building of the new edifice now nearing completion.

The church already has provided $150,000 to erect the new building. The sale of bonds was conducted under the direction of the Rev. Edward Bleakney, pastor. There were 300 of the 800 members present and the sale of more than one-third the issue of bonds was more than had been expected.

The Rev. Dr. George W. Shilton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh was the speaker. He declared this is no time to hoard money and that it should be poured out for a good cause.

Mother Saves Two From Burning Home

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 16.—Awakened by the crackling of flames, Mrs. M. A. Mando, wife of a barber at Melcroft, saved the lives of her two children before the house was destroyed.

Using her bare hands to smash the glass window panes, she lifted the children through them and climbed to safety herself.

Blaze in Mountain Woodlands Quelled

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 16.—A forest fire destroyed 35 acres of brush and young timber in the mountains above Fairchance between Haydentown and White House. Forty men under direction of John C. Beatty, state forest fire inspector, fought the blaze six hours before it was brought under control.

$600,000 Bellevue Bond Issue Approved

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—James F. Woodward, secretary of internal affairs, has approved these bond issues:

Brownsville, Fayette County, $12,000 to pay borough's share of reconstructing highway, and Bellevue Borough School District, Allegheny County, $150,000 and $450,000 for addition to school and erection of another building.

INDUSTRY GAIN REPORTED HERE

Slight increases in industrial activities and employment in the Pittsburgh district during September were announced today by the United States Department of Labor.

The electrical equipment and accessories manufacturing plants were cited as operating near capacity, while boat building was reported active. Improved conditions were found in the New Castle tinplate mills through increased activities.

Several units of iron and steel mills showed increases though the department reported the general level of production and employment was still below level, with part-time employment quite general. Bituminous coal activities and employment improved slightly. A slightly upward trend was found in the state in all industry with slight increase in demands for skilled labor.

MOTOR LICENSE BLANKS IN MAIL

Two million application forms for 1931 license plates have been mailed from Harrisburg, 300,000 of them coming to automobile owners of Allegheny County, it was announced today.

Motorists who do not receive their application blanks by the end of this week are advised by the touring bureau of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, in the William Penn Hotel, to fill out forms for the application blanks at the club headquarters. The new tags will be legal for use December 15, according to Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles.

Eynon said the new tags will be the same as the 1930 plates and will be mailed to the owners as soon after November 1 as the fees ar received by the bureau.

Hospital Benefits By Week's Campaign

Contributions and tag day receipts to the Suburban General Hospital, Bellevue, in observance of "hospital week" in the North Boroughs netted $2,500 cash and 1,000 glasses of jelly and preserves, according to Mrs. Nellie Robertson, chairman of the women's advisory board.

A military funeral will be held Friday by the 107th Field Artillery, N. G. P., for Dr. Nicholas Reitpeiss Rethy, brother of the Rev. John Rethy, of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, McKeesport, who died yesterday in the West Penn Hospital of lobar pneumonia.

Dr. Rethy

Dr. Reitpeiss Rethy, who completed his medical studies in Hungary, came to this country five years ago. Beside his brother he leaves his mother, Mrs. Ida Reitpeiss Rethy, of McKeesport, and a sister, Mrs. Lucy Zsamboky, of Youngstown, O.

He will be buried from the home of his brother at Evans and Beacon streets, McKeesport, following a requiem high mass in St. Stephen's Church.

BRIDGE-FERRY ROW REOPENED

The trade war between W. H. Williams, owner of a suspension footbridge over Jacobs Creek, near West Newton, and Daniel Farkas, owner of an aerial cable ferry, was aired again today before the Public Service Commission.

Williams' application for a certificate of public convenience, previously refused, was resubmitted and was opposed by Farkas.

Williams, as trustee of the Jacobs Creek Improvement Association, also seeks to have Farkas enjoined from operating his ferry.

Testimony disclosed that while the Jacobs Creek Ferry Company had once been stricken from the books of the auditor general it later had been registered.

Commissioner Samuel Walker heard the testimony.

French Give Edge Official Sendoff

PARIS, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—French and American friends gathered to see Ambassador and Mrs. Walter E. Edge off today on the boat train for Havre to embark for New York on the Ile De France. The French government was represented by Jacques Grassin, of the ministry of commerce, who has been intimately associated with the ambassador in consideration of economic and commercial questions.

WELSH BURIAL TOMORROW

Funeral services for Edward F. Welsh, 61, business agent for the Pittsburgh Building Trades Council, who died Tuesday at his home, 376 Lehigh avenue, will be held tomorrow morning in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Shady avenue. Interment will be in St. Marys Cemetery.

Mr. Welsh has lived all his life in Pittsburgh. He has been a member of the plumbers' union for 41 years, serving his apprenticeship with the Weldon-Kelly Company. The first Building Trades Council elected him business agent in 1903.

Mr. Welsh served as business agent for the plumbers' union for 20 years, and for the trades council for the last three years. During the World War he was vice president of the State Federation of Labor.

Congressman Pays, Larceny Case Ends

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The warrant charging larceny by bailee on the part of Congressman Stanley H. Kunz, of the Eighth Illinois District, was withdrawn by Mrs. Anna Rogal. Mrs. Rogal said Kunz had repaid her the $850 she accused him of having retained illegally.

Dr. Hardee Chambliss

Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University

Eminent International Scientist and Noted Educator

says: "I have tested 33 dentifrices with reference to cleansing qualities . . . Colgate's is greatest."

Dr. Hardee Chambliss

Dean of School of Sciences, Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.; noted internationally as a scientist; member of the American Chemical Society; American Institute of Chemical Engineers; Society Chemical Industry of England; Chemistry Society of London, and other leading associations.

DR. HARDEE CHAMBLISS, Dean of School of Sciences, Catholic University, Washington, D. C., says: "I have tested and compared thirty-three different dentifrices with reference to their cleansing qualities. I find Colgate's not only cleans the surfaces safely, but also because of its very effective wetting power and low surface tension (penetrating foam) it has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, flooding away decaying food particles. Other dentifrices, because they are sluggish, lack this power.

Hardee Chambliss

DOESN'T it impress you to know that this noted authority made a scientific analysis of 33 different dentifrices? He exhaustively tested each one for cleansing properties. Studied their action—noted their effect. His opinion is based on his findings.

Colgate's, he discovered, has greater ability than other dentifrices to get down into tiny crevices and fissures of the teeth, where pasty, sluggish dentifrices do not reach.

He found that Colgate's has the unique power of flooding away decaying particles of food, which, hidden away in these tiny crevices, cause the greatest trouble. Thus leaving hidden, as well as exposed surfaces thoroughly and healthfully clean.

And wouldn't it impress you still more to know that agreeing with Dr. Chambliss are such eminent authorities as Doctors Shirley W. Wynne, Commissioner of Health, New York City, and H. H. Bunzell, Ph.D., University of Chicago, and other prominent authorities, who were retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions?

Impressive, too, is the fact that for more than 30 years more people have used Colgate's than any other dentifrice.

This low price is made possible only because more people use Colgate's than any other dentifrice—and have for 30 years.

ADDING to Milady's beauty has become one of the nation's major industries. Today there are salons and parlors where expert hands tend to the setting of Madame's coiffure, where agile fingers knead Madame's face in an invigorating massage, where scientific preparations renew the beauty of the hungry skin. It is all-important that you seek out the more reliable of these shops. That you entrust your greatest asset—beauty—to experienced hands. Thus, we suggest that you patronize those establishments who advertise in the Sun-Telegraph. Their reputation is solid. They are the masters of their profession. So that you may easily use their messages as a guide, we have grouped them every Sunday in the Society Section of the Sun-Telegraph. In these masseurs, barbers and beauticians you may place the utmost confidence. They are Sun-Telegraph advertisers, and are endorsed by the Sun-Telegraph.

"Caesar's Water Hazard."

It appears that upon his victorious return from one of his numerous campaigns Caesar became ambitious and decided it was time for him to become head man in Rome. So he schemed with his friend and ally, Antony, to make a speech before the senate, which they calculated if allowed to run long enough would permit Antony to put Caesar in a favorable light with the populace. The rule of the senate was, however, that no one could talk for more than 30 minutes, the time being measured by a sand glass. So Caesar and Antony arranged to wet the sand, thereby slowing its flow. What happened when they did will climax the playlet. The role of Caesar will be played by Charles Webster, Reginald Barlow will be Pompey, Antony will be portrayed by John Knight.

COLDS

Here's how most people avoid them

At the first sign of a cold coming on, take two Grove's Laxative BROMO QUININE Tablets. Then take two more every two or three hours. More people, by millions, check and prevent colds this way than by any other method.

Its popularity comes from its merit!

ITCHING ENDS WHEN ZEMO TOUCHES SKIN

—thousands say. It's wonderful the way soothing, cooling Zemo brings relief to skin which itches and burns. Even in most severe cases, itching disappears almost as soon as Zemo touches the tender and inflamed surface. To draw out local infection and help to clear away unsightly blemishes, we know of nothing better than invisible Zemo. Always keep this family antiseptic on hand. Use it freely. DO YOU KNOW—

THAT the Red Arrow Quartet spends five hours a day rehearsing for radio concerts?

THAT violins in the A. & P. Gypsies' Orchestra are valued at $14,000?

THAT there are more than 3,000 musical scores in the KDKA library?

THAT Ed Sprague, the radio tenor, is conceded by many local critics to have a voice superior to most of those heard on the networks?

THAT the Warner Company intends to spend $20,000,000 in perfecting a national network?

THAT Leonard Joy, director of the Coco Cola Orchestra, was called "Bones" when he attended Dartmouth University? He was so thin, his classmates said, that he rattled when he walked.

BERLIN SPECIAL

Frank Weis tells us that the Philco Rangers, KDKA Sunday night at 9:15, are to offer a special arrangement of Irving Berlin's beautiful waltz, "Just a Little While." Sez Frank:

—"All the sincerity of 'Always,' the reminiscence of 'Remember, the finality of 'I Can't Do Without You,' and the pathos of 'Roses of Yesterday' have been brought together for 'Just a Little While.'"

The arrangement was prepared exclusively for the Rangers by Miss Mabel Pearl, of New York, whose arrangements of "Confessin'" and "My Bluebird Was Caught in the Rain" featured recent Philco Ranger programs.

AUDITION WINNERS

Girls — Charlotte Shallenberger, 23, soprano, Springdale, who sang "Adieu Forets;" second, Mabel Fiscus, 18, soprano, Indiana, "Jocelyn;" Betty Gumpper, 20, soprano, Butler, "Still as the Night." But eight votes separated Miss Fiscus and Miss Gumpper.

Boys—Jack Hoyes, 18, baritone, Belle Vernon, who sang "Two Grenadiers," by Schuman; Seldon E. Marsh, 21, bass, Erie, "Friend O'Mine," by Sanderson.

How near were you right?

Miss Shallenberger and Mr. Hoyes go to New York in November to represent Western Pennsylvania in the Eastern finals.

THE FULL TRUTH ABOUT THE SENSATIONAL CRIME THAT HORRIFIED THE WHOLE WORLD

YOU gasped in amazement as the sordid but fascinating romance of the little corset salesman with the tigerishly beautiful Ruth Snyder, and the eerie murder of her cultured husband—was blared in screaming headlines to a waiting world.

And yet—and mark this . . . despite the millions of words of publicity given this sensational case, not one person in a thousand knows the FULL TRUTH, the truth that couldn't be told at the time.

Why did a certain man tell the police that Ruth Snyder was a "hot mama," and what did he know of her amatory escapades? What were the articles in the notorious "little black bag" that the erring wife carried to her clandestine "love-meetings" at the Waldorf Hotel? And what made the calm temptress finally "talk turkey" to Lt. Smith? These are only a few of the never-told secrets. . .

At the time the papers would not or could not print all the absorbing details in this strange saga of passion run riot! But now for the first time it is told to you, in every uncensored episode—the FULL TRUTH of the Snyder-Gray Murder Case!

Read for yourself this avidly interesting recital of TRUE STORIES—as told by the man who knew everything, the brilliant Asst. District Attorney who tracked down the clues. You'll find it thrillingly told, startlingly told—beginning in the great November issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES, now on sale at all news stands. Don't miss it!

WILLIAM J. BURNS SOLVES HIS GREATEST CASES...

In a great scoop, TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES secures a brilliant series of famous detective cases, as solved by the Master Mind among sleuths, William J. Burns.

The first—"The Strange Death of Julia Wilkins," appears in the November issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES.

To you who thrill to ingenious tracking down of vague clues, of super-intelligent straightening of conflicting stories and appearances, of masterly solving of maddening mysteries—don't fail to read this great mysterious crime of "the dates that were ringed with Death." The Mysteries of the "6th Seal" Cult Bared!

What was the awe-inspiring "6th Seal"? What was the meaning of the seven dead pups placed beside the unburied body of beautiful Willa Rhoads? With questions like these from furious dupes—the Los Angeles police "Bunco" squad got busy. And their investigations laid bare one of the most weird, outrageous cults ever designed to mulct the deluded.

Don't miss this remarkable TRUE story of Love and Hate, Life and Death, Superstition and Greed. Fascinatingly told by the detective in charge on the case—complete in the November issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES.

The "Resurrection" Mystery of Kentucky's Ghost Girl

It couldn't have happened—but it did! Waylaid by a criminal assaulter, her body left in a mine-pit, a man sentenced to life imprisonment on the word of an "eye-witness" to the crime—yet months later pretty Mary Vickery was "resurrected," appeared in her own home again!

Whose, then, was the body in the mine-pit? And why was Mary Jackson, red-haired town girl, so vindictively energetic in framing a man she "loved"?

Read the thrilling and sensational denouement of this remarkable TRUE happening, complete in the stirring November issue of TRUE DETECTIVE MYSTERIES.

13 Million Sets In United States

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16—(AP.)—Radio receiving sets in use in the United States on July 1 were estimated by the Commerce Department today at 13,478,600.

New York, with 1,752,000, had the largest number. California was second with 1,470,000 sets, or more than several states which exceed her in population.

Other state totals were: Illinois, 1,060,000; Pennsylvania, 977,000; Ohio, 845,000; Massachusetts, 656,000; Michigan, 627,000, and New Jersey, 453,000.

The Loudspeaker

Athletes Timid.
Baseball Yarns.
Fighters Lucid.
Audition Experts.

—By LOUIS REID—

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Of all the vast army of speakers heard occasionally on the radio, none is more microphone-conscious than the athlete. Oblivious to the crowd when he is performing in the arena, the athlete has only to be introduced on the air to become panicky and inarticulate.

Louis Reid

Members of the Athletics and Cardinals were led to the microphone the other night to tell of the highlights of the recent series. A nation cocked its ear, but all it heard was the usual Alphonse-Gaston guff, conscious self-depreciation and consciously honeyed tributes to opponents. Listeners strained their ears for a breath of human interest, for a good story told in the colorful lingo of the diamond, but they were given only little set pieces expressed in the spirit of a testimonial banquet.

It was, as the boys still say, just too bad. The players might have least lived up to the enthusiastic ballyhoo which preceded their talks. They might have least have imbibed some of the zest and vigor of Nathaniel Shilkret's orchestra—one of the most stimulating bands on the air. The ear-cuppers were told that Mickey Cochrane would divulge the nature of his temporary difference with Burleigh Grimes. Here would be something good. The divans would at least hear what ball players say to each other in the heat of battle, the snarling wisecracks, the picturesque insults. Mickey left them flat. He merely said that he and Grimes had had words and had made up and that they would resume hostilities next fall.

Great Baseball Yarns Yet to Be Aired

The great episodes of the diamond, the color and drama not only of the World Series, but of the regular games throughout the season have yet to be told on the air. Some day the radio rulers will ferret out the bright historian and there will be a rich and fruity hour in the armchairs.

I have a notion John McGraw or Ty Cobb or Billy Evans, the umpire, could do it, could tell tales of the training camp, of Pullman rides, of clubhouse incidents, of diamond goat-getting, of inside plays of the characters of the players of a thousand myriad details that make up the game of baseball. There ought to be more room for human interest.

Prizefighters are a little more human in their radio greetings. They may be sentimental, they may want the world to know that they are thinking of home and mother, but their salutations at least are without affectation. Nor do they stall for words. A gasping word of cheer and they are gone to the counting house. Some of the football coaches, too, are direct and forceful on the radio, though the majority of them, like others in the world of sports who are heard on the air, pull their punches. The practice of weasel-wording is all too prevailing on the air.

When the maharajash of the microphone will dispatch Clem McCarthy to Chicago to describe 10 minutes of the Hawthorne Gold Cup stakes it shows what importance hoss racing has reached on the radio. The best sports broadcasts this summer have been the hoss races that have been aired from Louisville, Chicago, Saratoga and the Greater New York tracks. And the most thrilling of them all was the Travers stakes at Saratoga when Jim Dandy, the 100-to-1 shot, leaped across the line in front of Gallant Fox.

The most rapidly-aging people on the broadcasting payrolls are those in charge of auditions or would-be radio stars. Many and varied are the programs which applicants offer to the monarchs of the microphone. Recently an operatic tenor submitted a program to Columbia officials of Italian songs in Finnish. The answer was a courteous but an emphatic "no." Such a musical circumlocution would have been utterly valueless to almost everyone except a Finn.

"Will you marry him for $10,000 a year?"

AN AMAZING PROPOSITION! Had any girl ever been faced by such a problem?

"Marry Stacey Ven, and I will give you ten thousand dollars a year until I die."

What should she do? Money could not buy love. But it could buy comfort, security, all the luxuries she had never had. Since her father's death, she had been practically penniless. Dare she risk this loveless marriage?

She was tempted. But all at once her romantic nature rebelled against the thought of being sold on the auction block.

"I'm not for sale!" she cried.

But he forced her to take five thousand dollars. "Keep this on account," he said. "Tomorrow you will think differently. Then let me know your decision . . ."

Before the next day, however, a startling chain of circumstances had swept her into the maelstrom of a strange murder mystery and a romantic adventure—with a total stranger!

Read what happened in Philippa Preston's thrilling new novel "Her Midnight Visitor" which begins in the October 18th issue of Love Story Magazine. Don't miss this story of a girl who made a startling decision in love and risked everything to help a fascinating stranger.

What are your love problems?

Suppose you fell in love with a man and later found out he was married—what would you do? Suppose your sweetheart left you—how could you win him back? These are the kind of problems that Laura Alston Brown answers every week in her helpful department "The Friend in Need". Do you want to be popular—more attractive? Whatever problems are worrying you—Mrs. Brown is ready to aid you at all times.

Many throbbing stories in October 18 issue

"Not Free To Marry" by Irene Taylor—Every bit of happiness that Laurel ever knew had come from Barbara, her dearest friend. Then, when they both fell in love with the same man, she planned a strange sacrifice.

"Fate Steps In" by Adelaide Humphries—Cheated by life and love, she felt that there was only one way out for her—suicide. But fate stepped in and made her a partner in a strange romance.

"Bride Of Fate" by Maria Lerneda Vernwood is a thrilling novelette. You'll enjoy "In Case Of Accident", "Jasmine", "Hearts And Horns", "Love Can Move Mountains", and Vera Franklin's serial novel "The Street Of False Steps". Get your copy of Love Story Magazine today.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

MAN SHOT OVER 50-CENT DEBT

William Pratt, 27, a Negro, of 403 Grove street, was in Passavant Hospital and Charles Green, 36, Negro storekeeper, of 124 Elm street, was in the Center avenue police station today as a result, police said, of a shooting last night in Green's store.

An argument over a 50-cent debt prompted Green, according to police, to shoot Pratt in the left arm with a shotgun. Physicians at the hospital today expressed belief that the arm would have to be amputated.

U. S. WORKERS HEAR HEAVEY

Col. John W. Heavey, area co-ordinator of several branches of the Federal government in West Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, was to address a special luncheon of the Pittsburgh Federal Business Association at noon today in the Chamber of Commerce.

W. S. Brotzman, weather forecaster, is president of the local association, the aim of which is the co-ordination of all governmental activities under one head. C. C. Carroll, Bureau of internal revenue, is secretary.

Cowboy Vet Finds Bride at Legion Convention

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Charles J. Flynn, cowpuncher from Yuma, Ariz., came out of the west last week to attend the national convention of the American Legion. Now he is on his way back home with a bride.

In the course of his convention wanderings, Flynn fas the guest of a local legion post. An appetite not uncommon to cowboys urged him to partake of a midnight snack at a restaurant. He met Miss Margaret Clark, a waitress.

The couple were married in Nashua, N. H., and plan to hitch-hike the 2,000 miles across the continent to Arizona. They will make their home on the ranch where Flynn is employed.

ARGUE CROSSING ABOLITION

Abolition of the Chestnut street grade crossing on the National pike, in Washington, Pa., is sought in a petition heard by Commissioner Samuel Walker, of the Public Service Commission, yesterday. The pike is one of the oldest highways in the country.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Pittsburgh Railways Company, opposing the removal, declared the change would necessitate the relocation of 1,200 feet of track.

The change would cost $261,000 for the physical work and $32,000 for property damages, the commissioner was told. Last Labor Day, according to John W. Warrick, who brought the action, 10,000 autos were driven over the crossing.

The road was in existence before the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was constructed.

There May be Poison in your Intestines!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and brightness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh, laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The great difference it will make in your feelings over night will convince you of its merit.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the largest selling laxative in druggists everywhere.

ENDORSES NEW COD LIVER OIL TABLETS

Good Housekeeping Says This Method Provides Needed Vitamins

Cod liver oil has now been transformed into tablets without losing any of its vitamin content, the food and drug experts of Good Housekeeping Institute declare.

Think what this means to mothers of thin, underweight children! Heretofore, when doctors prescribed cod liver oil to build up a child, mothers had to give the child nasty-tasting cod liver oil in liquid form. How children hated it. Many spit it out. Others—actually sick!

Now all that has been ended. McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets are now available to all. Tasteless, convenient, safe for the most delicate digestion. Everywhere mothers are saying good-bye to the messy old-fashioned bottle and spoon!

And so, now that there is a way to take cod liver oil in convenient form . . . without nasty fishy taste . . . we urge you to begin at once to take McCoy's. Any druggist can supply you.

COMPARE YOUR CHILD'S WEIGHT WITH THIS CHART!

1 yr.	21½	20½	8 yrs.	58	57
2 yrs.	27½	26½	9 yrs.	64	64
3 yrs.	32½	30½	10 yrs.	71	72
4 yrs.	35½	33¼	11 yrs.	78	80
5 yrs.	41	39½	12 yrs.	88	90
6 yrs.	48	45	13 yrs.	98	102
7 yrs.	53	50	14 yrs.	113	114

IF CHILD IS UNDERWEIGHT
Give Cod Liver Oil easily in TABLETS

McCoy's Tablets build up teeth and bones . . . Fight off stubborn winter colds before they start. And no fishy taste.

LITTLE sugar-coated tablets instead of that fishy-tasting oil! Yet every tablet contains the real cod liver oil vitamins that make for health and growth.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets give new health and strength to a thin, delicate child. Put on pounds of sturdy flesh and muscle. Build up the appetite. Develop strong bones and teeth.

Every tablet contains the real vitamins A and D your child needs, with all their health properties retained. Approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

So go to your druggist and buy a box of McCoy's today.

SHERIFF, THUG DEAD IN FIGHT

GODFREY, Kan., Oct. 16.—(INS.)—George Mangus, convicted bank bandit, was shot to death by Sheriff Alfred C. Coad, of Labette County, after killing Deputy Sheriff Melvin C. Hamilton and wounding Sheriff Coad in a desperate effort to escape while being taken to prison.

Sheriff Coad, after being shot in the neck, drew his gun and killed the bandit.

Mangus and his partner, Alvin Payton, were being taken to the State penitentiary in an automobile by Sheriff Coad, Deputy Hamilton and Deputy Sheriff Roy McLean when Mangus made his sudden break for liberty. The bandits had been convicted of robbing the Edna, Kan., bank.

Travelers to Plan Mileage Rate Move

Legislation compelling railroads to issue mileage books at the old 2½-cent rate and to eliminate the Pullman surcharge within the state will be discussed at the state board meeting of Post A. A., Travelers' Protective Association, East Liberty, Saturday. The annual banquet and entertainment will be held at the Arlington Apartments immediately following the meeting.

Strikers Disclaim Blast in Boss' Home

DANVILLE, Va., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—An explosion at the home of Jerry Wentz, overseer in the Schoolfield mill, closed because of a strike, shattered windows and caused a mild panic in the cotton mill community. Strikers on picket duty at the mill, about 50 yards away, said they knew nothing concerning the explosion.

3 Held in Theft Of $1,200 Tobacco

KITTANNING, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Three men were arrested on charges of taking $1,200 worth of groceries and tobacco from the Harry M. Pollock Co. warehouse here. Those in custody are Michael Holobaugh, Harry Westwood and Bernard Evans.

Radcliffe Refuses To Join Harvard In 'Olympia'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Dean Bernice Brown refused to let the Radcliffe girls participate in a joint production of Ferenc Molnar's "Olympia" with the Harvard Dramatic Club, so Harvard is going to choose another play and not invite Radcliffe to participate.

This announcement was made by Henry F. Hurlburt, president of the Harvard Dramatic Society after Dean Brown branded "Olympia" unsuitable for college production.

PULLMAN THIEF GIVEN TERM

Joshua Jackson, Negro, 37, of 2022 Wylie avenue, former Pullman porter, today began serving 15 to 30 years in the Western penitentiary, following his plea of guilty to 27 charges of robbing sleeping cars, before Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court.

Twenty-eight Negroes, half of them women, to whom Jackson was alleged to have sold stolen blankets, bedding, silverware and ginger ale, pleaded no defense and were paroled for one year. They said Jackson led them to believe he was disposing of used articles for the Pullman company.

Jackson, although no longer in the Pullman company employ, had retained a master key to the cars and was said to have sold other employes at the Twenty-eighth street yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad he was still working, thus obtaining free access to the parked coaches.

7 MEN HOLD UP BAKERY TRUCK

Seven men, who, police say, robbed a Seven Baker Brothers' truck at Sandusky street and Cajou way early this morning, were fined at a hearing before Magistrate Ray Schneider in North Side Police Court.

Police testified they saw James Byrnes, 35, of 814 McCandless avenue, and William O'Connor, 23, of 5264 Keystone street, board the truck and toss several cartons of cakes into a machine which Edward Wright was driving, and in which there were four other men. The defendants said they had been drinking. Byrnes and O'Connor were fined $25 and the others were fined $5.

Couple to Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Powers, 945 Freeland street, Mt. Oliver, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow evening in their home. The couple will be visited by their seven daughters, three sons, 25 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, all residents of Pittsburgh.

"Danderine" dissolves the Crust of Dandruff

So Easy to Use! It Soothes, Tones Scalp; Gives New Life to Hair!

Dandruff is unsightly! And what is worse, it steals life itself from the hair; makes it dull, brittle, scraggy; starts it to falling out; makes you gray before your time.

Why tolerate this? There's no use when you can get "Danderine" from any drugstore for just a few cents.

Danderine is no experiment. It has proven its merit by years of use and popularity. It dissolves the crust of dandruff in a hurry. The scalp is cleansed, soothed and toned by the first application. Excess oil is removed from the hair; its own natural color is brought out marvelously; it is soon sparkling with new life and lustre. Used consistently, Danderine keeps the scalp in the pink of condition; encourages the hair to grow long, thick, more youthful looking.

Five million bottles used a year shows Danderine's popularity! And you won't wonder at this when you learn its easy use and see how quickly it gives health to the scalp and vigor and youthful appearance to the hair!

Every drugstore and toilet counter sells Danderine; 35c bottles.

Penna. Doctor Says:

P. C. Rafferty, (N. D.) of Pittsburgh, who so heartily recommends Flaxolyn.

Flaxolyn an Effective Stomachic; Speeds Intestinal Activity, Mild Diuretic for Kidneys

Of all the letters which keep coming in to sing the praise of Flaxolyn, none is more representative than the following from the widely acquainted Pittsburgh doctor, Dr. P. C. Rafferty. He says:

"I most heartily endorse Flaxolyn, solely on its demonstrated merit. "The writer has personally observed many benefactions accruing from its use in a variety of cases. The results from Flaxolyn have surely been most gratifying."

Dr. P. C. Rafferty

According to Dr. Rafferty and other doctors, Flaxolyn sharpens the appetite, being an excellent stomachic; has a wonderfully efficient stimulating action on the entire intestinal canal, including the upper and lower bowels and the colon, and is in addition, a mild diuretic for the kidneys.

Among the distinguished physicians retained to pass their opinion upon the merits of Flaxolyn, are Dr. Heinrich Ritter, of Switzerland; Dr. Albert Nussbaum, of Vienna; Professor Dr. Remy Hirsch, of Berlin, and many others who declare Flaxolyn to be a formula of rare merit.

"All I Can Say of Flaxolyn Is It Is Wonderful"

Declares this Penna. Man

Harry Ribling, of Johnstown, Pa.

Not all of us can express our feelings and emotions in words, but it doesn't require any great writer to describe the improvement which has come to so many of our local people from the use of Flaxolyn. As Mr. Harry G. Ribling, of 528 Kennedy avenue, of Johnstown, Pa., says: "All I can say of Flaxolyn is that it is wonderful. I would not be without a bottle in my home. I have gotten the most pleasing results from its use and have recommended it to a host of my friends. I am happy to send you my picture and permit the use of my statement to help make more friends for Flaxolyn."

Natrona, Pa., Mother Very Grateful

"I am the mother of 10 children," writes Mrs. Samuel Kirkland. "My druggist, Mr. Henry Diamond, can tell you what a lot Flaxolyn has done for me.

"I could see quite a change in myself after taking only 6 or 7 spoonfuls of Flaxolyn. When I was on my second bottle a neighbor lady told me how much surprised she was at my improvement. I have kept up with the use of Flaxolyn and it has continued to help me. I will always be glad to state to the public what a wonderful lot of good it has done for me."

Flaxolyn contains no drastic or habit-forming drugs. It is rich in sun-dried and air-dried herbs, effectively combined with bile salts and organic medicinals.

Flaxolyn's mild, yet thorough action, is derived from such potent herbs as Licorice from Spain, Buchu Leaves from Africa, and other herbs from Arabia, Australia, Switzerland and other parts of the world.

Free If It Fails!

Sick headaches, biliousness, heartburn, gas and other symptoms of constipation may at first appear just once in a while. But take heed or the attacks may soon come more frequently! Clip coupon — try Flaxolyn this very day. Unless Flaxolyn helps you, it is absolutely free.

Copyright, 1930.

THE FAMOUS FLAXOLYN GUARANTEE

1. Flaxolyn is guaranteed safe and pure.
2. Flaxolyn is guaranteed to show results by the sixth pleasant spoonful. If you are not perfectly satisfied with the improvement, return the partly-used bottle to your druggist, and get your money back. Flaxolyn is free unless it does you good!

"Science is revolutionizing all forms of manufacture. The manufacturers of LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes have extended me the courtesy of an invitation to their factories. I was not able to accept but have taken the opportunity to read the reports of scientific men as to the achievements in their factories.

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. Clark Howell to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Howell appears on this page.

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! A GOLDEN JUBILEE OF SERVICE

CELEBRATING fifty years of Public Service, the Duquesne Light Company today dedicates the new $10,000,000 James H. Reed Power Station to the homes and industries of Greater Pittsburgh . . . a dedication indicative of our faith and confidence in the present and the future of this great community. What a difference today from a half-century ago when George Westinghouse formed Pittsburgh's first Electric Company! Its capacity then was sufficient to operate but 400 blinking arc lamps.

Those years of yesterday, the years out of which so surely and swiftly has grown our today, carefully cradled the meager beginning of Electric Service. But now, the village has changed into a maelstrom of commerce . . . the trading-post in the valley of the three rivers has become a master market of mind and money . . . Pittsburg has evolved into a Greater Pittsburgh, a center of industry.

What was once a flickering oil-lamp age of dim evenings in the early eighties, when housework meant incessant drudgery, has matured into modern years of brightly lighted homes and avenues, homes made carefree by the magic aid of Electricity.

And today, just as that tiny plant conceived by George Westinghouse in 1880 was dedicated to the needs of a growing village, so is the new James H. Reed Power Station pledged to an increasing reliability and continuity of service in supplying the rapidly growing power demands of this Greater Pittsburgh.

HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM NEWS; NOTES ABOUT THEATRICAL EVENTS

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

"THE ROYAL FAMILY" being played by George Sharp's Company at the Pitt Theater this week—and being played superlatively well—raises the question of how much truth there is in the picture of the Barrymores and Drews presented by that comedy. Plays about stage people seldom stick close to the truth. The well-known comedy of "David Garrick," the drama of "Adrienne Lecouvreur," the plays about Nell Gwynn and Edmund Kean, are all of them fabrications and myths. But it seems Edna Ferber and George S. Kauffmann have stuck reasonably close to facts in their entertaining stage fiction.

George Seibel.

John Barrymore himself says so. In a book just published, "Twinkle, Twinkle, Movie Star," which consists of interviews by Harry T. Brundidge, Barrymore frankly says: "I was just the kind of a young man you saw portrayed in 'The Royal Family.'"

He becomes even more specific and blunt about "The Royal Family," saying "I was just exactly the kind of a drunken bum, mixed up in all sorts of scrapes and depending upon my sister to get me out of them, borrowing from everybody and forever doing wild and eccentric things, that was portrayed in the play."

It looks as if old Diogenes, looking for an honest man, might find him on the Barrymore reservation in Hollywood. Jack Barrymore looks a great deal better in the confessional than in the spotlight.

BUT THOSE OTHERS

As for the other movie stars in this book, published by E. P. Dutton & Co., they remind one very much of the various heroes in Grimm and Andersen. They were all Cinderellas who became fairy princesses. Clara Bow's "Dad never had a steady job. He did carpentry, common labor, anything he could get." Mary Nolan as a child "washed stockings and handkerchiefs in a convent, and as I grew older did more washing and served as a waitress." Betty Compson was "a kitchen maid and a general helper on all work. I peeled potatoes, set the tables, washed the dishes." Joan Crawford was a waitress, which appears to have been a favorite profession of feminine stars. One of them admits that as a girl she was very "dumb."

But they all rose to stellar heights—and now—

Mae Busch tells how she has spent more than $20,000 a year on clothes. She declares that the fan mail costs a star about $7,500 a year.

There are other costly amusements. "On the train," tells Lupe Velez, "I flirt with the beautiful man. I have $21 in my pockets. The man he steal $20 from me, and I get off in Los Angeles station with $1."

OUR MANLY HEROES

The handsome heroes who perform miracles of all sorts and make love like angels have had equally humble beginnings. George O'Brien tells how his first job as an actor was doubling for a shark. "I wore a rubber suit, shaped like a shark, swam under water, grabbed the villain, and pulled him under." Wallace Beery's first ambition was to be an elephant trainer. But his "Pop was a policeman and got $70 a month," so Wallace was destined for higher things. Ben Turpin "got a job in Mike Shields' candy factory"—later he became a real hobo, and "I've been kicked off more freight cars than any other five-year man in the business."

Al Jolson was once a bouncer in the New York tenderloin's toughest spot. William Powell had the advantage of being educated in Pittsburgh, and Hal Skelly was born in old Allegheny. Ronald Colman had the greatest handicaps of all. He was born in England, the son of a wealthy silk manufacturer, and was destined for Oxford or Cambridge. He overcame all that and is known all over the world now as the handsome hero of "Beau Geste."

From the revelations of 31 screen favorites gathered by Brundidge in "Twinkle, Twinkle, Movie Star," it is evident that the Arabian Nights are not so fantastic and that even an education can be lived down.

WATER SERVICE DISPUTE AIRED

The complaint of the borough of Jeannette against the Westmoreland Water Company, charging that the company is furnishing inadequate service for fire prevention, was aired before the Public Service Commission.

The water company testified the condition had been rectified recently by the building of additional lines to the present standpipe system. Lynn B. Curry, commission engineer, corroborated that testimony, but stated the belief that a reservoir should be built.

General Succeeds To Portes Gil Post

HEARST'S CHICAGO VISIT IN NEWS REEL

The remarkable tribute paid by the city of Chicago to William Randolph Hearst is vividly pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, now being shown at leading theaters throughout the country. The five-mile-long parade through the streets of the city forms one of the most colorful sound motion pictures ever recorded. There are other most impressive scenes of the reception at Soldier's Field, where thousands gathered to pay tribute to the American publisher who was introduced to the throngs by Mayor William Hale Thompson.

In the same issue, Hearst Metrotone News presents the first films of the R-101 tragedy. The pictures show the actual departure of the huge British dirigible from Cardington on its fatal journey, and show, too, the twisted mass of wreckage of what a few moments before had been the mighty queen of the air, at Beauvais, France. Three of the seven survivors are shown and they tell of the horrible moments that ended the career of the pride of the British air fleet.

There are a number of other thrilling subjects in this issue, including Notre Dame's victory over the Navy team by a score of 26 to 2 at South Bend, Ind.

(Being part of WABC Talkie)

Good evening, gentlewomen and gentlemen, and those who really believe that every knock is a boost. Our guest star tonight is the fascinating Fifi Dorsay, the screen's outstanding "French Comedienne" who has never been in France. She is a Canadian, if you please, but her artful pretending has won her the distinction she now enjoys. And among her other virtues is this: With all her great success she hasn't suffered from what most of us suffer—big-head poisoning. Permit me to make your next few moments jolly ones by offering Miss Dorsay's song specialty (song here). Thanks very much, Miss Dorsay, for your good help.

The shooting of Jack (Legs) Diamond reminds me that his nickname is what annoys him more than bullets. When I last saw him I asked him why he objected to the nick-tag. He said that he didn't like and wished that they would quit mentioning it.

"It makes me sound tough," he explained. When I asked: "How did you first acquire it?" Jack responded: "I can't remember exactly, but maybe it was because I never used them to run from anybody or anything."

That was sufficient cue to let the matter drop.

"Nigger Nate" Raymond, who was one of the late Arnold Rothstein's creditors, is another local who detests his nickname . . . Sometime ago he blamed it on a sports writer. Raymond maintains that none of his friends call him by it—"only the newspapers keep hanging it on me" . . . The toughest gangster in the town, by the way, hasn't a nickname.

Stars of Night Club In Farewell Show

A farewell celebration in honor of Jerrie Blanchard, blues singer, and Nat Nazarro, master of ceremonies, is to be staged on the Show Boat, floating night club at the foot of Sixth street, tonight. A special show, in honor of the event, is to be presented by Joe Miller, who produces the club's floor revues. The appearances of Miss Blanchard and Mr. Nazarro tonight will mark the conclusion of their extended engagements here.

Animals of 'Lost World' May Stalk Across Screen Again

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.

Harry Hoyt, the man who produced the silent film for First Nationals, is at R-K-O, where a stage has been set aside for his experiments. He has engaged the same technicians who worked with him before, and they are preparing to shoot a trial sequence to test the practicability of the idea in the new medium.

Grant Withers

In event the experiments are a success, Hoyt will produce an original story of his own, "Creation."

Despite several moves, there still are to be found at First National two mounted skeletons of dinosaurs, mementos of "The Lost World." They excite curiosity of tourists driving by the big studio in Burbank.

INDUSTRY NOT REWARDED

Grant Withers is grown cynical. While on a hunting party in Canada, Withers and a guide sighted a moose. By the time they worked their way to the lee-side of him, the animal had disappeared. Sighting no more, they returned to camp. There, they found John Adolphi, another member of the party, skinning a huge bull, which he had shot from the front door of the cabin.

BYRON RELEASED

Gloria Swanson

After a year in the star's pay, the English leading man is now a free-lance. Incidentally, he got him a job right away with Columbia. Fox also is said to be friendly. He has made two pictures there in the last few months.

A short time ago, Gloria said she was afraid to release Byron. She once released John Boles, and almost simultaneously, the talkies came, making him a big star.

ACTIVE STUDIO

The Fox lot is soon to be one of the busiest in Hollywood.

John Considine's first assignment as producer will be Pierre Benoit's "Axelle," the love story of a French war prisoner and the daughter of a German aristocrat. William H. Howard is to direct.

Alexander Korda starts soon afterward on "La Estralia," Wilbur Hall's story of a girl leader of a band of Mexican guerrillas. Edmund Grainger will supervise this film as well as "Land Rush," which Benjamin Stoloff will direct. The latter film is to be a talkie version of "Three Bad Men." Hyman Whittaker is the author of the story.

Printing House Men To Meet Tuesday

The monthly meeting of the Pittsburgh Club of Printing House Craftsmen will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 21, at 6:30 in the Keystone Athletic Club. Press-room difficulties will be discussed. The club will also discuss plans for a dance to be held Wednesday, October 29. E. G. Brandt is general chairman of the dance committee.

Children to Exhibit Dogs at Soho Show

Soho dogs will be exhibited at the Soho Community House tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. Each child entering a dog in the show will be given an apple, Chester J. Nickles, chairman of the show, announced today. Eight prizes will be awarded by judges, Ewing Laport, D. J. McLaughing, Oliver Smith, John T. Shirley and Leo Lehman.

NEW STAGE DRAMAS AND TALK FILMS ARE BOOKED

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are featured in "Elizabeth, the Queen," which comes to the Nixon Monday. The play is a Theater Guild production. Maxwell Anderson is the author.

Seats are on sale at the Shubert Alvin box office for the one week engagement, commencing Monday night, of Quennie Smith in her latest musical comedy hit, "The Street Singer."

There are two bulldogs in the George Sharp Players. One is the pet of Miss Jean May and the other belongs to the director, Ed Vail. The two dogs, sad to relate, are not as friendly as they might be—professional jealousy, perhaps.

NEW PICTURE TODAY

"Maybe It's Love," a tale of college life and football, comes to the Stanley screen today. It stars Joe E. Brown. Ed Lowry will be on the stage.

Clara Bow plays her first straight farce role in her latest Paramount feature, "Her Wedding Night." The film opens tomorrow in the Penn. It is a screen version of an Avery Hopwood play.

James Gleason, actor and author, wrote and acted in "Is Zat So" which held the stage for several seasons. On the screen he has been seen in "Oh Yeah" and hits. He has a comedy role in "Her Man," which comes to the RKO Sheridan Square tomorrow and to the Fulton on Saturday.

ALDINE BOOKING

As their initial contributions to the talkies, Jimmy McHugh and Dorothy Fields, Broadway song writing team, have supplied seven new numbers for "Love in the Rough," featuring Robert Montgomery, which comes to the Aldine tomorrow. Popular among these are "I'm Learning a Lot From You" and "One More Waltz."

"Temptation" comes to the Harris screen Saturday with a cast including Lois Wilson, Lawrence Gray, Billy Bevan and Eileen Percy.

"Sinners' Holiday," brought to the screen from the play, "Penny Arcade," comes to the Enright tomorrow. Grant Withers, Evelyn Knapp and Joan Blondell are featured. On the stage Dick Powell will offer "Melody Lane."

PROLONGS LIFE OF SILK HOSE

All women will be interested in the recent discovery of a leading New York fashion expert. She learned that heedless perspiration, all next-to-skin garments absorb an oily excretion from the sebaceous glands that causes silks to rot.

Soap and water cannot dissolve this destructive oil film—it requires a solvent like Energine. So when next washing silk hose or lingerie, add a tablespoonful of Energine to a quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash thoroughly—rinse well—and note the new fresh cleanliness—see how magically the original color is revived and with far less rubbing. You can't appreciate how much soap and water fail short till you make this Energine test. More wear, too, from every pair of hose. And don't forget that millions use Energine daily for quick removal of dirt and grease spots from suits, hats, dresses, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 25c. Get Energine today.

PROTECT HIS "BABY" TEETH

THEY ARE so important if he is to grow up healthy—and with sound, regular permanent teeth. But how will you decide the best way to care for your child's teeth and gums? You read so many conflicting theories. There are dozens of different dentifrices. Which is right? ★★ E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a leading research institution to tabulate opinions among 50,000 practicing dentists. Here is the summary of the replies received:

Isn't this strong assurance that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your child's teeth and gums? For it is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia. ★★ Squibb's is so safe too. It contains no grit, no astringents, nothing which might possibly injure. Get a tube. Use Squibb's yourself. See how it cleans! Feel how it refreshes your mouth and gums.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

"on the so-called spot" . . . To hear him tell it, his only problem is how to keep from getting killed by someone he hasn't offended.

"I am not afraid of any cop or any enemy," he once remarked. "I can shoot as straight as any of them. What bothers me is one of these publicity-mad cokies who is looking for a rep as a tough guy. He's the type who will try to get famous by knocking off a guy with a 'name.' So any time now I expect to get it from one of these unknown daredevils."

I suppose you've heard it, but if you have please don't hop me. . . . It's Andy Quirk's gag about the Scotsman who stops in a speakeasy every night on his way home, and calls the bartender names until the bartender loses his temper and hits him in the mouth with the bar rag.

And Paul Groll reports that that things are so tough with Hymie Cohen he is raffling off his partner.

Lionel Toll would have you believe that money is so tight he had a nickel last week on which the bull was screaming with pain.

So is the one from a reader wh knew better than to sign his name to it. Referring to my combat with Ethel Barrymore, the contributor added:

"Why, Walter! I didn't know you went in for Etheletics!"

The Whitney Boltons' new baby is just about being dropped down the chimlee by the stork . . . People who ride in Austins shouldn't hit stones!

Among other little ironies is this fact . . . Gen. Harboard, of RCA, and a big shot in the World War, and William Allen White, probably the most famous country editor in the world, both took and flunked their West Point entrance examinations on the same day in Emporia, Kan. . . . Harboard then joined the Army as a private, eventually becoming a "Pershing"—and Mr. White, who flunked so badly, is called the world's most famous country editor . . . It's little things like that that make big paragraphs like these.

The industrial survey now being conducted by the Rockefeller Foundation will recommend two-day and three-day a week employment as the only means of avoiding Communist trouble when the boys with long hair get hungry this winter . . . Percy Hammond has finally come to the rescue of his little ones and gave those actors, actresses and managers who annoy critics a piece of his brilliant mind . . . Percy, in Sunday's Trib, wrote that he had been writing Miss Barrymore's praises for over 30 years and now she includes him with others when she barks at the newspaper profession.

"Richard Bennett," said Percy, "is ready to give hydrophobia to any critic who bites him. This may be the beginning of a wholesome movement. It may at least persuade the younger critics to believe a truth known to all their veteran elders. And that is this: The more you praise an actor the more IT despises you!"

And now here it is almost 7:45 and I must leave you until next Chewsday at 7:30. I remain, yours very truly, Walter Winchell, who a long time ago found out that a slip of the tongue isn't as dangerous as a slip of a girl. Which is why I am one of the many Broadwayites who keeps Dancing With Rings Under My Eyes.

Class to Present Minstrel Program

The Lincoln Bible Class of the German United Evangelical Church of Birmingham (Congregational), Jane street, South Side, will present "The Ladies' Minstrels from Dixie," next Monday evening. The play is under the direction of Mrs. Bertha Smith and those taking part are: Kathryn Zeller, Frieda Wahlster, Ruth Schuman, Clara Hanna, Dorothy Zeller, Mildren Schwarm, Gertrude Prietzsch, Frieda Hopkins, Margaret Moore, Virginia Hopkins, Helen Puss and Marie Wahlster.

The proceeds will go toward the new church building fund.

No Longer Skinny, Nervous. I Gained 4 Lbs. in 2 Weeks

"I was nervous, run-down, cross, tired until I took Ironized Yeast. Gained 4 lbs. in 2 weeks, nervousness gone, clear skin."—Mrs. B. Rogers.

Thousands who were "skinny," weak, nervous write of 5 to 15 lbs. gained in 2 weeks with Ironized Yeast. Bony limbs round out. Ugly hollows fill in. Blemished skin clears like magic. Nervousness, indigestion, constipation end overnight. Sound sleep, new pep.

Two great tonics in one—special weight-building Brewer's Yeast and strengthening Iron. Pleasant little tablets. Stronger than unmedicated yeast. Results in ½ time.

Old time newspapermen such as Val Oldshue and Arthur Burgoyne will remember Arthur Unger, whose salary 20 years ago, when he was a reporter for the Gazette Times, was but a fraction of what it is today. Unger has just signed with Universal Pictures Corporation as an associate producer and will serve as assistant to Carl Laemmle, Jr. "Remember me to the boys," writes Unger to a friend, "and the girls."

J. W. Cree, Jr., president of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, has a novel plan for eliminating the annual pain in the pocketbook—otherwise known as taxes. Jokingly Mr. Cree suggests that the city, county and state governments operate the numbers lotteries, the city to benefit 15 days in the month, the county 10 and the state five, the profits to be used in the operation of government. With this plan, Roy Schooley, the city treasurer, will not agree. Mr. Schooley, who collects the local taxes, would then be known as a numbers operator.

The news that a West Branch (Ia.) hen which has been laying double-yolk eggs finally has outdone herself and laid a triple-yolk egg should excite the hens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County to better deeds. To the owner of the first hen which lays a quadruple-yolk egg, thus bringing the yolk championship to Pittsburgh, Jim Paul, the restaurant man, promises a cup of coffee, the necessary bacon and a new vest.

Today, Chester Wallace, head of Carnegie Tech's drama school, feels 10 years younger. A one-time actor himself, Mr. Wallace went to University of Michigan's campus recently to coach the Michigan players. They produced "The Criminal Code," but among the young people of the school there was none to play the part of the warden. Mr. Wallace played the role himself. It was his first appearance on the stage in years. He says: "I feel at least 10 years younger simply because I went back to the stage just once."

Good news for bridge players who can never find a fourth: A bridge club is to be organized in Pittsburgh with rooms probably in the William Penn Hotel. The organizer will be Capt. French, of the Franklin Club, of Philadelphia. Two of the Pittsburgh players back of the organization are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bailey. The sponsors wisely have decided to invite auction players to join.

A friend whose motives we suspect wants us to start a controversy among the good people of Mt. Washington, Mt. Oliver, Herron Hill and Duquesne Heights as to which district affords the best view of Pittsburgh. He quotes Dr. George A. Holliday, president of the Duquesne Heights Incline Company, as contending at the view from Duquesne Heights includes everything worth seeing—traffic jams and all. Our favorite view is from the little bridge over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks along Bigelow boulevard. You can see all the trains all the time.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 16.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Been reading in the papers lately some nice little feminine feline digs by the Countess Gizycka (Elinor Medill Patterson), at Alice Longworth. It seems the countess has been trying to kid Alice about her political power.

Will Rogers

Well, I don't know the countess, but I sho' do know Alice, and of all the "she" political minds I have ever met, Alice has forgotten more than most of the others know put together.

When you meet with a mind like hers, it gives you a little encouragement for the Nineteenth Amendment.

Yours, WILL.

TEST-DRILLING IN GRANT STREET PLOT TO DETERMINE NEW POST OFFICE FOUNDATION

TEST LAND FOR POSTOFFICE

The start of core boring to test the ground in Grant street, between Seventh avenue and the Pennsylvania railroad station drive, the site for Pittsburgh's new postoffice building, today gave testimony that the project is about to get under way.

Workers from the Pennsylvania Drilling Company, awarded the boring contract by the supervising architect, were busy today with two drills with which they will test the entire plot of ground.

Workers said it would take them about 45 days to determine the necessary depth of the foundation. The test boring contract was the only one let, but it was thought that before this work is completed, a contractor for the foundation would be chosen.

DENIES AIDING ANTI-DRYS

Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, president of the Congress of Clubs and Club Women of Western Pennsylvania, today denied the report from Scranton, published yesterday, which placed her among the anti-dry leaders at the convention of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women.

The dispatch said that Mrs. Johnston and Allentown club women were leading an effort to substitute a liberal resolution for the one pledging the federation's continued support of prohibition.

Mrs. Johnston, not attending the convention, declared today that she always had been dry, and announced also that the Congress of Clubs directors here had sent to the State Federation a resolution affirming its unqualified stand for the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcement.

Ex-Wife Fights Divorce After Aged Doctor Dies

Another chapter in the romance of Mrs. Mary Louise Boyd, of 309 Jacksonia street, North Side, and Dr. Isaac N. Boyd, 71, of 71 Knox avenue, who died Tuesday, a few days after being granted a divorce in Common Pleas Court, was written with the appeal late yesterday from the divorce decree. It was filed on behalf of Mrs. Boyd in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania by Attorney William J. Graham.

Dr. Boyd met his bride, a girl of 17 then, through a street car flirtation four years ago and they were married May 26, 1926. They parted March 12, 1927, when she drove away in an automobile he had given her. He alleged she deserted him.

She alleged in a cross suit for divorce, pending at the time of the hearing of his suit, that he was guilty of cruelty and indignities.

City's Lighting System Is Wrecked by Gangsters

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

"The Edgewater Kid," Polack Annie's man, is murdered. Goldie Gorio's North Side gang, of which the Kid was a member, accuses Kinky King, leader of the West Side gang. Kinky swore to get The Kid for taking Annie from him. Later, Kinky is found murdered, a gold revolver, similar to that possessed by Goldie, beside him. To satisfy the public's demand for action, the police chief arrests Annie. He refuses Goldie's request for her release.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

It was eight-thirty at night in the Big Burg.

The Rialto was ablaze . . . the trite, monotonous pleasures of Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen were beginning . . . theatergoers settled back in a stuffy, perfumed atmosphere to learn things about life which they already knew . . . jabbering, bejewelled matrons played bridge and talked of everything else . . . the Mayor was taking a nap . . . lovers whispered platitudes in each other's ears and thrilled at innocuous lies . . . coatless, collarless men sank into chairs after a hard day's work for a harder night at poker . . . Polack Annie still sat and chafed in a cell . . . policemen stepped briskly from speakeasy doors and then sauntered with leisurely innocence down the street . . . linotype machines in newspaper plants were clicking and clacking . . . a sprinkling of lights intagliated the sides of tall buildings—lights from the offices of boob husbands who actually worked and did not cheat on their cheating wives . . .

Fast movi , silent cars streaked through the city's streets. Sleek, luxurious cars filled with hard-faced, mu. lerous men. The entire Goldie Gorio gang was abroad—out with full panoply of sawed-off shot guns, gats, typewriters, pineapples and stench bombs.

At the switchboard in the Central Police Station, the operator who had come on at the 8 o'clock trick plugged in now and then beneath a winking litt'e light.

Officers Report

Policemen Get Orders From Headquarters

"Slattery and Doherty reporting—Slattery speaking," came from the police call box on the East Side.

"Nuttin' doin'," from the cop.

"Now listen," spoke the operator, smoothing out one of the slips, "the Lieut. wants you to go to two-three-two-five Elman avenue and get a better description of that Ryan girl what's missin'. Find out if she's got crooked teeth or fallen arches or a mole under her left shoulder blade. This here description you guys sent in would fit any moll—'blue eyes, regular features, brown hair, five feet five, wore black stockings, black pumps, turban hat, short, black dress'—what the hell! Maybe she's got a scar somewhere, or wears a hunk o' jewelry—go to it—get busy."

"Okay," cheerfully rejoined Slattery.

"Believe me, the guys in these stories are some dicks," he muttered.

At exactly 8:45 the switchboard lit up like a Times Square electric sign with the vertigo. The operator tossed away his magazine just at the point where the detective had rounded up the 10 desperate gangsters, and began frantically to plug in.

Darkness

Lights Extinguished in Midtown Section

"The Lafayette Avenue power house has been stuck up . . . The main generator and the auxiliary generator are jammed. . . . There ain't no lights in the midtown section . . ."

All the coppers in the heart of town were pulling their boxes.

The operator frantically signaled the chief's home over the police wires.

At least three of the main streets had been suddenly thrown into darkness. Here were most of the theaters and movie houses. For a time after the theaters went dark the patrons remained in their seats, believing that the inconvenience was only temporary. Everyone took the situation jovially—ignorant of the sinister motive behind it. The actors were forced to abandon their lines. The movie screens went black.

The only lights on the streets were those of automobile lamps which punched holes like funnels into the night. The rays of the cold, silvery half-moon disseminated weakly into the darkened canyons. The word came that it would be several hours before a hook-up could be effected to provide light. Theater managers announced to their audiences that performances would be suspended. The playhouses belched forth into the darkened streets their crowds.

Gorio's Work

The Mayor Orders His Arrest

Meantime the chief of police had taken charge of the situation. The reserves were called out and thrown into the benighted streets. It was feared that the darkness would cloak robbers and ravishers.

Hardly had the chief arrived at his office than news was received that bricks had been hurled through the plate glass show windows of four large department stores on the main stem.

"Goldie Gorio!" the chief said over the telephone to the mayor. "He'll paralyze the town."

"Send the Homicide Detail to his headquarters—to his house—anywhere—pick him up," ordered His Honor.

"But—what—"

"Never mind what," snapped the Mayor, "this makes a monkey out of you and me. We can't let hoodlums run this town as openly as this. I'll take full responsibility for everything you do. Bring him in. I'll be down in 20 minutes."

The Chief had hardly hung up the receiver than a call came through for him.

"Hello, Chief," came the cheery voice of Goldie. "I just wanted to know how you felt—"

Traffic Snarled

Goldie Orders Road Blown Up

The connection was severed. The Chief ordered the operator to trace the call. It had come from a booth in a cigar store on North Brigham street, the operator reported. The Chief sank back in his chair helplessly. He sighed and lighted a cigar. Then he laid it down on the edge of the desk and forgot all about it.

In the midtown section the police were having their griefs with traffic. All intersections were in a snarl. Cars were jammed in a hopeless tangle. A thousand automobile horns were growling out their protests. Nothing could move. Police whistles split the air and no one knew what they meant.

Sam Mandelbaum, owner of one department store where the show window had been smashed, was located by his watchman at a full-dress affair in the Dresden Hotel, uptown. He had an unsatisfactory conversation with the chief of police, so he ordered his car and chauffeur.

HIT-RUN TOLL ONE KILLED, 4 HURT

Moon Run Pedestrian Dies, Autoist Escapes; Group Injured Leaving School

One man was dead today and four persons, three of them children, were injured as the result of being struck by hit-run automobile drivers who disappeared leaving their victims in the roadway.

Howard McCain, 32, of Moon Run, was instantly killed shortly after midnight while walking with Jobe Winining, also of Moon Run, on the Lincoln Highway, a mile west of Crafton. McCain was on the side of the road, and Winining was walking on the curb. The driver, of the car which struck McCain sped away.

HUNT TRUCK DRIVER

Penn Township officials, led by Constable Samuel Bickerstaff, were looking for a truck driver who abandoned his truck after he ran into a group of three girls and a man on the Verona road, Rosedale, late yesterday. The victims were leaving the William Penn School when the accident happened.

The three girls, Elizabeth Moyer, 12, of Stevens lane; Margaret Walsh, 14, of 15 Front avenue, and Emma May Whitehead, 13, of Chester road, and L. D. Pierce, school janitor, all of Rosedale, were knocked down while walking in the road a few yards from the school by the truck which, according to Constable Bickerstaff, first crashed into a teacher's automobile parked in front of the school. After the accident, the driver, the constable said, abandoned his truck and fled.

Motorists who witnessed the accident picked up the victims, taking two of the more seriously injured to hospitals. They were the Whitehead girl, who is in the West Penn Hospital, and Margaret Walsh, whose condition was undetermined at St. Margaret's Hospital. Pierce and the Moyer girl suffered severe bruises and were taken to their homes.

The truck was held by Bickerstaff.

GIRL, 4, HIT

Violet Radinovich, 4, of 1102 Jerome avenue, McKeesport, was in a critical condition in McKeesport Hospital today as the result of being struck by an automobile in Fifth avenue, near her home, yesterday. Charles Padgen, of 703 Edmundson avenue, McKeesport, driver of the McKeesport Baking Company truck that struck her, according to police, took her to the hospital and reported the accident to police.

Dominick Venturella, 19, of 3326 Barton street, North Braddock, sustained probable fractures of two ribs when the car he was driving collided with a McCrady Brothers' truck at Second street and Braddock avenue, Braddock, last night, according to police. He was removed to the Braddock General Hospital.

Baby Golf One Up in Fight To Enter Residence Zones

Council has tentatively approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance giving the Board of Adjustment power to authorize the installation of indoor and outdoor miniature golf courses in residential districts.

Final approval will not be given until the zoning committee of the City Planning Commission meets next week.

The tentative approval was granted yesterday over the protests of the Department of City Planning, L. W. Monteverde, chairman, and the Pittsburgh Housing Association.

Such courses are a nuisance to neighbors and tend toward deterioration of the neighborhood, according to John Ihlder, executive director of the latter organization, who appeared before Council. He maintained that, by passing the amendment, Council would be surrendering its legislative powers.

"How about letting Bob Clark handle the permits?" remarked President of Council John S. Herron. Robert Clark is city clerk.

Ihlder quoted a court ruling from White Plains, N. Y., to the effect, according to a letter he read, that such a course is "neither a public playground, nor a recreation center, and certainly it is not golf."

CHIC SALES DISCUSSING THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBIT

Lem Putt, the specialist, as he sat and whittled and inspected with critical eye the exhibits in the International at Carnegie Institute. John Kane's painting of the Strip took his eye.

Well, Sir, This Art Show Is Jest Plain Paintin' To 'The Specialist'

Mr. Chic Sale, otherwise known as Lem Putt, the Specialist, and delineator of other rustic characters at the Alvin this week in "Hello Paris," reviews the International Art Exhibit in Carnegie Galleries for Sun-Telegraph readers.

By LEM PUTT,
The Specialist.

Well, sir, folks, they told me there was a mighty fine exhibition of painting out here in Pittsburgh, so I figgered I'd look her over.

Course, you understand that paintin' is jest a side line with me, mighty important 'specially when it comes to the trimmin' of a job, but still a thing a feller has to know something about.

I sez to myself, I'll go out an' look this work over; maybe I can get some ideas that'll come in handy in my work. I ain't been satisfied with the results I been gettin' with that new red paint I been usin'.

The feller that went out with me kept talking about the design. Well, I sez to him, you'll have to go some to beat the designs I'm usin'. Take the moon star and diamond. They're mighty, m-i-g-h-t-y hard to beat. Still I'd like to look these over, even if I don't use 'em—I have found out by experience that it don't pay to experiment, so I generally stick to the standard designs.

'JEST PICTURES'

Well, sir, the first thing I saw when I stepped into this place was a big picture with a sign on it "Bathin'" by a feller named Lucien Simon—it was a lot of wimmen without clothes and looked like a lot of chorus girls leapin' and cavortin' around.

It turned out that this paintin' exhibition was jest a bunch if pictures. I was a little disappointed, but I looked 'em over and danged if they wasn't mighty interestin'.

They was one with a bunch of fellers playin' guitars by a feller named Giovanni Romagnoli—probably a Eyetalian. The boys was singin' and playin' to beat the band jest like our quartet down at the barber shop. I kinda liked one that had a horse in it a rarin' and a tearin' to go, with a feller in a sled holdin' back on the lines—it was by Horatio Walker and it was called "Noce Canadienne"—the horse's name I guess.

POSIES AND ANGELS

Well, sir, they was more pictures there than you could shake a stick at and some of 'em right pretty. They run from pictures of posies in a jar to angels flyin' around without wings. The frames was mighty well constructed, too—I don't think I ever saw carpenter work I enjoyed more.

Finally we come to a picture of a lot of houses and the feller with me sez:

"This wus painted by a man named John Kane—he used to 'specialize' in paintin' houses."

You can see he knows his subject, I sez, fer these houses is natural as life. Course they're city houses, but danged if they ain't a finished job—even to the washin' hangin' out on the line.

Now you take this piece of construction work here in this back yard, I sez; she ain't as pretty as a country job, sittin' back on a knoll under a apple tree, but she's well constructed and mighty practical. Course, I do some twin jobs but I never put up one that was triplets like this one.

FANCY PRICES

As we come away from the place the feller was tellin' me these painters git fancy prices fer their paintin'. Wel, I sez, way I look at it, this kinda paintin' is jest play. You take the fellers that paint a house or a barn or any construction job—they're the ones that ought to git the best pay. Jest look at all the paint they use. They don't jest daub—they spread and spread.

Put on The Spot

After several hours he had rounded up six men—men of influence in the city—bankers, merchants, attorneys. They held a midnight consultation.

In the new headquarters of the Gorio gang—location unknown to the police—Goldie, immaculate, calm was sitting before a telephone. He had just ordered four men to plant five sticks of dynamite on Chelsea highway, one of the main arterjes into the city—the road over which the milk trucks rattled in in the morning.

"Be sure the road is clear," he ordered. "I don't want nobody hurt—see?"

"Okay, boss."

Goldie sat back and chuckled. He lighted a cigaret and inhaled with deep satisfaction.

"We'll have that high bull on his knees tomorrow," he chortled. "I'll run this town or I'll ruin it."

Ray, the chauffeur, who was acting as lookout, came in.

"Chimp is here," he announced.

"Let him in," ordered Goldie.

"Well?" queried Goldie, without looking up.

"I couldn't make it," Chimp said in a matter-of-fact way.

"I don't take that kind o' talk, Chimp." Goldie's voice was hard.

"That water works station was surrounded by bulls—anyway, you give me the toughest job, blowing up that plant," whined Chimp. "I'm the patsy for the mob—"

Goldie jumped up.

"You—you——"

"Now listen, Chief, don't get too raw—remember the Edgewater—"

Goldie's hand flew to his pocket. Something bright sailed in the air. The next instant Chimp was clutching his nose. He bent over in pain. A twenty-dollar gold piece clanked to the floor, and rolled back near to Goldie's feet. He spurned it.

Chimp groaned and sank into a chair. His nose was broken!

The Camera Question Box

Today's question—Why is the general public interested in the coming election?

Mr. Clancio

ALBERT CIANCIO, North Side—It seems to me that the chief issue of most of the campaign speeches is that of prohibition. The public is interested in the treatment given this important question.

Mr. Polichetti

JOHN POLICHETTI, North Side—The chief interest in the coming election lies in the outcome of the question of prohibition. Most people are getting tired of it and will welcome a change for the better.

Miss Shaw

MISS ELIZABETH SHAW, North Side—The entire country is suffering a business depression and for this reason is interested in the coming election as a possible alleviation of such pressing conditions. This, I believe is the main interest of the public.

Mr. Hartle

GILBERT HARTLE, North Side—Many people are interested in the election, not only because they think a change may do the country good, but because they are hoping that it may do them, personally, good. Such a motive, directed in the right way, is as good a motive as any.

Mr. Harris

HOWARD HARRIS, North Side—It seems to me, the need of the people is a satisfactory settlement of the Eighteenth Amendment. Most people realize this need and for this reason are very much interested in the coming election.

Mr. Dowden

THOMAS DOWDEN, North Side—A hope for the improvement of the unemployment conditions is the cause of the interest that is shown in the coming election by the general public. Every intelligent person can see the need for some change in these conditions.

TRADE BOARDS PRESS FIGHT ON FARES

Public Service Commission Calls for Briefs, Hears Magee Defend Old Policies

Briefs will be submitted within the next two or three weeks to the Public Service Commission on the Allied Board of Trade allegations that the policy of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and its subsidiary, the Motor Coach Company are unsound and that the motor coach rates of 25 cents should be lowered, it was announced today.

Should the commission so decide, following argument, there will be no necessity of going into presentation of testimony bearing on the question of rates and tariffs charged elsewhere. It is stated that such a ruling would automatically cause the railways company and the motor coach company to revise their policy and change the rate.

MAGEE TESTIFIES

Former Mayor William A. Magee, who was called by the railways company yesterday before Commissioner S. Ray Shelby as the chief witness for the defense, testified that when he was mayor he insisted on the motor coach company being made a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and not of the Philadelphia Company.

His purpose in this, he stated, was to prevent possible duplication of service and keep down expenses and cause motor coaches to cover territory which would not take away patronage from the railways line. He wanted to avoid any attempt by the company to charge a higher street car fare because of loss of revenue.

SEES FAILURE

Attorney W. G. Negley representing the Allied Boards of Trade, which organization is protesting against the 25 cent rate, brought an admission from Magee that the railways company is losing money. Asked if the policy is a failure, Attorney Negley declares, he nodded his head in the affirmative.

Vice President Thomas Fitzgerald of the Railways Company testified that the plan as outlined by Magee had been followed out, contending that it avoids destructive competition in bus transportation and street car operation.

OPEN HIGHWAY LINK FRIDAY

Thirty thousand people from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, are expected to gather at Imperial Junction tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, to hear the governors of their respective states speak at the opening of the $3,000,000 road link connecting the Lincoln and William Penn highways.

Following the speeches by Governors John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, William G. Conley, of West Virginia and Myers Y. Cooper, of Ohio, a ribbon will be held across the road by Annette Wehner, of West Virginia and Frances Jacobs, of Ohio. It will be cut by Mary Elenor Hershberg, of Pennsylvania, officially opening the road to the public.

Mayor Charles H. Kline will welcome the guests at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel. James Rae, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, will preside and James Francis Burke will act as toastmaster. Among the notables expected to be present are, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, United States senators, Joseph R. Grundy and David A. Reed, Governors Fisher, Conley and former Governor Gifford Pinchot.

CHAPLIN BOYS SAVE MONEY

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—(INS.)—Charlie Chaplin, Jr., 7, and Sydney Earl Chaplin, 6, were able to live comfortably and put away money on the income provided for them by their father, Charles Chaplin, screen comedian, a guardianship report showed today.

The report was filed by Lolita Louise Chaplin, divorced wife of the comedian and known on the stage as Lita Grey, in accounting for her handling of the $6,000 which Chaplin has granted each of his young sons.

It cost Charles Junior $2,996.96 and Sydney $3,008.64 last year, and those sums showed a considerable drop from their expenses during the previous two years.

Each son pays his mother $200 a month for room, board and nurse hire and $150 a year for the use of their mother's automobile.

As a result of their economizing durling the last year, Charles was able to put $3,003.04 in his savings bank and his "kid brother" saved $2,991.36.

BEAUTIFUL DOREE LESLIE, THE SHOW GIRL WHO INTRODUCED MARION TO LEGS DIAMOND

Not so long ago, Miss Doree, shown in three poses from her shows, introduced Marion to Diamond. When Diamond was shot down, Marion was bathing in an adjoining bathroom. She fled, but detectives trailed her to the apartment of Agnes O'Loughlin, who recently sued Rudy Vallee for heart balm, and found her hiding.

FOUNDER'S DAY PROGRAM GIVEN

Manuel C. Tellez, Mexican ambassador to the United States, is to make the principal address at the Carnegie Institute Founder's Day exercises this afternoon. His subject will be "Education and Art In Mexico."

The program opens at 3 o'clock in Carnegie Music Hall, with an organ selection by Charles Heinroth, organist and director of music at the institute.

The invocation will be offered by the Rev. Dr. T. F. Coakley, pastor of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church. Musical numbers will be given by the quartet of Shadyside Presbyterian Church, consisting of Margaret Spaulding Stockdale, Mabel King, Will A. Rhodes, Jr., and Raymond T. Giffen, with Earl Mitchell as accompanist.

Immediately following the program, prizes will be awarded for paintings in the 1930 exhibition.

The trustees' dinner in honor of Ambassador Tellez will be held in the foyer of the music hall at 7:30 o'clock.

CIVIL LIBERTIES PROGRAM BROAD

The Pennsylvania Civil Liberties Committee has a program which will challenge the liberalism of the next governor and legislature, Allan G. Harper, newly-appointed executive of the committee, announced from Harrisburg.

His appointment followed the resignation of William G. Nowell, who will take the pastorate of an industrial church in Pittsburgh. Harper, a graduate of Harvard, said:

"We propose the abolishment of the coal and iron police, the incorporation of company towns, the placing of restirctions upon the unbridled use of sheriff's proclamations, the repeal of the unecessary and cruel sedition act, the curbing of present methods in the appointment of deputy sheriffs and the putting of reasonable restraints upon the issuance of injunctions."

DRYS SEIZE CAR, DRIVER, CARGO

Last midnight Michael Foglia, 26, of 613 Elm street, was arrested and his automobile and 61 bottles of alleged gin were confiscated, prohibition agents reported.

The agents said they saw Foglia load the liquir into his machine in Elm street, and followed him to Wylie avenue and Townsend street, where his capture followed.

RAID UNCOVERS WILDCAT STILL

A squad of police from the Forty-third street station yesterday raided a garage which housed an alleged wildcat brewery in the rear of 717 Edmond street, and reported destroying 31 barrels of beer, 15 half-barrels of beer, 18 100-gallon vats of beer mash and a 300-gallon boiler.

Lewis Herskowitz, 55, said to have been arrested in the raid, was to be arraigned today in the Penn avenue police court on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

Robert S. Krause, deputy prohibition administrator, today denied reports his department had planned to raid the place but were beaten by the police. He said the prohibition agents had no plans for raids in the Edmond street vicinity last night.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk View Art Exhibit

Society folks, Pittsburgh artists, including John Kane, one of the three Pittsburghers in the Exhibit, faculty members of Pittsburgh's colleges, professional men, students and critics, were all represented last night at the pre-view of the twenty-ninth annual International, held in the Carnegie Institute Art galleries.

Hundreds of folks attended, with the brilliant gowns of the women vying with the brilliantly colored entries in the exhibit.

Homer Saint-Gaudens, the director of the Department of Fine Arts, received with Mrs. Saint-Gaudens, who wore an interesting gown of black crepe, fashioned with a peplum of net appliqued in an interesting design with the same material as the dress.

Festive was the atmosphere of the galleries and foyer with an orchestra, hidden by bamboos, playing throughout the evening.

Many Attend

In the throngs viewing the various galleries I caught a glimpse of some of our social leaders.

Mrs. E. J. House, back from Europe with her daughter, Helen, I saw, and the George Collords. In the Spanish room I saw Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, wearing an orchid printed chiffon gown, chatting with Mrs. Sydney Hammond, who wore black lace and net.

The Roy A. Hunts were there. And, of course, you know a portrait of their four sons by Antoni Ortiz Echague is in the International. I caught slight, too, of the Frank Adair Leovys and of Mrs. John Murtland.

Mrs. Carroll P. Davis, of Sewickley, wearing a green brocaded velvet gown, was there with some of the women who were here yesterday to attend the meeting of the State Federation of Garden Clubs, held in Sewickley.

Smart Gowns

Mrs. Milligan wore black net with a black velvet wrap collared in fox, and Mrs. Robinson chose a black chiffon gown printed with a small green and blue motif. Black velvet with rhinestones for accent was worn by Mrs. Alexander.

Chatting with friends was Mrs. Walter Fundenberg, wearing black lace with a cape collar. Mrs. George S. Baton was there, wearing black lace, and I saw the Albert E. Lehmans talking with Homer Saint-Gaudens. Mrs. Lehman wore an interesting jade green crepe dress, fashioned with a bolero with an interesting touch of popular lattice design distinguishing the decolletage in back. Of course, you know that Mr. Lehman is the donor of the Lehman prize.

Lace Is Popular

At the end of the British gallery Mrs. H. Allen Machesney was talking with friends. She wore a black and white chiffon gown.

Mrs. Andre Maximov, the former Jewel Jarvis, was there with

Forum Club Honors New President in Home of Mrs. S. E. Diescher

For the second time this fall Mrs. Samuel E. Diescher opened her charming home in the Gerber Apartments for a club president's day. Yesterday it was the Forum Club which was doing honor to its new head, Mrs. A. K. McMillan, who, singulary, is a past president of the Town Club to which Mrs. Diescher was hostess a fortnight ago.

Mrs. Diescher, the retiring president, Mrs. J. H. Lesley, Mrs. McMillan and the other new officers formed the receiving line. At intervals during the reception hours the Mitchell Trio—Elsie Breese Mitchell, Frank Kennedy and John Schimpf—gave a fine program of solos and trio numbers.

In the decorative scheme dahlias, chrysanthemums and roses were used, the tea table having an especially effective combination in pink and yellow in the center of its lovely lace-covered top.

Alternating as pourers were Mrs. W. J. Pendner, Mrs. L. M. Suter, Mrs. P. P. Trump and Mrs. John L. Stevens. Mrs. H. D. Adams and her aides of the social committee were in charge.

Handmade Lingerie

Do You Think:

That the whims of fashion are arbitrary and that women should follow its dictates? Today, Fashion says that curves are the mode—the boyish form has gone.

So gowns must cling and lingerie plays its part in the perfection of outline. It must be made to measure.

The skillful needleworkers in the Industrial League do their work with the precision of the artist. Attractive models, lace trimmed as well as tailored effects all designed by women of taste and discrimination, will be shown by this shop at its Tea and Exhibit in Hotel Schenley next Wednesday afternoon.

Needy women make every garment and all the proceeds go to the makers.

AND POWDER MUST BLEND WITH THE SKIN

THE natural skin tone you hear so much about today cannot be had with bargain counter powder. For in this day and age no sophisticated woman relies on her powder box for color. Color must come first and the powder that goes on top must actually blend with the skin . . . That new Beige powder from Primrose House is the favorite in smart circles today because it is exactly the right shade and texture for that natural effect. So fine, it actually becomes a part of the skin. It does not cake or clog the pores nor does it ever leave the face spotty or hard as do the very light or extra dark shades. Costly? Perhaps. But you can easily learn its worth by buying a dollar's worth of this $3 powder.

At all better class drug and department stores, in boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

"HERE DWELLS YOUTH"

ERMINE PROVES POPULAR FOR TRIMMING FALL GARMENTS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The fur is flying on to some of the new dresses. Although so many people ridiculed the idea of fur trimmed frocks, others who knew their sartorial world predicted that the advent of the tunic would mean that sooner or later, the skirt would be fur-edged. That prophecy is fulfilled. The fur edged hem should be attempted by the tall woman, the shorter woman will find that it has a tendency to shorten the line.

DESPITE the dismal tales of depression that one hears everywhere, we have never seen so many ermine trimmed coats and suits; possibly ermine may prove an antidote to depression and bad times. Anyway an ermine trimmed suit or coat should help one to bear reverses with becoming fortitude. Several suits lavishly trimmed with snowy ermine have been glimpsed in various restaurants and resorts.

* * *

WOMEN who have a fondness for the tunic-frock are now able to indulge that liking, for the tunic is attuned to the mode and is seen everywhere; ideal for formal afternoon wear would be the Blanche Lebouvier model shown here. The long tunic is of silver and pink lame of fine design. The narrow skirt is edged with fur. The rich material is discreetly and simply tailored. All these details are most important. When lame is fussily fashioned it loses all its chic and charm. The more lavish the material, the simpler the design is a cardinal rule that obtains always for the well-dressed woman.

HEIM IS FAMOUS for fine suits and you may well see why from the sketch shown on this page. It is of black raily kasha and has a collar of white ermine. A new touch is introduced by the blouse of ermine and white satin which has a double-breasted waistcoat effect that is extremely good. Ermine trimming is introduced cleverly at the cuffs, too.

An Extra Slice at a Meal

At the new low bread prices we can eat up the wheat . . .

WHEN the price of wheat fell so far that everyone saw a new level had been established, A&P cut the price of its standard large size loaf. It's the policy of A&P to give its customers the savings on raw material.

There is another good reason for this reduction. American farmers are suffering from a glut of wheat. There's more than enough to go 'round—a bushel apiece for everyone in this country over last year's supply.

Congress has tried to help. President Hoover put the Farm Board to work. But the farmers are still overloaded with wheat. An extra slice a meal for each of us would do the trick—and at A&P prices it wouldn't cost much.

The best way to get rid of our surplus stock is to encourage the people to eat it up.

P. R. R. OPPOSES FREIGHT BY BUS

Louis M. Hubert and E. V. Singer, of Pittsburgh, who yesterday appeared before the Public Service Commission asking permission to operate a motor freight service between Pittsburgh and Midland, were opposed by the Pennsylvania Railroad on the ground it was not necessary. The railroad claims its service is adequate.

The applicants informed Examiner W. E. Best that merchants of McKees Rocks, Neville Island, Coraopolis, Sewickley, Leetsdale, Ambridge, Baden, Freedom, Vanport, Beaver, Smith's Ferry and Industry, to be served by them, carry small stocks and buy often. This, they asserted results in much package freight.

Bank Theft Suspect Captured in River

FALLS CITY, Neb., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A posse of more than 150 men captured a bank robbery suspect in the middle of the Missouri River last night.

When the posse approached the youth's home, on a sandbar, he jumped into the river and swam to the Missouri side before two officers caught up with him in a rowboat. His name was given as Russell Clark, 18. He said he ran because he was frightened at the sight of the armed men.

The possemen were searching for three robbers who stole $1,000 from a bank at Nemeha, Neb.

A Child's Delicate Taste knows quality

What woman ever applies food economies to her children? At least not at the expense of giving them something they do not like.

Nucoa is the children's spread for bread because children love it. The child's taste appreciates Nucoa's sweetness and delicacy even more than the grown-ups!

The hot-toast test is fun for the children. Only when you have Nucoa be sure there is plenty of toast!

Nucoa is good because of constant care. Because margarine does not permit compromise in quality. Cheap margarine actually tastes cheap.

Nucoa is so economical that there remains little reasoning on the side of cheaper products. Cheapness in margarine cannot give you anything. It can only take away.

Nucoa aims to be the finest margarine possible to make. Remember that when you go to the grocer for your margarine supply.

Trolley Line Settles Suit Over Collision

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Oct. 16.—Suit of Lillian L. Barge and her husband, John G. Barge, against the New Castle Electric Railway Company, on trial before Judge James A. Chambers, was brought to a close through an agreement by which Mrs. Barge receives $1,000 and Barge $1,500. Mrs. Barge was injured while riding in a street car which collided with a truck.

LIFE TERM CUT TO 18 YEARS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The life sentence imposed on Patsy Corbi, as an accessory before the fact in a Black-hand murder case in Clarksburg eight years ago, has been commuted by Gov. Conley to 18 years, because of his good behavior and his efforts a year ago in aiding the warden of the state penitentiary to apprehend a group of escaped prisoners. Four men were executed in the case.

WORKERS DISCOVER QUICK METHOD TO OVERCOME FATIGUE

They Take a Moment to Eat or Drink Something Sweet

Salesmen who cover miles each day, and business folks who go at top speed at their desks and counters, know that mid-afternoon is the zero hour as far as energy is concerned.

Since rest and relaxation are out of the question at this busy time of the day, countless workers have found to their delight that a piece of candy, a cookie, ice cream, or a sweetened drink—even sugar dissolved in water—restores vigor almost immediately.

The reason for this is that the sugar content of these "snacks" supplies the system with quick nourishment without taxing the digestive system. When the body is thus nourished, fatigue is materially lessened.

Recent tests among workers have proved the value of this practice of eating something sweet in mid-afternoon. A well-known physician in Philadelphia often advises business men to drop in at a soda fountain at 4 o'clock and drink a flavored milk shake. Nervous exhaustion is overcome and the evening meal is eaten later with calm enjoyment.

The demand of the system for refined sugar should not be denied. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with refined sugar. The Sugar Institute.

Doll Catches Fire, Little Girl Burned

SLEEPY CREEK, W. Va., Oct. 16.—Irene Rockwell, young child of Mr. and Mrs. John Rockwell, was severely burned when a celluloid doll, with which she was playing, caught fire from a nearby oil stove, and set fire to the tot's clothing. Her mother, happening to be close by, smothered the flames. Since the accident the child has contracted scarlet fever.

THIS Luxurious COFFEE FLAVOR kept under lock and key for you!

WHITE HOUSE COFFEE—long famous for finer flavor—now comes to you with more rare goodness than ever before. For the Thermo-fresh tin prevents a needless waste of coffee flavor that robs you of the full enjoyment of coffee.

Recent experiments prove that coffee flavor evaporates most rapidly immediately after roasting, with a loss of 60% in only nine days.* Since coffee rarely gets from roaster to consumer in so short a time, quick vacuum sealing is the only way to prevent this headlong escape of flavor and freshness.

Now the flavor of White House Coffee is guarded for you by the new Thermo-fresh tin . . . Locked up in its own redolent aroma, this coffee comes to you with all its glorious, just-roasted freshness . . . 60% more flavorful than you've ever tasted it, or other coffees. When you use White House Thermo-fresh Coffee you can be sure you're serving the best there is.

Naturally, White House Thermo-fresh Coffee costs a few cents more than the ordinary run of coffees. But try it just the same. Your grocer carries it because he believes 60% more flavor is worth the difference.

Local Women Learn Soap and Hard Water Will Not Cleanse

Just add this new water-softening cleanser for amazing results—requires ½ the time, ¼ the soap . . .

THIS city's water is too hard for the best washing results. Clothes become faded and "gray" with repeated washing in this hard water. The best soap is not effective.

Local housewives are turning to a new discovery that gives almost magic results in any washing. It is not a soap—but a water-softening cleanser that changes "hard" water to "soft"—stops fading—cuts washing time in half and requires only one-half the ordinary amount of soap.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1929 women used over 24,000,000 packages of Climalene—for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics, fine china. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white.

Remember the name — Climalene. Your grocer has it. Sold only in 10c and 25c packages. 175-R

More Than a Million Lines GAIN!

As Compared With the Same Period of Last Year

With both other Pittsburgh newspapers facing increased advertising linage losses, the Sun-Telegraph is still more than a million lines ahead of last year.

WHAT COMPLETE FIGURES SHOW

The Sun-Telegraph GAINED 1,049,484 Lines
The Press - - - LOST 2,946,704 Lines
The Post-Gazette LOST 972,183 Lines

Sailing along on its record of past performance, the other evening and Sunday newspaper still leads the Sun-Telegraph in total advertising linage—but how this lead has been reduced!

For the first nine months of 1929, the Press carried 5,829,756 more lines of advertising than the Sun-Telegraph—a lead of 46.2%. For the same period of this year, this lead of the Press has been cut to 1,833,568 lines, or 13.4%!

More and more, advertisers in every classification are coming to realize the superior selling power of the Sun-Telegraph in the Pittsburgh market, and this is reflected in the increased linage in this newspaper.

Hornsby Starts Well.

PITT GENERAL BEST SINCE HOLLERAN

IN TRYING TO dope out in advance the probable outstanding star of the University of Pittsburgh football team this year, don't overlook Eddie Baker, captain and quarterback. Pitt men are enthusiastic over the brilliant start that Baker has made, and many of them are predicting that he will prove to be the smartest general and signal caller the Panthers have had in many years. A remarkable kid is Baker, from any angle. He is an "A" student in all his classes, a year-round athlete, always in the proverbial pink, and though apparently frail in comparison with most of the other members of the Sutherland gridiron squad, is never hurt.

Eddie Baker

Baker learned to punt this year, so as to be able to fill the gap in that respect, and is doing it brilliantly, besides taking care of the many other duties of his important position in a manner to make him look like one of the most valuable players the Panthers have had in a long time. He understands plays and players, and sizes up an enemy defense better than any Pitt quarterback has done since the days of Tommy Holleran, at least.

BUT THE FOOTBALL smartness of the Pitt team this fall is not confined to Baker. Ranking close to the captain as a smart and valuable gridder is Ralph Daugherty, another typical Pitt center on a long list of good ones, and two more smart boys on the squad are Eddie Hirshberg and Paul Reider. Warren Heller, the new halfback, is another who is not lacking in thinking ability.

In fact the whole Panther team this fall is of an unusually high standard mentally. Just now it is the physical side that is worrying Coach Sutherland. He has experienced more ill luck in the form of injuries than in any recent season. Last week no fewer than 12 players out of a squad of 36 were unable even to practice, and, too, most of the cripples were the good men of the squad. Jim MacMurdo, at least, is not likely to be fit for even the Syracuse game next Saturday. The Panthers may win that event, despite their none too good physical condition, by reason of the fact that they are so well coached, but after that they'll have a hard row to hoe.

AMONG THE NUMEROUS former Pitt football stars who are coaching at other colleges throughout the country, none has made a more successful start this fall than Mike Getto, all-America tackle, in 1927, and now line coach at the University of Kansas in Lawrence.

The Kansas team is going in fine style and much of its success is being attributed to the splendid work that Getto did in turning out a strong line. By the way, reports sent Eastward of the Kansas eleven's game against the Haskell Indians last Saturday were incorrect. Some Eastern papers published the score as 7 to 0 in favor of Haskell, when as a matter of fact Kansas won easily, 33 to 7. The 7 to 0 score was only that of the first quarter.

Mike Getto

THAT THE GAME between Pitt and Notre Dame at the Stadium one week from next Saturday will be attended by the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a sport event in Western Pennsylvania is a certainty. Notre Dame and Carnegie Tech filled the big bowl last fall for the first time, but on that occasion the attendance was limited to 61,900. W. Don Harrison, director of athletics at Pitt, announces that the erection of temporary bleachers along the sides and ends of the Stadium for the big game next week will make it possible to accomodate a crowd of close to 70,000, or about 8,000 more than the present record.

AS TO THE present ticket situation for the Notre Dame game, Director Harrison reports that the supply is not yet exhausted. He is still able to fill orders, but urges that applications be sent in at once. He has at his offices in the Stadium 150 reserved seats at $3, and between 1,000 and 1,500 seats at the ends of the bowl at $1.50. Many additional $1.50 seats also are still available at the Joseph Horne Co., Spalding's, 3806 Forbes street and 6003 Penn avenue.

At the end of the week or the first part of next week, possibly Monday, there will be placed on sale 5,000 extra seats in the temporary bleachers to be specially constructed for this game. The seats in these bleachers along the sides of the Stadium and in front of the permanent stand will be reserved, and those at the ends of the field will be unreserved. They will be on sale both at the director's office in the Stadium and at the four public agencies named above.

THE ACTION OF the New York National League club in purchasing Third Baseman Johnny Vergez from the Oakland club, of the Pacific Coast League, leads many baseball fans to wonder just where Manager John McGraw plans to make the youngster fit into the Giant lineup, provided Vergez proves good enough for a regular berth right away in the big show.

Johnny Vergez

According to one well-known scout who looked over the new Giant this year, Vergez is a fine third baseman but can't play anywhere else. As the Giants already have a pretty fair third sacker in Freddie Lindstrom, there would appear to be no chance for any rookie to break in at that position.

THAT McGRAW SENSES need for extra infield material was indicated by his action in drafting Hugh Pickering from Birmingham in the Southern Association, but if Vergez can play only third base, as reported, he could hardly be counted upon for general infield utility duty and it is unlikely that the Giant boss would spend the big sum paid for him merely for the purpose of getting an extra third baseman. That McGraw plans another attempt to convert Lindstrom into an outfielder, which he tried to do in 1929 without marked success, is doubtful.

ONE RUMOR HAS it that relations between the manager and Lindstrom are not as pleasant as of yore, that McGraw was not overly pleased with Freddie's work at some stages of the 1930 season and that he either aims to throw a scare into the third sacker or may consider trading him if he can fill his shoes acceptably.

If the Giant chief finds that he cannot use Vergez to advantage he will have no trouble making a deal for him with another National League club, Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Braves, had had his eyes on the youngster for some time, was one of the bidders for him, in fact, and the Boston club, for one, probably would jump at a chance to get him.

Even though Pitt and Carnegie Tech will play away from home this week, Pitt football fans will not be left without some good

Section I.
Allderdice at Schenley.
Section II.
Oliver at Langley.

The South-Westinghouse battle, tid-bit of the program for the week-end in the City Scholastic League, tops today's scholastic gridiron program and sets the stage for a fine schedule for tomorrow and Saturday.

Grover Washabaugh's charges at South have provided the thrills of the early season as they have marched to the top in Section I, of the City League. They got away to a slow start, losing to Langley in an intersectional contest, but came back nobly, defeating Peabody and the Champion Schenley eleven for a perfect record in their section.

MAY TAKE LEAD

Westinghouse, having played and won one game in the section, can usurp the lead by beating South today. The game is listed for Westinghouse's field, and South Side fans, under the direction of the Business Men's Association, plan a wholesale invasion of the Silver Lakers' stadium.

In Section II, Allegheny and South Hills clash at Langley High field. A victory for South Hills will place Majeski's eleven in undisputed possession of first place, while if Allegheny wins, the North Siders will gain a 50-50 standing.

TILTS TOMORROW

Tomorrow's card in the league is featured by the Allderdice-Schenley game in Section I, and the Langley-Oliver tussle in Section II. A victory for Oliver over Langley will put the Brighton Road eleven in an enviable position in the sectional race, and if South Hills is beaten today, will give Oliver the lead.

Tomorrow's W. P. I. A. L. and non-league schedule is featured by the Pitcairn-Braddock; McKees Rocks-Coraopolis; Dormont-Crafton; Canonsburg-Waynesburg and Woodward-Newcastle contests, the latter a night game.

MEET OLD RIVALS

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 16.—Greensburg and Hurst High School elevens, old rivals on the gridiron, are pointing for their annual clash at Offutt Field here Saturday. In four previous games, Greensburg has emerged victorious over the township eleven.

Greensburg is in only fair shape for the battle with several of its players nursing injuries. The Brown and White has yet to be defeated this season, while Hurst has lost only to Clairton.

Norwin High School expects to be ready for its second important clash in a week, meeting Homestead on Norwin Field. Mt. Pleasant and East Huntingdon Township are grooming for what they expect to be a hard battle, while Latrobe hopes to continue its winning streak at the expense of Connellsville.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY:—ARRIVED AT SCENE OF ACCIDENT BEFORE IT HAPPENED—On November 8, 1905, attaches at a hospital near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., saw a freight train and passenger train traveling toward one another on a curved single track of the D., L. & W. Railroad. They foresaw that a collision was inevitable, and rushed an ambulance to the scene of the accident a few minutes before the trains collided head-on. An account of this is contained in the Wilkes-Barre Record, of November 9, 1905. DOES ONE-HALF OF TWO AND TWO EQUAL 2 OR 3?—The answer is two. Had the question read "DO one-half of two and two equal 2 or 3," the answer would be 3.

WISCONSIN LOSES STARS

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Northwestern hasn't had all the hard luck in football this season. Wisconsin has had more than its share.

The Badgers have lost two letter men and two promising sophomores by broken bones already. Nello Pacetti, veteran halfback, and Paul Ellicker, flashy sophomore halfback, broke their collarbones; Neil Hayes, varsity quarterback, and George Thurner, sophomore end, broke their ankles.

Thurner was the latest casual. His broken ankle was discovered yesterday.

BOAT RACE OFF

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 16.—(AP.) The second race of the international series for the championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleets was again postponed today when Captain Angus Walters, skipper of the Bluenose, found he could not have the Canadian champion ready in time to sail a race that could be completed before dark.

Simmons Takes Batting Title by Two Points

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Al Simmons, cleanup man for the World Championship Athletics, beat out Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, for the 1930 American League batting championship by two points, office averages revealed today.

So close was the struggle between the two for the batting crown that a rush order was filed with the league statistician by the American League and the results placed, Simmons' average at .381 and Gehrig's at .379. The official, final standings of the two batsmen:

	G.	AB.	H.	Pct.
Simmons	138	554	211	.381
Gehrigh	154	581	220	.379

Sport Vignettes

All of that hoorah today is the surprise South High School eleven playing Westinghouse after having beaten Peabody and Schenley . . . Don Holland, quarterback ace of the South team, who was pretty much the whole works in last week's game with Schenley, is a son of E. J. Holland, an old South Side athlete, who dates back to the days when the Emerald A. C., was in its prime . . . . Pittsburgh will be safe over the week-end because the Pitt and Tech teams, playing at Syracuse and South Bend, respectively, will take most of the active football writers and the publicity men with them, departing tonight . . . . Vanderbilt University boasts a guard named Marion Talley, but he sings bass . . . . Scribes covering the Navy-Notre Dame game last Saturday lost count of the Notre Dame subs, some of them claiming from 10 to 15 full teams were used.

Answer to query—No, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," was not written by Jack Sharkey . . . . A lot of folks are under the impression that the Howard College team that is playing the Dukes here tomorrow night is from the Negro college of that name, but it isn't . . . . The Negro Howard institution is located at Washington, while this one is in Alabama . . . . The composing room has been ordered to keep standing these headlines: "Pittsburgh to Retain Hockey Franchise," and "Pittsburgh Loses Hockey Franchise . . . . Undoubtedly one of them will come in handy before the season gets under way—that is, if both are not worn out before then from too much use . . . . . Lefty O'Doul and Fresco Thompson don't know whether to feel happy or sorry over being transferred from the damp National League cellar in Philadelphia to Brooklyn, where they run bases backward and believe it is wrong to catch fly balls, except on the first bounce.

Young Saylor, the Charleroi welterweight, who recently lost by a knockout to Baby Joe Gans at the Meyers Bowl, is planning to do plenty more fighting this winter . . . . . Like the good sportsman that he is, Saylor hasn't cracked a word about what he was up against in the Gans fight, a tough combination of circumstances . . . . First, he was fighting to get some badly-needed money to pay doctor bills for an ailing young daughter; second, he was subbing on short notice and wasn't in the best of shape, and, third, he was blinded by the punch that caused his first knockdown and couldn't defend himself against the others . . . . . Saylor's record is one that stands out with the best of them . . . . . In his entire career he has lost only a half-dozen fights, and he's throwing down the gauntlet to anybody his weight just to impress the fact that he's still in the ring.

There may be a change in George Panka's opponent when the Homestead bricklayer makes his next start at Motor Square Garden, one week from next Monday night . . . . He is matched with Joe Sekyra, but don't be surprised if Emmett Rocco, victor last Monday over Tom Heeney in the same ring, is sent against him instead.—HARRY KECK.

Cy Seibert, Boxing Manager, Suspended

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16. —(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission yesterday announced the indefinite suspension of J. M. Leisenring, promoter, of Williamsport, Pa., and John Klimash (Johnny O'Brien), boxer, of Binghampton, N. Y.

Joe Anderson, boxer, of Covington, Ky., was suspended 60 days and George (Cy) Seibert, manager, of Pittsburgh, was suspended 30 days. No reasons were given.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Oct. 16.—Young Rudy, of Charleroi, outfought Jimmy McGraw, of Martins Ferry, in seven out of 10 rounds here last night, to gain the popular decision at the end of the contest.

IRISH OFFENSIVE DRILL POOR

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 16.—Gloom in great clouds hung over the Notre Dame camp after a lackidaisical scrimmage for the first two teams yesterday afternoon. Rockne, as he hurried off the field on his way to make a train for Chicago, where he broadcasted last night, was heard to mutter:

"We'll lose by eight touchdowns, instead of three, if they don't go any better than they did today."

In a defensive scrimmage against the Hamburgs, a reserve team using Carnegie Tech plays, the university had fair success and stopped Wally Steffans' running formations while letting several long passes get away.

OFFENSIVE LACKING

On offensives, however, against the freshmen, both the varsity and second team looked poor on several new plays which were used in the skirmish. Men didn't seem to know their assignments, freshmen broke through and tackled for losses time and again, and passes went wild from the hand of Marchy Schwartz, left half.

The only change in lineup from last night was at center with the shockers, where Butler replaced Rogers, who injured his ankle early in the workout. Cavanaugh was also used at center, but his passing was poor and offset his excellent defensive play.

Jack Chevigny, assistant coach, who scouted Carnegie in its last two starts, is taking the game so seriously that he climbed into a uniform and worked with the Hamburgs at quarterback in scrimmage, emulating McCurdy, of the Tartans, as a passer and first-rate ball carrier.

On defense, the only men able to gain on line plays were Savoldi at fullback, who got off two or three long excursions, and Brill at right half, who has suddenly developed into a ball toter after

SKIBOS READY FOR TILT WITH NOTRE DAME

By JESS CARVER

A couple of experts who ARE experts come to bat today with their opinions of Saturday's Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame game. They were brought together yesterday in an informal confab, during which the two of 'em advanced their respective arguments, backing their opinions as to the outcome. Cy Comfort, who played a whale of a game at fullback for Carnegie not so very many moons ago, and Red Fleming, one of Wash-Jeff's famous sons, are the boys who'll broadcast for us today. Comfort, naturally enough, thinks Tech will win. Fleming, looking at the matter from the viewpoint of a guy who knows both systems, likes Notre Dame.

Cy Comfort

"I think," said Comfort, "that if Tech gets the early breaks it got in 1928, and the boys keeping driving, that the Scotchmen will take those Irish. That's a pretty good club out there, with a heck of a tough line and more good backs and ball toters than you can shake a stick at; yes, make it two sticks. McCurdy appears to have struck his stride, at least he has given every indication of being a real field general. In routing Buffalo, Thiel and Georgia Tech, the team has acquired the confidence it needed."

FLEMING SPEAKS

"Well Cy, I don't want to hurt your feelings or anything like that, but I think Rock is going to take you. I saw your game with Georgia Tech and I'm afraid your boys opened up a little too much. Remember, you haven't met really serious opposition yet, but you're going to meet it Saturday."

"Don't get the idea that I think Tech hasn't a good team Cy, but the fact remains that Notre Dame is about as strong as it has been for some time. As for betting, I wouldn't give you a point either way, but, well, I like Notre Dame."

The boys shook mitts and parted company very good friends indeed, but they presented their arguments in very straightforward fashion. It is true that Tech hasn't been jammed up against a real tough team so far, Georgia Tech falling down as it did, but the Tartan varsity is a powerful one, and as Comfort said, has the right . . t of confidence; not too much, and not too little, either.

The varsity squad along with the student managers, assistant managers, coaches, trainers and

FOOTBALL UPSETS NO SURPRISE, JONES SAYS

GRID ELEVENS MORE EVENLY MATCHED

By TAD JONES,
Member, All American Board of Football.

The day of upsets has disappeared from football. There was a time when one could predict with reasonably good results the outcome of most games, but this no longer is possible. With teams of all sections of the country as evenly matched as they are in these days, anything may happen and it very often does. There will, of course, be great teams, teams that will rise to the heights and overcome the heaviest opposition, but they will be the exception and not the rule. This is another way of saying that there will be few if any elevens this year or any other that will complete their seasons with unbroken strings of victory.

Tad Jones.

The 1930 football season hardly has begun and yet the developments which are entirely logical, may appear amazing to those who still think that football knowledge is confined to any one section of the country, or that any one so-called system is superior to all others. A fine football team may suffer defeat at the hands of another eleven just as good or perhaps better. Or a fine football team in the making may suffer reverses before it has reached its proper development.

PRACTICE VALUABLE

For my part I believe the time element is the most important factor of all in the development of a football team—and by that I simply mean the time devoted to actual practice. If conditions at any institution are such that a long, hard spring practice may be held with all candidates for football available, during which all offensive plays may be learned and learned thoroughly and all questions of personnel definitely determined upon it is obvious that here is an advantage that cannot readily be overcome by a team whose development is confined almost entirely to the fall season.

In a close game with teams evenly matched physically, the eleven with the greater knowledge of its plays, and the greater precision in execution has by far the better chance for victory. And these two things come from practice. No good team was ever developed by a correspondence course. But to get back to last Saturday's results for just a moment. The outstanding elevens on the Pacific Coast last year were the University of Southern California, Stanford and California. Already University of Southern California and California have been defeated by Washington State and Stanford played to a scoreless tie by Minnesota, a team that lost to Vanderbilt by a large score. Stanford apparently left its "scoring" plays at home, but then a "scoring" play is any play that "scores" whether it be a line thrust, a tackle slant, an end run, a forward pass, a split buck or what not—and usually the defensive team has something to say about the matter. The great improvement in the play of the Minnesota eleven is a fine tribute to the coaching of Fritz Crisler and his staff.

GEORGIA WIN EARNED

Georgia's victory over Yale was well earned as it was being in the balance until the final minutes of play. Down's runback of the first kickoff for a touchdown and the final drive of the Southerners for the winning touchdown were the outstanding features. I believe Yale might have used the kick to better advantage in these last few minutes than either the passing or the running game. Brown's defeat of Princeton leaves no doubt in any one's mind as to the strength of the Providence eleven and places Yale in a very uncomfortable spot. There was no doubt of Brown's superiority over the Tiger, and Yale will be hard pressed to hold them in check.

Notre Dame's victory over the Navy was conceded, but now the Irish are facing a different proposition in Carnegie Tech and one which will tax the boys from South Bend to the limit. If there is an edge it is probably in favor of Notre Dame because of the great strength in reserves, but Carnegie has a very powerful eleven and a very deceptive attack as well. The game should be worth traveling many miles to see. New York University should repeat its victory of last year over Missouri, but the westerners cannot be taken lightly. Columbia and Dartmouth face the first test for each when they square off on Saturday. Last year Dartmouth had little difficulty in winning, but this is another year, and it is by no means a foregone conclusion that the Hanover team can repeat. There is a changed atmosphere about Columbia, and it isn't going to be affected a great deal by either victory or defeat.

Cornell and Princeton engage in what should be one of the best games of the day. The Tiger will be all the fiercer for the defeat by Brown and Cornell has not as yet faced a real opponent. Cornell has in Viviano one of football's most powerful backs, however, and can be depended upon to give Princeton an extremely busy afternoon. The result should be close. Army and Harvard have had things pretty much their own way up to this point and both have been very impressive. Either one or the other must bow, however, and which one will do the bowing remains to be seen. Harvard is continuing the style of play which has characterized the Crimson attack for the past three years and the Army has had the experience of last year's contest in meeting this style. Army, on the other hand, has installed an entirely new system, having adapted the double wing back formation, which while not new combines power and deception, and may trouble the Crimson more than a little. Physically, the teams are very evenly matched and a hard, close game should result.

PANTHERS STRONG

Pittsburgh gives every indication of having another great eleven in the making, and Syracuse in Vic Hansen's first year as head coach is showing signs of real strength. The Panthers will have to travel at top speed to win this one, but should be able to pull it out.

Should Fordham come out of the game against Boston College in good condition, they will hold an edge over Holy Cross, for Fordham has a team of real veterans.

Penn travels to Madison to meet Wisconsin. The Westerners are big and powerful and I believe can match the speed of such backs as Gentile and Masters. It should be a great battle and the team that wins will bear watching in all future games.

PITT, CARNEGIE TO DEPART

other specie of aide-de-camps, entrain tonight at 9:30 over the P. & L. E. for the battle. The team will drop off the choo-choo tomorrow morning at Elkhart, Ind., where it will remain until almost time for the game Saturday. The entire varsity squad, numbering some 40 players, will make the trip.

Hello, Orange!

Cripples and all, barring those bunged up to such an extent that they can't be used in the ball game, the Pitt Panthers hie themselves out of town two hours later than the Tartans depart for South Bend. The Pittites head for Syracuse, where Saturday, the men of Sutherland tackled Vic Hanson's big Orange eleven.

With stars such as Jim MacMurdo, Eddie Hirschberg, Hart Morris, Jimmy Clark, Rocco Cutri and Frank Walton out of the prospective lineup, Pitt cannot help but feel a bit sanguine as to the outcome of the contest. Walton and Cutri were No. 1 reserve men, the others regulars. Clark hasn't been able to go at all this year and the chances of Jimmy getting into the battle with Syracuse are considered slight.

Hart Morris was bruised and shaken up in the game with Western Reserve last week; MacMurdo is still hors de combat from the West Virginia game and Eddie Hirschberg also is nursing an injured knee which he received when one of the Mountaineers clipped him from behind.

Pitt's task Saturday appears to be to crack Syracuse's highly touted line, which is just good enough that it has had but one first down recorded against it to date. It is not unlikely that the Panthers will be forced to take to the air against the Orangemen, especially if Hanson's line lives up to past performances.

Great Stuff

Elmer Layden's Night Riders, of Duquesne University, may be led by two captains, but the Bulldogs, of Howard College, who appear in Forbes Field tomorrow night, have a captain who plays two positions. Big Heywood Hargrove, of Memphis, (Tenn.), who scales 174 pounds and is playing his last year for Coach Eddie McLane, gives services as an offensive end, and a defensive tackle.

Capt. Hargrove ought to prove to be about the calmest leader who has appeared in Forbes Field under the lights this year if his reputation down in the Southland means anything. The Dukes have co-Capt. Ganzy Benedict and co-Capt. Moon Clark, halfback and guard respectively, leading them in their frays this season but the versatile Southerner may be able to lead his Crimson and Blue team to victory tomorrow night when they flash the Notre Dame system and a highly touted aerial attack against the Layden-coached Dukes.

The Howard College eleven left Birmingham at 9 o'clock last night and will arrive in Pittsburgh at 9 tonight. They are expected to go to Forbes Field for a brief workout under the great floodlights immediately. Coach Eddie McLane will then allow them to rest thoroughly throughout tomorrow in preparation for the tough go in the Pirate park.

It is probable that both the Dukes and the Bulldogs will be on the greensward at Forbes Field at the same time tonight if Elmer Layden continues his practice of extra-long workouts for his Night Riders this week.

FROSH DRILL

STUDENTS ENTHUSIASTIC

With more than 3,000 enthusiastic fans expected from Pittsburgh for the game, students here started their series of three pep sessions with a torchlight parade and individual cheering sessions at each of the 14 campus halls. There will be another tonight and a final mammoth session the eve of the game.

BLUNDERS HURT SERIES HOPES IN N. L.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Sgt. Charles (Gabby) Street's questionable handling of his pitchers in the recent World Series strengthens the contention of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph that blunders by the National League contestants have played big parts in the continued success of the rival circuit.

The American League has won the big title four times in a row, and if Gabby did stumble he followed directly in the tracks of others who slipped up mentally in the three previous events.

MANY ERRORS

Last year Joe McCarthy allowed Hack Wilson to wander around in centerfield with costly effect. One of the greatest batters in the game, Hack is not in the same class as Hazen Cuyler as a centerfielder. Rated as the best ball hawk in the league, Cuyler was in rightfield throughout the season and in the series, even after Hack had begun to falter.

In 1928, the Cardinals were trying to stave off impending defeat in the fourth game with the rampaging Yankees.

In 1928, the Cardinals had lost two straight games to the rampaging Yankees, but they were holding the foe even as late as the sixth inning when Frank Frisch, a great player with fielding weaknesses, fell down in a double play that would have ended the round in a scoreless manner. Babe Ruth and Company scored three runs on top of the slip or mental blunder, whichever you wish to call it.

SMITH PULLS BONER

Ruth was on second and Gehrig on first with one out when Meusel hit a double-play grounder to High. Andy threw to Frisch who made the force play. There are some second basemen who would have made sure of the double play by stepping off the bag after making the force, but Frisch stayed close enough to allow Gehrig to spill the Redbird, and Gehrig did this very thing. Frisch's throw to Bottomley was low and when Bottomley recovered and threw to Wilson, Ruth dove into Jimmy with such force as to jostle the ball from his hand. Frisch's part in the drama may have seemed small, but it was really important.

Many of you will remember how in 1927, Earl Smith threw a ball to Pie Traynor, as a Yankee runner dashed plateward, in the first game. That was one of the mistakes of that contest that aided in a Yankee victory.

It is not the intention here to state that the American League has been free of blunders during its big reign, but in the last two titular events it would be hard to pick any flaw in the procedure of Connie Mack or any of his players.

Kirby Under Knife For Appendicitis

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Tom Kirby, Boston heavyweight, yesterday went to the hospital to get treated for a vertebral injury, but ended up by undergoing an operation for acute appendicitis.

The boxer, injured at the Chicago Stadium during his match with King Levinsky, complained of a pain in his right side soon after his arrival in the hospital and an examination revealed acute appendicitis. An immediate operation was ordered.

His condition last night was described as good, although his attending physician, Dr. Corbett, said there was a slight danger of peritonitis.

BURNS, WEST VIEW TIE

By TOM BIRKS.

Burns A. A., of New Kensington, and West View went into a tie with McKeesport for the leadership of the Western Pennsylvania Independent Gridiron Conference last night. A bitterly-fought battle ended in a scoreless tie.

The game found Halpate, of Burns, and Stan Berkman, staging a punting duel, with honors about even. The two outstanding plays in the first half were a pass, Uansa to Lutz, good for 30 yards, and one from Mercurio that was just as good. Stan Berkman hurled a pass into the waiting arms of Mehler, good for 28 yards, and Mehler nearly got loose, but a fine tackle by Halpate stopped the movement.

The first thrill in the second half came when Sharkey intercepted one of Berkman's passes. He had a clean field ahead, but dropped the ball. West View worked the ball to the 15-yard line, but Dummer got a 15-yard penalty for holding.

Dummer tried a placement on the Burns 45-yard line, but failed. Burns found itself on the 10-yard line following a 15-yard penalty for holding, but Halpate, standing on his own goal line, kicked out of danger.

In the final period Mehler fumbled on the eight-yard line and Halpate recovered. Toby Uansa thrilled the crowd with a brilliant end run, practically getting clear. Fox and Dummer making the tackle. The last play of the game found a pass, Uansa to Lutz, completed.

Alec Fox was the outstanding player. He was in practically every play and his line play was brilliant throughout. In the matter of downs Burns outplayed West View, 6 to 3, but holding in the line wrecked two chances the Muzzio machine had to score.

Sunday East Pittsburgh and the Olympics of McKeesport, clash at the Quarry Stadium, and at Ambridge the Mystics hook up with the Majestic Radio machine. The lineup:

gridiron sport on Saturday. In addition to the night game at Forbes Field between the Duke Freshmen and the B team of Notre Dame, the Pitt Freshmen and Carnegie Tech Plebes will clash at Forbes Field at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The rivalry between the varsity elevens of Pitt and Carnegie extends also to the yearlings, and the annual game is always one of the hardest fights on the local schedule. Last year's contest ranked with the season's features, and as both first-year elevens are of an unusually high quality this fall another entertaining number is in prospect for Saturday.

Rogers Hornsby

ROGERS HORNSBY may be far from being the most popular manager in the major leagues, and there still are plenty of reasons for doubting that he will ever come even close to being as successful as Joe McCarthy was in Chicago. But as far as Hornsby's early operations have progressed, he at least must be given credit for showing that he knows what the Cubs need more than anything else. Unquestionably, that is pitching strength, and Hornsby has already bolstered the slab staff by acquiring Bob Smith and Lester Sweetland. Smith is a good enough pitcher for anybody's club, and Sweetland, though he lost 15 games against 8 won this year, after winning 13 and losing 11 last season, will not be a poor southpaw prospect by any means with a strong club behind him. What is more, Hornsby acquired both of them without losing a bit of last year's playing strength, so they represent clear gain. He is said to be dickering for another Philadelphia flinger, and has as good as closed for one more left-hander now with another second-division club, so it must be admitted that he is starting out like a manager who knows his bearings and means to get somewhere.

HELEN HICKS' PLAY MARKS TITLE EVENT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Matching the rolling fairways and fast greens of this course with one of the most brilliant rounds ever stroked in feminine competition, Helen Hicks, of Inwood, N. Y., claimed the spotlight in the second round of the women's amateur golf championship yesterday. The round saw the elimination of two former titleholders.

The 19-year-old star, whose advance has been sensational, defeated Barbara Lee, of Oakland, 6 and 7, and, in doing so, toured the 11 holes necessary to win six under par. She posted a 36, three under women's par and one under standard figures for men, on the first nine.

The defending champion, Glenna Collett, was off her game, but not enough to effect her status as a contender. She defeated Helen Lawson, of Los Angeles, 5 and 3, after having held even on the first nine. Each made the turn in 43. The Eastern girl, seeking her fifth National title, stepped out to win the tenth with a birdie 4 and sent an eagle 2 whistling into the cup to win the eleventh. She had no trouble from then on.

Two former champions, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, and Marion Hollins, of Santa Cruz, bowed to youthful opponents.

Mrs. Hurd was defeated by Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., 2 and 1. When Mrs. Hurd, then Dorothy Campbell, won her first title 21 years ago, Miss Orcutt was two years old. Miss Orcutt was 4 up at the turn, shooting a 40 to Mrs. Hurd's 45.

Miss Hollins, champion in 1921, lost to Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, 3 and 2. The Chicago Miss had a battle for the first half of the match and was 1 up as they started the incoming stretch. She had a 40 to Miss Hollins' 41.

The medalist, Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, disposed of Mrs. Brent Potter, of San Jose, Cal., 4 and 3. She had a 40 to Mrs. Potter's 41 for the first nine, finishing it 1 up. Mrs. Potter faltered on the second nine.

Taking the lead at the second hole, Mrs. Leona Pressler, of San Gabriel, Cal., runner-up in the National last year, never was pressed to remove Hermione Wocker, of Burlingame, Cal., 5 and 4. Mrs. Pressler had a 39 for the outgoing trip and a 2 up lead over her opponent, who took a 42.

Mrs. Roy Green, of Culver City, Cal., defeated Mrs. Gregg Lifur, of Los Angeles, former California champion, 6 and 4.

Today's quarter final pairings:
Mrs. Hill vs. Miss Orcutt.
Miss Van Wie vs. Mrs. Green.
Miss Hicks vs. Mrs. Pressler.
Miss Collett vs. Miss Wattles.

POLIS BATTLES CLEMENTS

Tonight is McKeesport Night on the heavy list of boxing shows in the Pittsburgh district.

Promoter Jim McGirr, of the Tube City, has arranged a double windup offering, with Nick Polis, of Aliquippa, meeting Lloyd Clements, of Swissvale, in one of the 10-rounders, and Young Joe Walcott, of Washington, Pa., boxing Jimmy McArthurs, of Saginaw, Mich., in the other.

Mike Kelly, of the South Side, and Paul Rinsko, of Monessen, are in the second bout, and Joe Bazone, of McKeesport, boxes Don Frazier in the opener.

Between Rounds

The Allen Beatty-Freddie Fitzgerald bout at Franklin, Pa., postponed from last week, has been rescheduled for tomorrow night. Andy Tomosky and Joe Boler are in the semi-final.

Al Becker, of Sheraden, will meet Casey Rhodes, Negro, of the South Side, in the second bout on the Buck McTiernan-Bucky Lawless card at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Mose Butch and Clair Repole are in the opener and Jack Wilson, North Side middleweight, and Jose Mendoza, of Cuba, in the eight-round semi-final. Incidentally, a weight compromise has been made for the main bout whereby the principals will clash at 153 pounds instead of 154 or 152, for which they were holding out.

Promoter Apples Meyers reports a heavy advance sale and indications of his first really good house of the season at the Moose Temple tomorrow night, when Mike Chambers will meet Billy Brent and Cowboy DeLaea will oppose Freddie Edwards in the two 10-round bouts, and Muscle Sholes will take on Joey Lawrence and Jimmy Thomas will battle Chuck Woods in the preliminaries.

Following are the bouts on the opening amateur card at the P. A. A. Saturday night: Jess Cunningham vs. Young Pace, Earl Mayhew vs. Burke Vesley, Mike Sankey vs. Steve Smith, Anson Greeves vs. Tom Campbell, George Bencho vs. Walter Devlin, Al Sunseri vs. Steve Stefik, Pat Powers vs. John Birek, Joe Penney vs. Gene Judge, Max Elling vs. Dan Sherick and George Schlee vs. Bob Rupple.

Bill Flanigan and Chip Freeman box the main bout of a benefit show at Clearfield, Pa., tonight with Jimmy Reed and Jesse Duke in the semi-final. Ralph (Kid) Wagner meets Billy Jones, local Negro lightheavyweight, at Philadelphia.

The amateur boxing show originally carded at the Pastorious A. C., in Esplen, tonight, has been postponed until Thursday night of next week.

Lott Advances To Semi-Finals

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, member of the Davis Cup team, entered the semi-final round of the Greenbrier autumn tennis tourney yesterday. He advanced by defeating Alexander Keiles, Baltimore, 6-1; 6-3, after having disposed of Edward Brooke, Jr., Philadelphia, 6-1; 6-1. Keiles earned the right to meet Lott by beating Ebret Howell, Philadelphia, 6-3; 7-5.

EDDIE SHEA BOWS

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Allen Whitlow, Superior, Ariz., featherweight, won a 10-round decision over Eddie Shea last night. Whitlow had a tighter defense than Shea.

FIGHT DATE CHANGED

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—W. L. (Young) Stribling has announced that his 10-round bout with Arthur De Kuh, in Atlanta, had been postponed from Nov. 3 to Nov. 11.

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 34

Not many changes were made in the Athletics of 1914 with the exception that Bob Shawkey, now manager of the Yankees, and Rube Bressler, a lefthander, joined the pitching staff.

Connie Mack

We started off with a mighty flourish and headed for the pennant early in the season. In the first half of the race we were 12 to 15 games ahead.

Everything pointed to us winning the championship without ever being challenged at any stage of the fight when suddenly a sinister menace to major league baseball loomed.

During the previous winter, the Federal League, an outlaw circuit, had been quietly organized. At first it gained little headway and not much attention was paid to it.

Later it interested some multi-millionaires in the venture and soon had the financial backing to go ahead and expand. It had big ideas for 1915, so around mid-season of 1914 it started a drive against American and National League players for delivery the next spring.

As the Athletics held the highest honors in baseball and had a cast which included some of the most desirable players in the nation, the opposition naturally did not neglect our club.

FEDERAL LEAGUE GROWS

Federal League scouts popped on major league teams from all sides. These agents all were former major leaguers and often personal friends of the men they sought. By the middle of July all of our players had been approached and astonishing salary lures were thrown out to them. This had an immediate effect on the players and caused decided unrest in baseball. Instead of playing their normal game and hustling to get their team ahead, the men of baseball spent more time on and off the field haranguing about the salaries offered them.

It also caused a rift among the players. The first thing I found out was that there was a genuine dissention on our team. One faction urged sticking to organized baseball while the other was just as loud vocally in urging players to jump.

"Let's go after the money and jump for the biggest offer," one side cried.

"It's a boneheaded play and you will be better off sticking to the ship," argued the other.

PLAYERS' SPIRIT CHANGE

This caused a real letdown in our work, and, instead of winning the pennant easily, we had to exert ourselves to the utmost to pull through. Late in the race I talked the players into forgeting Federal League salaries for a while and playing real ball.

The players responded with enough spirit at least to get them in another World Series, but the old dash and snap was not there. The Red Sox came fast in the closing weeks and seemed to be the only club with contented ball players. The Athletics just made the grade and nothing else.

The Athletics started their fifth World Series with a cloud over them. Like the man in Goldsmith's poem, they were remote, unfriended, melancholy, slow.

The players were tight-lipped, and there didn't seem the slightest desire among them to study the ways of the Braves, their opponents, in the classic.

Heretofore, after we clinched the pennant, all one would hear around the ball club were questions about the ability of players on the National League pennant winner they were to meet. For all the advance talk the Athletics had concerning the Braves, one never would imagin they were going to meet them for the highest title in baseball.

As we all know, the Braves beat the Athletics four straight games, to the utter surprise of fans in general, who had not the slightest conception of the conditions prevailing on our team.

It was written down as the biggest upset in World Series history, and perhaps in a certain sense it was, but, knowing the mental turmoil of the players and their utter lack of purpose, spirit and industry in the games, it was anything but a surprise to me. You can't get away from the returns, but it was not the Athletics playing their normal game who were beaten.

At the end of the debacle when I reviewed the season and saw how easy it was for us to win in the first half when all of the players were a happy family, and with an unconquerable ambition to win, it made me sick to feel that Federal League scouts with theatrical salary offers could change all of this. It was a shock to me that so many of our players were in a receptive mood to talk business and at once neglect their playing to deal to the best advantage with outlaws.

CONNIE LOSES CONFIDENCE

I became absolutely disgusted with conditions. We always had treated our players liberally and paid them the biggest salaries possible. Then to see them turn against the club and willingly negotiate with a new organization caused me for a time to lose all confidence in players.

This may have been a mistake on my part. Perhaps I should have used more temperate methods, but remember I had discovered, coached and developed the majority of our players and regarded them as sons.

We owners were facing the first real menace in many years from the outside, and to think that the players would desert us in this crisis, snap their fingers at our big investments, was extremely dispiriting.

I was completely disillusioned and wondered what my next step would be.

In previous years, at the end of the season or a world series, there were always hearty partings between players and manager. It was pleasant to shake hands with a valuable player and wish him an ejoyable rest and express the hope that he would be back the next spring better than ever.

No compliments were exchanged at the end of the World Series in 1914. It was a most chilling and mournful parting.

BELANGER VICTOR

STRATFORD, Ont., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Frankie Belanger, Toronto, holder of the Canadian flyweight crown, last night outpointed Fernando Geraldo, flyweight champion of the Philippines, in an eight-round main event which featured the first professional boxing show ever staged in this city.

FESLER WORKS OUT

COLUMBUS, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Wesley Fesler, Ohio State's handy man, has scared the Buckeye camp by hurting his left knee with a head butt. He worked out for a brief period in yesterday's workout and then retired. He is expected to play against Michigan Saturday.

ARMY DEPARTS

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A large attendance gave Major Ralph Sasse an excellent opportunity to test the ability of the Army backfield in smashing a wall laid in the line scrimmage session before the Harvard game. Army's squad of 36 players leaves today for Newcastle, Mass.

FRIEDMAN MEETS WINE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okl., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The Metropolitan Athletic Club announced last night Al Friedman, of Philadelphia, and Frankie Wine, of Barberton, Ohio, middleweights, had been matched for a 10-round bout late November 1.

THOMAS BEATEN

DOCTOR CALLS HALT TO GOREY GO

By JAMES MILLER.

Thomas, who fought Soldier Dombroski, another fair-haired lad, from Detroit, in the main bout of the opening show at the Elks Auditorium, Etna, last night was declared the loser by technical knockout at the end of the ninth round of the bout, after winning the preceding eight stanzas.

Dombroski butted Thomas near the end of the round and opened cuts over and below Joey's left eye that brought blood gushing from the wounds. As the bell rang to end the round, the commission doctor went to Thomas' corner and after examining the gashes, ordered the bout stopped. Thomas was a gory sight when the fracas ended, and it was the best thing that could have happened to Joey when the doctor refused to permit the bout to go on.

THOMAS SHIFTY

Thomas, from the first bell until the time the fight ended, was his usual shifty self, punching with both fists to the head and body, winning every round. Dombroski, a southpaw, tried hard to get to Thomas with his hefty left hand but the Windy City fighter just would not be stationary long enough to be in line for a blow.

It was a tough blow for Joey, who was after his third straight win in as many starts in these parts. Johnny Dunn and Johnny Datto were two of his victims at Hickey Park, Millvale, last summer.

In the eight-round semi-final Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, managed to stay the full route with Georgie Bretsch, hard-punching welterweight, of the North Side, after being on the floor five times in the third round. Herman was sent to the canvas for counts of three, seven, six, two and four in this round. Bretsch was returned the winner on a split vote, Judge Ferris agreed on Bretsch, Frank Brown, the other judge voting for Herman, with the referee rightfully casting his ballot for Bretsch. Georgie was on the floor himself in the opening round for a nine count from a stiff right on the chin.

BALINT DISQUALIFIED

Joey Katkish, veteran feather-weight, of Lawrenceville, was given a break when Referee Robinson disqualified Paul Balint, of the North Side, for deliberately butting Katkish in the fifth round of the second scheduled six-round bout. Balint was winning when it was stopped.

Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, won the decision over Sol Lippo, of the Hill, in the opening bout. It was hard-fought affair.

A very small crowd turned out to see the hard fought contests and the most up-to-date fight club in the district.

Red Robinson was the referee of all bouts, with Frank Ferris and Frank Brown as judges. Max Zuegschmidt and Steve Russell were the timers. Harry Klaas was the announcer and Dr. M. R. Goldman was the commission physician.

CROWDER RECOVERS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Alvin F. (General) Crowder, pitcher for the Washington, American League Senators, was released yesterday from Strong Memorial Hospital, where he has been confined since Monday night with injuries suffered in an automobile collision. He was reported recovered from cuts and bruises and a chest injury.

BIG RACE TODAY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 16.—(AP.)—The eleventh running of the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes for 2-year-olds, which usually determines the winner book favorite for the Kentucky Derby of the following year, will be contested at Churchill Downs here today, and promises to be a race in which the East will vie with the West for honors.

Fight Results

Elks Auditorium, Etna—Soldier Dombroski knocked out (technical) Joey Thomas, 9 rounds; Georgie Bretsch defeated Jackie Herman, 8 rounds; Joey Katkish won over Paul Balint, disqualified, 5 rounds; Frankie Portland defeated Sol Lippo, 4 rounds.

At Peoria, Ill.—Allen Whitlow defeated Eddie Shea, 10 rounds.

BOY JOCKEY RIDES FIVE WINNERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—In the most brilliant exhibition of reinsmanship of his short, but sensational turf career, Eugene James, 17-year-old Louisville boy, yesterday rode five winners, four in succession, at Churchill Downs, Kentucky.

The five triumphs boosted his list for the year to 77, the first of which was registered on July 11 at the Latonia, Ky., summer meeting. James tried desperately to sweep the card, but failed in the second and seventh races.

First race—Kenashaw	$24.24
Third race—Overlay	$ 6.80
Fourth race—Fairy Ring	$ 4.40
Fifth race—Vera C	$ 9.24
Sixth race—Western Princess	$11.88

AUTO ROUTES TO GRID TILTS ANNOUNCED

Both Pitt and Tech will play on foreign gridirons Saturday, and hundreds of Pittsburghers are planning to follow them. For the convenience of those who will trail the gridders by motor, the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh this morning announced the shortest and best routes to South Bend, Ind., where Tech will engage Notre Dame, and to Syracuse, where the Panthers will tangle with their old rivals, the big Orange team.

Because of two detours on the Lincoln Highway in Ohio, the Automobile Club advises the following route:

Leave Pittsburgh on U. S. 30 and follow it as far as Lisbon, O.; Ohio Route 45 to Salem; Ohio 19 to Canton; U. S. 30 to Mansfield; Ohio 5 to Delphos; U. S. 30 to Ft. Wayne, Ind; Indiana 2 to South Bend. The mileage is about 400.

There is only one detour, and that of no consequence, on the Pittsburgh-Syracuse route, which follows:

From Pittsburgh follow U. S. 22 to Hollidaysburg; U. S. 220 to Millesburg; Pennsylvania 64 to Lock Haven; U. S. 220 to Williamsport; U. S. 111 to Mansfield; U. S. 6 to Troy, Pa.; Pennsylvania 14 and New York 14 to Elmira, N. Y.; New York 13 to Cortland, and U. S. 11 to Syracuse. The distance is about 400 miles.

KEEPS HORSESHOE TITLE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Tossing 21 ringers and seven double ringers with 24 shoes, Fred Hamilton, 20, of Cumberland, yesterday won his second successive state horseshoe pitching championship. In the final he defeated in two straight games John Lourenzo, 16-year-old champion of Salem.

MASTER MYSTERIES -:- By Arthur Hoerl

THE CUSTOMS FRAUD

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

The steamer Ruratania, from England, is bringing the Cardiz jewels. They belonged to the Czar of Russia. There is a sinister history behind them. The steamer docks and it is revealed that the gems have been stolen. Albert Whitely, the messenger bringing them to America, had placed the jewels in the ship's safe. Robin Dale learns that on the trip across one man was lost overboard and another died a natural death. The safe holding the jewels was opened only once on the trip. Dale calls at Whitely's hotel and learns that he has mysteriously disappeared. Whitely was abducted while en route to his hotel. Dale decides to investigate the messenger's belongings, which are at the hotel. When he arrives Whitely has returned. He explains that those who had taken him prisoner released him again, so he could accept a consignment of gems to be taken to London. They plan to steal them from Whitely.

Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER IV.

"I'll, the least I can do is make up for my other blunder. Perhaps I can devise some way to trap the band by using the second consignment as bait."

"If you need any help get in touch with Capt. Blake at police headquarters."

Further Dale learned that they had taken Whitely from his prison room blindfolded and the fold was not removed until they were on one of the bridges going into Manhattan. He had, therefore, no idea where the house was.

Later that morning Robin Dale went aboard the Ruratania again. He had no difficulty in locating the chief steward.

"I've been thinking over the two deaths you had last trip," Dale said, "and there may be a little story for my paper if I can get a little more information from you."

The steward seemed a little reluctant at first, but finally Robin Dale won him over. They got the record of the two passengers without any great difficulty.

The third-cabin passenger was Boris Tronski, with an address in London. Dale took all the details and then they went over the second-class lists. They found that the man who had died was Lloyd Simmons, also with an address in London. Two male nurses were registered with Simmons, under the names of Joseph Higgins and Ernie Ryne.

"Now I think of it," the steward said when Dale had written down all the details, "there were some radio messages about Mr. Simmons. We'll see the operator."

Mr. Sanderson, the chief wireless operator, was in the radio room when Dale and the steward entered. They learned that one of the nurses had sent a wireless to New York and that there had been an answer. Dale had little difficult in obtaining a copy of the wires.

The first was addressed to Mrs. Lois Gambier at the Hotel Sieffried on West Seventy-seventh street, and told of Mr. Simmons' death, asking for instructions. The reply was signed Lois Gambier, and instructed the nurses to proceed to New York with the body. Dale made a note of Mrs. Gambier's address. When Robin Dale left the Ruratania the chief steward would have gone so far as to break the seal on the bar for him, all because of the size of the gratuity he received as a reward for his assistance.

In order to make the investigation complete, Dale visited the ship's doctor just prior to his departure. He wanted to learn for certain what had been the cause of Lloyd Simmons' death. The doctor had no hesitancy in confirming the cause he had written upon the death certificate—tuberculosis.

"It only required a brief examination to be assured that the germ attack had arrived at a very virulent state . . . I think that will explain it more understandingly than in its technical terms."

"Would you say it was what is called hasty consumption?"

"No, that is quite different in effect."

"Thank you very much, doctor."

Robin Dale decided to walk back to the office. He kept on through West street with its conglomerate slice of humanity: officers from ships, longshoremen, ragged newsboys, sailors from every clime, draymen, beggars, white-collared men, police.

. . . . There was a small crowd gathered at a corner. Dale pushed through it. A dirty little newsboy had been placed on the sidewalk against a telegraph pole. His forehead was cut and one arm hung limply at his side. Newspapers were scattered about the gutter, some of them immersed in stagnant pools of blackish water. The urchin had been hit by a speeding taxi and they were waiting for an ambulance.

"Say, copper, doncha tell me mudder about dis. An' let Mickey take me money home. She'll be waitin' to buy eats. I'll be awright tomorrer, I gotta keep on sellin' me papers."

. . . . Near Canal there was an old lady beside a tiny newsstand. She was chewing on an old crust that she kept wrapped in an old newspaper. It took her a long while to chew each little bite.

. . . . Near a ferry stallon an old man sat staring ahead with unseeing eyes. He scratched away at a rasping violin and tried to make his voice cheery as he sang. Robin Dale made out some of the words as he passed . . . "I'll see you in my dreams . . ."

There was a sign about his neck: "It might be worse."

There might have been some excuse if they did things for precious jewels . . . and yet others who had everything they wanted did heaven knew what for three hundred thousand in shining gems. Albert Whitely . . . Jules Marrot . . . Lloyd Simmons . . . Boris Tronski . . . Lois Gambier . . . was there any connecting link between them? And where was the key? Where did the paths of a man overboard, a death and a theft cross? It wasn't easy always to tie things together . . . for instance, the newsboy, the old lady and the blind man. Dale got to thinking about them as he walked on; gosh, that wasn't hard with a little imagination—things fitted together very easily, when one found the key. With those three bits of humanity the key was courage!

And those who sought riches out of gems? The key—fear? Who feared—Lloyd Simmons—Boris Tronski? What might Albert Whitely yet do for fear of death?

MISS GRACE ELY

STORE RETURNS HEAVY BURDEN

Twenty-five to 30 per cent of all merchandise purchased in Pittsburgh stores is returned and this percentage is increasing rapidly, Bishop Brown told the thirteenth annual conference of the Bureau of Retail Training, which opened in Hotel William Penn today.

The bureau is endeavoring to formulate a plan which will decrease the amount of purchases returned. A similar project was discussed and tried several years ago, but resulted in increased returns.

A discussion of the problem by store representatives followed the address.

The Research Bureau for Retail Training is a branch of the University of Pittsburgh and is financed by Pittsburgh merchants.

On the speaking program tomorrow are: Miss Ruth Fagundus, Baltimore; Miss Bess Bloodworth, Brooklyn; Miss Caroline Spalding, Joseph Horne Company; Miss Dorothy Walsh, Cincinnati; Miss Grace Kelly, Milwaukee; Miss Emily Hopson, Brooklyn, and Miss Grace Ely, fashion expert of the retail bureau.

Brig. Gen. Kennedy, Retired, Dies at 64

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Brig. Gen. James M. Kennedy, hospital authority of the United States Army Medical Corps, is dead at the Letterman Hospital.

Gen. Kennedy, 64, retired from active service last December. He left a widow, Mrs. Mary Kennedy, and three children. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Moves to Forfeit Rum Taken in Raid

A libel was filed in Federal Court today before Judge R. M. Gibson, by R. S. Krause, deputy prohibition administrator, asking that 9,814 bottles of Canadian ale and beer, seized October 13 at 729 Carson street, be forfeited to the government. Judge Gibson granted a rule on the owners to appear in court November 5 to show cause why the forfeiture should not be made.

Ohio Companies Cut Gas Prices 3 Cents

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A three-cent cut in the price of a gallon of gasoline, both high and low test, was announced by refiners here. It will take effect today. The new prices will be 16 cents for low and 19 for high, including state tax.

Standard Oil Company of Ohio, the first to announce, said over production was the cause.

Job Bureau Acts For Fair Food Price

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Formation of a bureau to procure fair prices on food was among plans outlined today by Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, state labor adviser, in connection with Illinois' efforts to relieve its unemployment situation.

Dr. Squires is chairman pro tem of a committee appointed by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to work on the unemployment program.

Ames, Film Actor, Sued for Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Oct 16.—(AP.)—Robert Ames, stage and screen actor, was sued for divorce by Helen Muriel Oakes Ames, former New York society girl, whom he married in February, 1927. Mrs. Ames charged her husband with excessive drinking, constant sulkiness and bad temper.

The wife's complaint alleged Ames promised when they were married he would quit the use of intoxicating liquor, but kept his promise only a year. Ames was divorced in 1926 from Vivienne Segal, stage actress.

Grain Dealers Hit Farm Board Plan

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—A mandate from the Grain and Feed Dealers' Association, ranged its officers today among the foes of the federal agriculture marketing act.

A resolution adopted yesterday at the closing session of the association's thirty-fourth annual convention directed its officers to "exert their supreme efforts to mobilize the farming and every other business enterprise to realization of the utter demoralization," which it said must result from continuance of governmental policies embodied in the act which created the Federal Farm Board.

LUCKY GIRL

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Mrs. Hennessy's Testimony Is Blow to Cathie

CHAPTER XLVI.

Cathie saw Elsie Parnell in the courtroom. She hadn't seen her for years. Elsie's eyes stared through her, hard, triumphant.

Elsie had married when she was 16. It was the talk of Clara street. She used to come home to visit her mother sometimes, pushing the baby buggy. The baby was never very clean or very happy. Its sodden garments stuck to it forlornly, there was always a great spot or two on the blue satin coverlet Elsie kept on the buggy, and the baby chewed on its gray bonnet string incessantly.

Elsie had known hard times. Her husband couldn't get work. He got into trouble in his job . . . some said he had been in jail . . . They whispered about it on the street. "Poor Mrs. Parnell," Ma had said . . . and now Elsie was sitting in court, and Ma's girl was being tried for murder . . . for murdering her husband . . .

Cathie's eyes filled with tears. Her eyes sought her mother's. Ma sat staring straight ahead of her, soft brown eyes fixed on space.

A hideous period of nausea came over Cathie. She hung on to her chair, and hoped she wouldn't be sick.

Someone was handing her a bottle of smelling salts. "Thank you," she murmured. When it was evident that she was not going to faint people turned their eyes away from her, back to the witness again. The trial went on.

The man with the walrus whiskers who said he saw Cathie at the front window was on the stand. His name was Alfred Sells. Queer that his name should be Alfred . . . like Mr. Farnsworth.

Mr. Allan was cross-questioning him, tearing his testimony all to pieces.

More Witnesses

How could he be sure that the woman he saw in the window was Catherine Farnsworth? Well, he wasn't sure. Could it have been another woman? Well, yes, maybe. Could it have been a man? Well, it might have . . . leastways if the man wore a nightshirt it might have been a man. . . .

"That will be all," said Mr. Allan pleasantly. He sat down. Mr. Macmillan glowered.

Now if they'd let me talk, Cathie thought, I could explain that it couldn't have been me, because I was sitting at the dressing table in my room I heard the shot, so if he saw anybody in the window of Mr. Farnsworth's room it was someone else. But she wasn't allowed to say anything. She had to sit and listen to what people thought they knew, and if it was right she couldn't say anything, and if it was wrong she couldn't say anything either. . . .

More witnesses. More arguments between the attorneys. Mr. Allan shouting "Objected to upon the ground it is not the best evidence . . . irrelevant, incompetent . . . immaterial. . . ."

Mr. Macmillan saying slyly, "I object to Mr. Allan criticizing the witness, even if he doesn't like his answer!"

"Proceed. Proceed!" Poor Judge East listening wearily . . . having to settle it all. Where was it leading? How could all these people help the jury to know the truth? Why wouldn't they let her just tell it, and wait until they found out who really committed the murder before they had the trial?

Neighbor Testifies

How long had she known Cathie?

Since she was born, and a fine husky child she was, Mrs. Hennessy said, in spite of her being a bottle baby.

The courtroom tittered. Ma flushed angrily.

Did she know anything about the marriage?

Did she? Mrs. Hennessy licked her lips, rubbed her long grayish nose. "I'm not surprised at the turn things took," she said with satisfaction. "I always said it was going against nature. I said so right from the first!"

"Object on the ground that—"

"Objection sustained. Just what you know, madam, not what you thought."

Mrs. Hennessy gazed dolefully at the judge. "If you think I'm trying to say the poor girl done it you anticipate me and you're wrong. I'm not one to talk, and I always say it isn't the talking, it's other folks wilfully misconstruing, I say!"

"Order," the bailiff was roaring. "Order in the courtroom!"

"What do you know about Mrs. Farnsworth's marriage, and the events leading up to it?"

"Well!" Out came Mrs. Hennessy's tongue, long and pointed and pink. "Of course being near neighbors I couldn't help know that things wasn't very good with them. The girls done their best, but when Mrs. Paige was taken sick the neighbors just naturally wondered—"

"Object—"

"Not what the neighbors wondered. Just what you know, please."

Mrs. Hennessy gulped. "Well. They never could afford a telephone, the Paiges—they borrowed mine for years. So when Mrs. Paige was took sick and they had the best for her I naturally wondered. . . . I mean . . . well, I give you my word they was poor. The washing on the line. I hate to talk, but I never see so many patches. The boy's B.V.D.'s was just solid with them!"

Cathie stole a glance at Ma. Ma sitting on the edge of her chair, nostrils dilated, eyes hard . . . Mad clear through! Poor, darling Ma . . . as if it was a disgrace to have the patches known, and so much worse coming. . . .

"This boy you speak of. He was helping to support the family?"

"Bless you, Eddie! Say, if Frank Prout's uncle hadn't of gotten Eddie a job going to sea on a boat I give you my word he'd be living off the girls yet. No, he never done anything much, and the youngest Jean was spoiled. Brought up above her station—"

Ma opened her mouth and shut it hastily.

Mother Angered

"Stick to the facts," the judge warned, kindly.

"Stick to the facts! When I've kissed the Book? You don't have to tell me that, your honor. I'm no more anxious to go to jail for perjury than you are. We've always been a good, respectable family, and none of us ever in trouble, not that we haven't HAD our troubles, you might say, in a way—" With a really apologetic look at Mary Paige.

"Do you believe Catherine Farnsworth married for money?"

"What else? And I don't blame her. A good girl she always was. I'd just give her a good talking to and let her go if it was me running this. A woman can have her own good reasons——"

"Order! Order!"

"What do you know of her married life?"

"Well, it had two sides, so to speak. There was what her ma said about everything being lovely. But when I come into the kitchen——"

"Whose kitchen, Mrs. Hennessy?"

"Whose else but Mrs. Paige's? I said I come into the kitchen without knocking one day, being an old neighbor and all that, and I wanted to borrow the loan of the preserving kettle on account of my girl Lillian sending me a box of oranges. And a couple of green onions. Or was it dry onions?"

"Never mind that."

"What, sir?"

"I said stick to essentials."

Damaging Testimony

Mrs. Hennessy rubbed her long gray nose. "I was doing my best."

Titters from the crowd.

"All right, go on. You came in and found what?"

"I didn't hear much. I seen Cathie—Mrs. Farnsworth sitting on her mother's lap, and her mother comforting her, and her crying. So it looked to me—"

"Never mind how it looked to you. What else did you hear?"

"Nothing!"

"Nothing! Is that all?"

"Don't you think that's pretty plain?"

The bailiff was rapping again.

"Do you remember anything else—"

"Of course I do. But the way you're all snapping at me I don't know's I care to tell it!"

"Order, order!"

"Well, it's this way. My girl Lillian—" again Mrs. Hennessy cast an appealing look in Mary Paige's direction, "My girl Lillian married well, and she has a maid. And her and the maid of the C. T. Farnsworths was friends. Not the A. A. Farnsworths—but the C. T. Farnsworths—see? Well, her and Chester Farnsworth's maid was friends. So this other maid told my girl's maid that the two C. T. Farnsworths was expecting a divorce any time with the A. A. Farnsworths, on account of Cathie, I mean Mrs. Farnsworth having an affair with Mr. Moore—"

There was more. Cathie heard, and still she didn't hear. She saw her mother's face, saw the droop of Mr. Allan's broad shoulders.

She thought, "What Mr. Allan was afraid of has happened . . . they've all turned against me now. . . . I'm lost, lost!"

Defeating Prejudice and Bias, Surest Way Out of Rut, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Adventure is not necessarily traveling to strange places far away. Remaining in one place is not being in a rut.

There are travelers who have toured the world in a rut. There are persons who never left their birthplace who are far from being in a rut.

Adventure or rut are a matter of mind.

Thinking is the greatest adventure of all.

He travels far who overcomes prejudice and bias, seeking the worthwhile in all trails of thought. Who can give sympathetic attention to the new and unfamiliar.

To be fair to another's viewpoint, and to concede a weakness in our own, takes real mental courage.

The highways of thought lead to infinite horizons, and far beyond the boundaries reached by boat or rail.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation Of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Travelers Ponder Over Veritzen Action

I looked where Lillian bade me and saw that she was right. The Veritzen limousine was drawn up at the curb next to the black roadster, which had just pulled in behind it. And even as we gazed Otto descended from the limousine and held open the door for the entrance of the detective, who had hurriedly left his own car.

"Can you get out of here without their seeing you?" Lillian asked.

I looked back and saw that there was no other car between ours and the corner.

"I think so," I returned. I'll just back slowly until we come to the corner and then around into the cross street. Then we can go back the way we came."

"Good!" Lillian approved. "I don't know what you think, but to my mind the Fort Lee ferry is the best bet. We can phone Harry from down there."

She said nothing more until I had swung the car around the corner and was well on my way up the hill again. Then she spoke reassuringly to Mary.

"Come on out, child!" she said cheerily. "I think your game of hide-and-seek is over for the day."

"You don't think they saw us?" I threw over my shoulder as the rustling blankets told me that Mary was emerging into the sunlight again.

"Positive!" Lillian was emphatic.

"But what does it all mean?" Mary's voice was shrill. "I heard you talking just now. Is it true that that man in the black roadster drove in behind the Veritzen car and then got out and climbed in beside Mr. Veritzen?"

"Yes, it is true, Mary," I said grimly, for I was beginning to see "as through a glass, darkly," and the vision was not a pleasant one.

"Then—then——" Mary also was patiently groping through a fog. "Then that man knows Mr. Veritzen; he must have known where to find him. They must have been—Auntie Madge, Mr. Veritzen must have been the one who hired that man to trail us."

"It looks that way, Mary," I admitted, for I could see no use in lying to the child, though I hoped she, for a little time at least, would not follow her train of thought to its logical conclusion.

"But why—why?" There was insistence in her voice now. But Lillian quieted it.

"That is something we must wait to find out," she said with quiet authority. "Let us take one thing at a time as it comes. First, I think we'd better disregard Harry's instructions to telephone when we reached Englewood. We know where the man is now, and we'll just get over the river as quickly as possible. We might miss a ferry by stopping to telephone from this side. Don't you think so, Madge?"

"Indeed, yes," I answered emphatically. "The sooner we're over the Hudson and back on the New York side the better I'll be pleased."

"At this pace you ought to be pleased soon unless a cop interferes," Lillian said dryly. "But step on it! More power to you!"

And "step on it" I did, until we were going at a rate of speed I had never before dared within the limits of a town. Lillian watched the roads on either side with vigilance, while Mary, kneeling on the back seat, kept an equally keen eye out for policemen. Fortunately there was little traffic and the roads were not icy down here, an almost unbelievable contrast to the mountain region we had left, and it was but a few minutes before we were in the ferry line.

"Salute, Lady Luck!" Lillian said as first one car and then another shot up the incline facing us. A boat is in. We'll make it."

And make it we did. Moreover, as we were almost the last on board we were able to make certain that neither the black roadster nor the Veritzen limousine had followed us on.

"If I were you I'd telephone at the nearest place which is out of sight of the ferry house," Lillian advised.

"Won't you telephone Harry yourself?" I asked.

There was a hint of panic in her swift answer.

"No! No! I don't know all the details as you do. I'd have to have you standing by me, and that would leave—— There ought to be two of us in the car."

But I knew that the reason she gave, while valid enough, was not the real root of her reluctance. She had no reason to dread talking to her husband—he had been thoughtfulness personified during her recent trying experience—but I knew that the tragic shadow of Robert Savarin was so near her that only the actual presence of her bluff but adoring husband could exorcise it.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, October 17.

A fairly propitious state of affairs may be looked for on this day, judging by the predominant lunar transits. There will be some activity in business as well as employment, but also there is a figure hinting of a stubborn condition to be disposed of and also a restless and disturbing influence to be decisively vanquished. With resolution, sagacity and precaution in signing papers things may thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of fairly active and prosperous conditions, but much depends on oneself in disposing of some obstacles and crystallizations and in suppressing restless and upsetting urges toward disruption. All papers should be carefully handled. Employment is well fortified.

A child born on this day may be rather aggressive and enterprising, and should succeed and prosper despite small setbacks and obstacles, as well as a definite restless and disturbing force.

Incompatiblity of temper between a man and a woman doesn't necessarily mean a difference of temperament, but the same kind of temper—and too much of it.

Never tell a brand-new bridegroom your secrets. Wait until he gets over the "confessional" period and reaches the alibi stage.

At 17, a girl feels like having the man, who tries to eggie her across the room, arrested; at 47, she feels almost like giving him a penny for his thoughts.

If the treasure of Capt. Kidd could actually be found, today, it would probably be scarcely enough to keep a modern son and daughter in automobile tires, gasoline and silk stockings through four years of college.

* * *

"Seek and ye shall find," applies most forcibly to a man who is looking for flaws in a woman he is tired of, and to the woman who is looking for something to be jealous of.

Now that love-making is regarded as a sport rather than as an art, and a kiss has become a diversion instead of an achievement, "luck in love" depends more on bluff and bravado than on skill and charm.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Personal Cards With Gifts

Dear Mrs.. Beeckman:

1. My employer is to be married very soon, and it is, of course, my desire to send a gift for their new home. However, the bride and I are only the most casual acquaintances, which brings up my question. When inclosing my card with the gift, shall I strike out the formal "Miss," or does one leave it as engraved?

2. When sending flowers to the parents of a friend who has died, when those parents are not acquainted with one, does one leave the formal name on the card? READER.

1. It is not necessary to write a message on the card with which we send a wedding present. And now most people merely send the card, with no message written on it. You see, the fact that the gift is sent at this time carries its own message that it is a wedding gift and that it is sent with appropriate messages.

Especially in this case that you outline it would be the best form to send your card "as is," with no message, and with the name and title left as it is.

And of course you are sending the gift to the bride-to-be, at her home? This is correct, even if you do not know her very well.

2. Yes, in this case, too, the card can be left as it is. However, if you wish to write a message of sympathy—"Deepest sympathy"—this is in good form, too, but, if you write a message, then your title—"Miss"—is crossed from your card.

If the Escort Does Not Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. If I go to a party with a young man who does not dance, would it be proper for me to accept a dance invitation from any other boy at the party?

2. Should I ask him personally or send him a note of invitation to the party?

3. My sister will also attend the affair and as it is a birthday party, would it be proper if we both give her one gift, or should we each give separate gifts? B. A.

1. Yes. And I hope the nondancing gentleman will soon learn to dance—he's missing too much not to.

2. Send him a note of invitation.

3. Either is correct—just as you wish.

Acknowledging Condolences

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please give me the rule in regard to flowers or letters of condolence received at a funeral. A says it is proper to put a card of thanks in the local paper and B says the proper way is to send a personal card to each person. Please decide for us. Daily Reader.

A is quite wrong. B has the better idea, but the thanks should take the form of a personal note, not a card. One or two sentences is enough, but it should be written and in note form. Something like this:

Dear Mrs. Allen:

It was most kind of you to send the touching message of sympathy to us, and to send, too, the beautiful roses. We are deeply appreciative of your thought of us in these dark days, and we thank you.

Very sincerely yours.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY

What Does a Man Get Out of Marriage Anway?

Are bachelors the luckiest and happiest mortals on earth?

"Is a "guy a fool to marry" and pay the lady's steady board, when the world is full of girls who are running around ready for a whoopee party?

John K. says they are and he is. And if his broadcast doesn't provoke 57 varieties of violent death we'll eat all our theories on the female sex!

"Dear Sally:

"I have noticed a large number of squawks lately, from the female sex, bemoaning the fact that they find it impossible to hold onto a fellow, once they make his acquaintance. Well, why should a fellow allow himself to be 'held onto'?

"I am a young man of 25 and I take the privilege of considering myself an average young man of today. What I have to say is not my opinion alone, but dozens of my acquaintances take the same attitude. That is why I take this opportunity of voicing it. I go out about five nights a week, mostly dancing. Naturally, I meet large numbers of girls. But that is as far as it goes. I can see no reason in the world why I should be tied down to one woman, ever. Marriage is something I simply don't consider. Why should I get married, support someone for the rest of my life, and devote all my time to her alone, when this world is full of girls?

"If I feel in the mood for a girl's company, I can always get one, spend an evening with her, and that ends it. I'm under no obligations to spend any more of my time with her than I want to. Any fellow with average looks and a half decent personality can have all the girls he can handle.

"I suppose you will say that this is all right while I'm young, but how about later in life? Well, my answer to that is that there are thousands of bachelors in this world, and believe me! they're the happiest and most contented mortals on earth! They can go where they please and do what they please, and if they lose their jobs they have only themselves to consider.

"They aren't tied down to the grindstone, knowing they have someone dependent upon them.

"Take a look in any office. You can always tell the single men from the married ones. The latter are afraid to open their mouths, for they fear they might get fired. This may be a selfish outlook on life, but it's the common outlook today among intelligent, wide-awake men.

"This idea of 'falling in love' gives me a laugh anyway. These fellows who stick their heads in a noose by marrying don't fall in love. They only think they do. 'Falling in love is simply a sign of inexperience, if you ask me.

"I challenge you to show me a single man who has gone around for four or five or six years, who goes out all the time and really lives, who ever falls in love. It simply 'ain't done.' It's the dumb goof, who seldom goes out, who has just a small circle of friends—he's the one who gets hooked by some girl looking for a meal ticket.

"Some Jane gives him a 'line.' It sounds good, and more because he thinks it's something he has to do sooner or later, he convinces himself that it's love, and gets married to her. I've seen plenty of them like this, and they have my deepest sympathy.

"I suppose I have been rather hard on the female sex in this letter, but honestly, I have no dislike or hatred for girls. I'm not a woman hater. Far from it. But, on the other hand, I feel that I owe them nothing. It's simply a question of how you feel about it, and I notice that lots of girls are finding out that there are plenty in this modern age who feel just as I do about them.

"What does a man get out of marriage, anyway? Nothing but a lot of being tied down, and a lot of keeping his nose on the grindstone. Men are waking up to that fact. That is, the ones of them who have sense are. Why be a meal ticket for any woman?

"JOHN K."

Am I going to invite the girls to crash in on that argument? I am not. I don't need to. Wild horses couldn't keep 'em out. But I would like to know what these poor, "maltreated" married men think about it. So here, Dad, is your chance to come clean. At last you can tell what you've been thinking all these years, without the Missis getting wise.

Honest, now, are you as keen about marriage as you were when you stampeded up the aisle? Are you still as grateful that the Little Woman whispered "Yes?"

Or do you secretly agree with Johnny?

Do you feel that you were "hooked" . . . have you longed to be free . . . back again, making whoopee with the girls?

Give us the low down. If you had it to do all over again, would you marry, or stay single?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Cleanliness Keeps Baby in Health

We occasionally hear some mother say her baby has "sprue," or "thrush." These are the names used to describe a condition of the mouth to which children, particularly babies, are liable.

DR COPELAND

A similar form of sore mouth is found in all ages, and is known to the doctors as "stomatitis." Grown people often develop single ulcers or "canker sores."

Sprue appears as small white ulcers on the tongue, gums and the roof of the mouth. These ulcers resemble small particles of curdled milk. If neglected, the ulcers may spread through the whole digestive system, but usually they are confined to the mouth.

The child complains first of pain or tenderness of the gums. The inner surfaces of the cheeks and the gums are spotted with white patches. When wiped off these patches leave small raw spots, small ulcers.

As the trouble goes on the gums become very sensitive. Later they are swollen and spongy and bleed when touched. In fact, the mouth is so sore that the child cannot take solid food.

Lack of cleanliness is generally the cause of sprue. Unclean spoons, unclean feeding bottles, unclean utensils used in the preparation of the feedings, some form of neglect is at the foundation of the trouble.

Prevention is better than cure in all human ills. It is doubly true of digestive ailments of children. The bottles, nipples and all utensils used in preparing the baby's food must be kept scrupulously clean. After each feeding the mouth should be cleaned with an alkaline wash. Lime water or a solution of bicarbonate of soda can be used. Add a teaspoonful of the soda to a glass of water.

A piece of soft cloth or absorbent cotton wrapped about the finger may be used to wash the mouth. This must be done carefully because of the soreness. Repeat the treatment every hour or two.

The doctor will advise you about the food and prescribe appropriate treatment to build up the general health.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. W. T. F. Q.—Is there any safe way to overcome the habit of chewing tobacco. The patient in question is a slave to the habit and I am afraid it will undermine his health

A.—No. The patient should use his will power to break the habit, which is not only injurious to the health, but most unpleasant as well.

Brainy Business Leaders Huge Asset to Cleveland

By B. C. FORBES

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16.—Men make cities. Cleveland is unusually rich in conspicuously brainy business leaders and public-spirited citizens.

Mr. Forbes

Cleveland holds the honor of having produced the two greatest railway giants since Hill and Harriman. The value of such men as O. P. and M. J. Sweringen to Cleveland is beyond calculation. Not only have they developed what is probably the most extensive suburb of its class in America, Shaker Heights, a residential section of extraordinary beauty, but they have made Cleveland one of the most important railway citadels in the whole country and have been the dynamic force behind the Union Terminal project, calling for the expenditure of $200,000,000 over a period of 10 years.

CLEVELAND HAS such upbuilders as the veteran Samuel Mather, who has donated millions for worthy purposes and who at 79, is as mentally alert as ever; John L. Severance, who is presenting the city with a magnificent $?,000,000 artistic structure; Alva and C. L. Bradley, also noted for their generosity; Joseph R. Nutt, progressive banker; Cyrus S. Eaton, lately much in the public eye; John J. Burnet, the Van Sweringens' righthand railway operator, and others.

THE PUBLIC'S idea of O. P. Van Sweringen isn't altogether accurate. What has been interpreted as exclusiveness amounting to aloofness is, in reality, innate and unconquerable shyness and modesty. He is intensely human and genuinely democratic. His manner is quiet, his voice soft, but through his eyes shine the enthusiasm, the confidence, the vision which has enabled him to achieve more in the transportation world than any half dozen other men in the last decade.

A little incident Mr. Van Sweringen related illustrates how approachable and democratic he actually is. He told me, as a remarkable coincidence, that that morning his chauffeur had shown him the writer's column and expressed approval of the sentiments which it contained—this without the chauffeur having the slightest idea that the writer was going to have a talk with his employer a few hours later.

"You and I know of Napoleons of finance and industry who would not welcome such intimacy on the part of their chauffeurs. The Van Sweringens are not of the autocratic, forbidding, proud type.

MR. VAN SWERINGEN, like Sidney Z. Mitchell, Robert Dollar and a few other men of unusual achievement, finds all the pleasure he desires in his work. Golf or bridge would cost him more effort and yield him less satisfaction than solving a big business problem. He has no hobbies, plays no games—except work.

He finds relaxation in turning from his far-flung railway activities to his gigantic real estate interests. He derives equal satisfaction from both. His philosophy is that all that is necessary for a man to find joy in his daily duties is to approach them in the right spirit. Thus appr. ched, work, he holds, can yield quite as genuine satisfaction as any form of play.

ONE OF THE Van Sweringens' chief aides, W. L. Ross, genial president of the Nickel Plate road, who has a reputation for profound common sense, when I told him that this was my first visit to Cleveland and asked for a "line" on the city, observed:

"Cleveland possesses all of the advantages which a city needs to grow and prosper. It has an ideal location and the facilities of transportation that enable it to derive the fullest advantage from this geographical situation. Its railroads and its lanes for water-borne traffic bring the world within the compass of Cleveland's commerce.

"But apart from these things, Cleveland is especially fortunate in the type of men who constitute its business leadership. It is a leadership characterized by vision and courage, and by a willingness to risk dollars in the creation of new enterprises or in the revitalizing of old ones. Its men of business possess the skill as well as the willingness to achieve big things and that is what counts for most in the shaping of a city's destiny—that and the capacity of the citizenry generally to pull together for the city's good.

"This will to tackle big things in a big way assures Cleveland a predominant position among the great cities of the country. Cleveland is resourceful and resilient and it may be counted upon to be among the first to reflect improvement in the business recovery that is now long overdue."

Investment Men Elect Ferriss, Hear Strawn Plea

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—With election of officers for the coming year and an address by Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, who appealed for establishment of citizens' Committees to insure operation of all city governments on a business-like basis, the nineteenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America was brought to a close yesterday.

Henry T. Ferriss of the First National Company of St. Louis, newly-elected president, who succeeds Trowbridge Callaway, of New York, presided at the close of the final session of the convention.

Strawn, chairman of the board of Montgomery Ward & Co., a leading Chicago attorney and chairman of the citizens' committee which raised $75,000,000 to tide Chicago over its recent financial crisis, outlined the events leading up to the non-payment of any taxes in the city for two years, and described the methods used to replace the municipal government on a sound credit basis.

Blames Chicago Politicians

HE EMPHASIZED THAT Chicago's difficulties were due entirely to the selfish and unbusiness-like activities of political leaders of the various parts of the municipal government which made the assessment of property on a basis which would be legally upheld in the courts impossible. In recommending a means by which other cities may keep their fiscal operations out of similar difficulties he said:

"May I indulge the hope that our Chicago experience may result in the organization of citizens' committees in other cities, not in an emergency to meet a crisis but to commence their work early and to pursue it with vigilance to the end that the holders of municipal securities may confidentially rely not only upon the legality, but upon the soundness of their investments. Such committees are already at work in several cities, among others, the city of New Orleans."

He related statistics showing that the cost of our Federal government has been increased four fold between 1913 and 1928 and that similar increases in varying proportions had taken place in the cost of operating municipal and state governments. While admitting that a growing population and the demand of citizens for more service in the form of public improvements has made some of this increase inevitable, he blamed public indifference for permitting expenses to go to such extreme lengths.

Flays City Governments

COMPARING THE OPERATION of municipal governments to that of private business he declared:

"Have you ever contemplated the stupidity of our people in permitting our municipal machinery to be run by politicans, most of whom have never made a success of any business enterprise they have undertaken, if, indeed, they ever undertook a business enterprise? Yet, most of our citizens avoid their civic duty and 'let George do it.' They are content to leave the conduct of the affairs of our great cities to men who have no fundamental qualifications for the job. Frequently men who have no education, who know nothing about government, finance, economics, sanitation, city planning or anything else that is vital to the government and financial soundness of a great city and the welfare of its citizens.

"Just so long as we are content to have our cities controlled and officered by incompetent and inexperienced politicians, even though they be honest, we shall be menaced by all of the troubles that inevitably come from the attempts of the incapable to manage any great business."

Canal Link Funds Granted

THE LAST BAR to the construction of the final link of the intra-coastal canal which will give Pittsburgh direct inland waterway connections to the South as far as Corpus Christi, Tex., has been eliminated with the recent appropriation of $65,000 by the Louisiana legislature.

The appropriation will provide for the purchase of the final stretch of right of way and will release Federal government appropriations totaling $2,000,000 for the building of the final section which will extend about 15 miles in Terre Bonne Parish, La.

The intra-coastal canal has been under construction several years. It consists of short stretches of canal reaching from the Mississippi River and connecting a large number of bayous along the coast of Louisiana and Texas.

Cargo Transfer Eliminated

THE CANAL WILL have a nine-foot channel and will permit barges and tow boats loaded with Pittsburgh products to reach coastal points in Texas without having to transfer cargoes from one carrier to another.

It will add over 300 miles to the inland waterway system available to the Pittsburgh district. At present steel and other Pittsburgh district products are being shipped down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers in large volume. To reach points in Texas it is now necessary to transfer the products to railroads. The intra-coastal canal will eliminate the expense of this transfer and will reduce the cost of the last leg of the transportation to Texas consuming points.

The total cost of the completed canal will be about $15,000,000, including the portions already in operation.

From two to three years will be required for the building and dredging of the final link, which will open the entire system to the Pittsburgh district.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Drift Off | Local Market Steady

STOCKS DRIFT MODERATELY LOWER

Earlier 2 to 3 Point Dips Reduced; Market Sluggish; Gillette Strong, Gains 7

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP.)—Share prices drifted moderately lower in a sluggish market today, as readjustments from last week's convulsions seemed to have been completed, and Wall street enjoyed a breathing spell.

Declines of 2 to 3 points were recorded in such issues as General Electric, United States Steel, Westinghouse Electric, Air Reduction, Allied Chemical, Johns Manville, American Telephone, American Can and Eastman, but the decline was checked by early afternoon and these losses were moderately reduced. Gillette was a strong feature, making an extreme gain of more than 7 points, and Warner Bros. and Consolidated Film Industries gained about 2 points each.

Strength of Gillette reflected announcement of the completion of the plan to acquire Autostrop. The announcement indicated that, after the merger is completed, Gillette will be placed on a $4 annual dividend basis, as reduced from $5, but Wall Street had expected a reduction in the dividend, and brokerage gossip had indicated that the reduction might be larger.

UNDER PRESSURE

Pressure against General Motors for a time during the morning was a little unsettling, but extensive selling caused a decline of only 1¼ points, and the stock then recovered somewhat. It was said in brokerage circles that the selling merely represented the liquidation of a large speculating account. Most of the day's selling was regarded as profit taking on stock bought at last week's lower levels.

Consolidated Film moved upward on announcement of the closing of a five-year contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the processing of more than 500,000,000 feet of film. The rally in Warner Bros. was attributed to reports in trade circles that current operations were again showing fair profits, after the unfavorable results of the summer. The advance in this issue, however, lacked vigor, for traders are awaiting with interest the annual report covering the fiscal year ended August 31.

CAUTION ADVISED

While business news has not been as bad this week as last week's extreme pessimism had indicated, commission houses were inclined to advise their customers to move cautiously, for analysis by statistical advisory services this week have stated that sound recovery cannot be hurried.

F. W. Dodge Corporation's report of building contracts let east of the Rockies during the first 10 days of the month was one of the brightest items in the day's news, showing a sharp reversal of the trend of a year ago. The daily average of contracts let was nearly 19 per cent above September, but 11½ per cent under a year ago. Production of electricity for the week ended October 11 was reported as one-half of one per cent above the preceding week and 4½ per cent under the like period of 1929.

Call money was a little more plentiful. Although the official rate was maintained at 2 per cent, offerings were made in the outside market at 1¾.

Stock Exchange Topics

Gillette Safety Razor Issue Rises Sharply On Merger News.

A brisk rise developed in Gillette Safety Razor on the overnight announcement that terms for the merger of that company and Auto Strop had been finally agreed upon. Evidently Gillette had been harboring a rather substantial short interest, which retreated in a good deal of haste, lifting the stock for a gain of some 7 points. Wall street, however, calculated that, on the basis of figures cited, Gillette must have paid at the rate of close to $100 a share for the 186,231 shares of its stock bought in the open market. There were those also who were not a little perplexed by the statement that new accounting methods to be introduced would mean that average annual earnings over the period of the last five years would be reduced by approximately $2,370,000. With the merger completed, it is intended dividends will be inaugurated on the stock on a $4 annual basis, compared with the current $5 rate.

P. D. Saylor, president of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., says: "Our new beverages have been given an excellent reception and are showing steady increase in sales volume. They should materially assist sales volume during the coming year. The company is in the strongest financial condition in its history and our organization looks forward to the new year with every confidence. Preliminary figures for the fiscal year ended September 30 show that the dividend for the year has been earned by a good margin."

In connection with the steady pressure on General Motors it was reported that the selling represented forced liquidation from a large speculative account which had been impaired by the recent collapse in Industrial Rayon and Loew's. In view of the fact that none of the offerings were coming from Wilmington, Wall street was inclined to credit this rumor rather than to feel that the action of General Motors reflected any change in the bullish attitude of interests sponsoring the stock.

Colorado Fuel and Iron Company's third quarter operations will show a substantial deficit. In the first six months of this year net profit was $1,169,053, or $3.99 a common share. Although some seasonal rail business is now being placed, and the company's rail mill has resumed operations, it is doubtful if the improvement will prove sufficient to bring operations "out of the red." For the current quarter, Colorado's operations are somewhat less than 50 per cent of capacity. With an operating loss of the current half-year likely to absorb much of the first half profits, earnings for the year probably will do little more than cover annual dividend requirements of $2 on the common stock. Directors meet for dividend action the latter part of this month, and the question of maintaining the current rate will receive serious consideration.

Some piece of unexpected good news might possibly influence more hurried short covering. The widely disseminated report that the United States Steel Corporation was considering declaration of an extra dividend at the meeting scheduled for October 28 need not be ridiculed as unworthy of consideration. The June 30 balance sheet of the corporation showed $134,952,000 cash on hand, an increase of $10,509,000 over the December 31, 1929, report. Net quick assets were $440,704,000, an increase of $47,867,000. The indicated net earnings for this year are $11 a share on the common. A nominal extra over and above the $7 regular dividend could certainly not be viewed as a radical departure from conservatism.

General Fireproofing Company has received an order for $350,000 of equipment for the new Los Angeles City Hospital. George C. Brainard, president, stated earnings during the third quarter and the first half of October are considerably above dividend requirements. The company pays $2 annually on the common. The company does not issue quarterly reports, but net earnings for the common during nine months ended September 30 are estimated to have covered dividends for the full year. Operations of the company's plant are at 75 per cent.

Imports by France Decline in Value

PARIS, Oct. 16.—French imports in the first nine months of this year have amounted to 39,244,005,000 francs (about $159,000,000) or 45,524,678 tons. This is a decrease of 4,613,678,000 francs and an increase of 1,613,122 tons compared with the 1929 figures.

Consolidated Film Closes Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A five-year contract involving the processing of more than 500,000,000 feet of film has been closed between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Consolidated Film Industries.

Venezuelan Crude Oil Curb Proposed

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Lago Petroleum, owned by Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company has submitted to Gulf Oil, Royal Dutch Shell and Creole Petroleum Corporation a proposal that oil production in Venezuela be reduced 9 per cent from output as of October 1, last.

The proposed limitation was fixed at 9 per cent as being approximately the same as the ratio of reduction to which United States producers have voluntarily submitted.

Favors Modifying Packers' Decree

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Members of the Federal Farm Board unanimously support the movement for modification of the packers' consent decree, although as a board they have taken no formal action on this, Alexander Legge, chairman, said today.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—With continued unfavorable weather reported from Canada and small crop in France officially confirmed, wheat prices here took a new upward swing early today. An advance in exchange rates from Argentina was looked upon as likely to bring about a better demand for wheat from North America. Opening ⅜ to 1⅛c up, Chicago wheat future delivery contracts held near afterward to the initial range. Corn started ⅛ to 1c higher, but subsequently reacted.

NEW BARGE LINE HAULS STEEL

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 16.—Marking the first entry of private capital into common carrier river transportation on a large scale, the first tow of the newly-formed Mississippi valley barge line arrived here from St. Louis last night.

The tow, consisting of 17 barges loaded with steel and other products, was viewed with exceptional interest by river men due to the revolutionary construction of the equipment. The towboat is one of the largest in river service. The barges have been designed with pointed bows to reduce water resistance.

The line has an investment of $3,500,000 in river equipment and will run regular service between New Orleans and Cincinnati. While the line will not directly serve the Pittsburgh district, joint rail and river freight rates have been established which will make the service valuable to many types of manufacturers. Joint rates with the railroads have also been established at southern points so that the Mississippi valley line has become an integrated part of the nation's general transportation system.

The government-owned Mississippi-Warrior barges render a similar service, but the new line represents the first venture of private capital into a line which is directly tied in with the railroad system by joint rates. It is viewed by river men as one of the most constructive steps taken in river transportation in recent years, and as a conclusive demonstration of the fact that the operation of common carrier barge lines over the full length of the river system is commercially feasible in spite of the claims made by railroad officials that such service was only possible under government subsidy.

Gas Price Slashed By Ohio Standard

CLEVELAND, Oct. 16.—Standard Oil Company o. Ohio has reduced gasoline 3 cents a gallon in Cuyahoga County, which includes Cleveland. Local competitive conditions are given as the reasons.

Copperweld Steel Placed on $2 Basis

The board of directors of the Copperweld Steel Company declared quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on the capital common stock, payable November 19 to record at the close of business October 31.

During the current year to date, the company has enjoyed the largest volume of business in its history, exceeding the same period in 1929, which in turn was a record year for the company.

In May of this year the company introduced the use of electric steel in manufacturing operations. This has enabled the firm to produce a material of higher tensile properties and has opened a broader field for the use of its products.

PICKANDS PLANS TO BUY EMPIRE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 16.—Negotiations are under way for purchase of the Empire Steel Corporation, Mansfield, by Pickands, Mather and company, Cleveland.

Empire Steel was organized as a consolidation of six independent steel companies, producing sheet steel principally. It has three plants at Niles, including the Thomas, Waddell and Falcon works, with its principal property at Mansfield, where a steel plant is maintained in connection with finishing mills.

The company has no hot metal capacity and is obliged to purchase iron requirements on the market.

Local Man Named Gas Group Chairman

H. C. Cooper, of the Hope Natural Gas Company, Pittsburgh, has been elected chairman of the natural gas department of the American Gas Association in convention at Atlantic City, N. J.

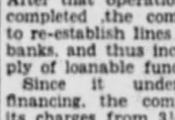
LOAN BUSINESS PROOF AGAINST DEPRESSION

Company Not Only Riding Slump, but Is Showing Increase in Earnings

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Leslie C. Harbison, who is in the business of making small loans to needy Americans, tells me that his enterprise is well-nigh depression proof.

Dealing with men who are broke and others in need of a financial lift, the Household Financial Corporation, of Chicago, which Mr. Harbison heads, is not only currently riding the storm of depression, but is showing a substantial increase in net earnings over last year. It makes loans to more than 200,000 persons in 12 states, and accepts household furnishings as collateral. But, like the late J. Pierpont Morgan, Mr. Harbison believes that the real collateral behind the loans, running from $100 to $300, is the character and good faith of the borrowers.



Mr. Rukeyser.

For 32 years this company has predicated its continued success on confidence in the promises of plain working men and women, who lack access to ordinary bank credit. Mr. Harbison revealed that losses amount to less than 1 per cent of the funds employed. He disclosed that, in spite of the great amount of unemployment this year, there would be no perceptible increase in the number of delinquencies among borrowers.

STOCK LISTED

After long being a close corporation, the company did its first public financing late in 1928, when it sold through Lee, Higginson & Co. $7,000,000 of preference stock, which is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Since that time it has enlarged operations through increasing its credit lines with leading banks. Thus the company acts as intermediary between borrowers without bank credit and the great lending institutions.

The company expects to sell $15,000,000 in debentures or other senior securities before the end of the year to pay off bank loans. After that operation has been completed, the company intends to re-establish lines of credit with banks, and thus increase its supply of loanable funds.

Since it undertook public financing, the company reduced its charges from 3½ per cent to 2½ per cent, and as a result of under-quoting competition, has not only been able to select a better class of loans, but has avoided this year proportionate reduction in total volume, which the industry as a whole has experienced as a result of depressed business and employment conditions. Mr. Harbison finds that men are more eager to borrow to fund their debts and unify their obligations in good times than in bad. When unemployed and without fear that salary will be garnisheed, the debtor is more disposed to let matters drift and to put off his creditors with the statement that he is without work.

ENCOURAGE BUDGETS

"We seek to analyze the financial position of our clients, and show them how they can meet their obligations. We are encouraging them to keep family budgets. In times of depression, like the present, it seems that those of small means can deflate relatively easier than well-to-do people, with huge apartments, automobiles, club memberships and expensive programs for entertainment and recreation. The workingman can cut down more quickly."

Asked whether it might be feasible to cut down the interest rate on small loans below 2½ per cent a month, Mr. Harbison replied in the affirmative, indicating that in connection with such cost reduction it would be helpful to change the uniform small loan laws to permit loans of more than $300. The high cost of small loans springs from the overhead cost of collection and investigation, which is scarcely any more for large loans than for small ones.

An interesting aspect of the present money market situation is that the great banks are energetically searching for good borrowers.

TAILOR COMPLAINS

Julius F. Pitassy, the custom tailor, complains that tailoring does not appeal to the new generation of native born Americans. He considers the lack of recruits and apprentices a serious portent for the future of custom tailoring.

The collapse of security prices in the last year has naturally bred ill feeling against certain houses of issue, which of course did not keep their pet issues exempt from the general deflationary tendencies. Much emotional resentment has been stirred up not only among investors, but also among country bankers who helped to distribute the issues. In the circumstances, banking houses could not have effectively pegged their issues, even if they had wanted to. Some houses, however, are open to criticism for having unduly exploited the earlier inflation while it lasted. They brought out issues in accordance with prevailing extravagant market appraisals, irrespective of their own analytical judgment as to the intrinsic worth of securities. Such a policy was a blunder, for it sacrificed good will, which is the most precious asset a banking firm can build up.

Youngstown Head Sees Upturn In Steel

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Frank Purnell, president of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, said that there are plenty of evidences that the "steel industry is looking up."

He said:

"We have passed through many months of depression, but that is all behind us. Stiffening of prices shows that many consumers have nearly exhausted their supplies. Industries consuming steel are increasing activities."

DAILY TRUE STORY

In Paradise

What to do with Oliver?

That was the question—the Weymouth question.

Oliver Weymouth was the son of Bellville County's prosecuting attorney, Gaston Weymouth, and the grandson of Judge Oliver Weymouth.

With such a background one would naturally reply to the question, "What to do with Oliver?" "Why, make a lawyer of him, naturally."

In any event the father and the grandfather did not seem inclined to think Oliver had the stuff in him that would make him a shining legal light.

Oliver was soon to finish college. He was rather surprised when his father and grandfather, at dinner one day, asked him what his plans were.

"I thought that was cut and dried," Oliver said.

"Ahem," grandfather ahemed, by way of introducing his weighty remarks, "at your age you are no longer a child or a minor, you are an individual."

"Quite so," echoed his father.

"Meaning that I am to choose?" They nodded. His father said:

"What is it to be, commerce? Science? Finance? We can manage to give you a start, you know."

"How about the law?" Oliver asked, in surprise.

"Er—have you a legal mind?" his father asked.

"I don't," his father said.

"Rather think not," grandfather added.

Career Undecided

"Nevertheless, being an individual, I may decide to take up the law."

"You aren't serious enough, you flit here and there and dissipate a little and go about with silly girls called flappers—if you were steady and had a keen logical mind, and would settle down to a really nice girl like—well—like Wanda Harriman, now—"

His father paused.

"Yes, sir," Oliver said.

He went out and joined a crowd of fellows who took some visiting show girls over to the country club for midnight-to-dawn dancing.

But he wasn't extremely happy. He was hurt because his respected father and august grandfather seemed to consider him a fizzle.

It was at this time that a little trouble came up.

Bert Hawley lived in the pretty little summer colony of Paradise, so-called because it was on Paradise Lake. Although only 30, Bert was Oliver's uncle, by marriage, inasmuch as he had married Judge Weymouth's youngest daughter.

In a way the judge liked his son-in-law because he was good to Editha, the judge's youngest child, and Editha loved her husband. On the other hand the judge didn't approve of the carefree existence they seemed to live—up in Paradise summers, sporting about days in bathing suits and dancing and shaking cocktails at night. In the winter they lived in the city and helped support the night clubs.

Judge Disapproves

Edith would laugh when her worried father scolded her for being so innocently gay that some suspected a lack of innocence. As for Bert Hawley, when the judge spoke to him about it, he got red in the face and remarked that if he ever heard of any woman saying evil things about his wife, he would up-turn and spank her, publicly.

"And if any man talks about Editha I'll beat him to a pulp," Hawley declared, earnestly, "and then I'll yank out his backbone and slap his face with it."

The judge believed his son-law, and worried.

At the country club one night, Bert Hawley was present solely to get in touch with some business men. As it was a 70-mile drive back to his summer home in Paradise, he arranged to stay over night with his august in-laws, the Weymouths.

At the club Hawley ran across Ferd Dutton.

He was heard talking to him quite profanely.

"And if you are the one who said it about Editha I'll just about brain you," Hawley was threatening.

Exactly two weeks later Ferd Dutton was found out at the cross roads, near the country club, so badly beaten that they thought he would die.

In the hospital he finally could murmur that he didn't get a good sight of his assailant but he thought it was Hawley.

Hawley was arrested.

He saw the sheriff coming and whispered to Ollie that he was about to be pinched.

"Say nothing—get me? Not a word," Oliver advised.

So Hawley said nothing, arranged for his heavy bail bond and continued to enjoy himself until the case came up, which was when Dutton, with half his face still in a plaster cast, could get to court.

It was a tough time for Judge Weymouth and Prosecuting Attorney Weymouth, because the Judge had to hear the case against his brother-in-law and the prosecuting attorney had to try and convict his brother-in-law of murderous assault.

To the surprise of the Judge and of Oliver's father, Oliver appeared as a witness for Hawley.

They glared at him when Hawley's lawyer put him on the stand.

Asked where he was on the night of the seventeenth, which was the night Dutton got his gossiping head beaten to an almost fatal result, Oliver said.

"In Paradise."

"At what time?"

"Eleven thirty."

"What were you doing?"

"Having a drink with Mr. Hawley."

They couldn't change this testimony, and, as Paradise was a 70-mile drive in a fast car and Dutton was attacked at 11, according to his own testimony, Hawley was promptly released.

At home Oliver was sharply questioned.

Hawley Released

"No, sir."

"Were you up at the lake?"

"No sir."

"Then you lied; you testified that you were up at the lake at Hawley's place, having a drink with him. You have committed perjury and disgraced——"

"Listen, granddad, you aren't very legal about this. I testified that I was in Paradise at 11 and that Hawley was having a drink with me. I was in Paradise at that hour because Wanda Harriman had just promised to marry me—one is in a Paradise when the girl he loves accepts him, isn't he? And just as I left I met Hawley, I told him about Wanda accepting me, and he told me about beating up Dutton, and we had a drink from his flask, so I testified that I was in Paradise at that date and hour and drank with Hawley, and it saved him."

Judge Weymouth and Prosecuting Attorney Weymouth stared at Oliver a moment.

"Oliver," the Judge said, "you are going to make one hullava good lawyer and when I lose my dignity and swear, I am very much in earnest."

"I'm proud of you," his father added.

"If," Oliver said, to his father, "you had cross-questioned me as to what I meant by saying I was in Paradise, I would have been stuck, and if I had been in your place I certainly would have asked the question."

"Having learned from Wanda's father that you two became engaged that memorable night, son, I didn't intend to ask any such damaging question!"

The judge roared with laughter.

"I hope I become as clever as that," Oliver said.

He did.

According to a radio corporation executive, prison outbreaks are practically non-existent in completely radio equipped institutions.

Good Idea Department

Speaking before the Organized Civic Sisters, Mrs. Myrthol C. Witherbum yesterday expressed a kindly interest in Mr. Woodcock's Dry College. Admitting the advisability of making undergraduates enforcement officers familiar with the sight and smell of liquor so they might recognize it, Mrs. Witherbum hoped some better method might be found than letting them taste anything that would detract from their efficiency. "The enforcement student may be somebody's son," she explained, " and I am sure, something non-alcoholic, but just as good, can be provided for experimental purposes. Otherwise, the student might get the habit."

Proposed Ban on Hunting

Gov. Fisher Has Done Well in Avoiding a Hasty Decision.

Because of the long drought the forests are like tinder; so the governors of New York and Massachusetts have forbidden hunting in parts of their states, and Gov. Fisher is thinking of doing the same thing.

He has done well in avoiding a hasty decision; for serious economic losses would result from the prohibition, and a million men, and not a few women, would be disappointed. Some have been saving their vacations for the hunting season.

If you think "a million" is an exaggeration, consider that 817,793 persons took out hunting licenses last year, that farmers, farmer boys and farm hands do not have to take out licenses to hunt on their own or (with the neighbors' permission) on adjacent lands, and that there are 172,046 farms in Pennsylvania.

A ban on hunting in Pennsylvania may be found necessary. But it would injure the business of dealers in guns and ammunition. It would deprive the State Game Commission of the revenue, amounting to $998,834 last year, which is derived from the sale of hunting licenses. It would be detrimental to farms; for the deer need thinning out. In its current crop report, the Department of Agriculture states deer have done extensive damage to Pennsylvania's buckwheat crop.

Lock No. 1 Is Too Small

Elimination of Monongahela River Dam, If Feasible, Would Help Traffic.

Ten barges can be taken through the Ohio River locks at one time. Only four barges can be taken through Lock No. 1 in the Monongahela River at one time.

Steamboats from downriver points would have to pass through this lock to reach the rail-river terminal at Hays, which the city is planning to establish. If the tows of barges should be large, they would have to be broken up. This would make for delay, and has been raised as an objection to the acquisition of the Hays terminal.

Elimination of No. 1 lock and dam, if feasible, would help river traffic.

Elimination of No. 1 lock and dam in the Allegheny River has been authorized by Congress. The United States engineers have reported that if the river is dredged immediately above the dam it can be dispensed with.

Inquiry should be made into the feasibility of dispensing with the Monongahela dam. Its elimination would add nine miles to the Pittsburgh harbor and bring the Hays terminal into the harbor.

Thanks, for Golf Course

Public Would Appreciate Reports on Progress of North Park Links.

The golf course in the county's South Park will be opened Saturday. It will meet a genuine need. The Pittsburgh district has not had enough free golf courses, open to the public. The facilities for playing the health-giving game, in which interest steadily increases, are still inadequate; but the South Park course will go far towards remedying the deficiency.

Thanks are due the County Commissioners for thus adding to the attractiveness of the park.

Director of Parks Paul B. Riis told the County Commissioners he had discontinued issuing his monthly reports because he had found them distorted in the newspapers. He seems to have been irritated by some expressions of impatience over the delay.

Director Riis should not let irritation at newspaper comment deter him from keeping his employers, the taxpayers, informed as to how their money is being spent and how the improvements for which they provide the funds are progressing.

Judge Pictures Yourself

Failure to Appreciate Monstrosities of Art Does Not Show Lack of Good Taste.

The Twenty-ninth International Exhibition of Paintings at Carnegie Institute will be opened to the public after the Founder's Day exercises this afternoon. A large number of invited guests were given a private view last night.

As has often been the case since "modernism" in art came to the fore, the exhibition contains a number of pictures which most persons will consider monstrosities.

Do not think, because they have been accorded recognition in this important salon, that it is your duty to like them. Do not imagine that your failure to appreciate them shows lack of good taste. Do not suppose that because they have been chosen for exhibition in Carnegie Institute they are necessarily great pictures.

Artists themselves are in violent disagreement over the merits of the pictures of these new schools. There are "plenty" who will agree with your judgment, whatever it may be.

Be independent. Judge the paintings for yourself.

Wine Making Season

Grape Receipts Set Record. Why Not Raise More at Home?

Receipts of "juice grapes" in Pittsburgh during the last few days have established a new record. Five trains of grapes passed through the city Sunday. More than a hundred cars were left at the local produce yards.

The wine making season is in full swing. After a dozen years of experience some of our amateur wine makers are probably fairly expert by this time. At any rate the demand for grapes shows steady increase.

Prohibition has been a bonanza to the grape growers of California, from whom we buy much of our supply. It might be profitable to raise more grapes at home.

Erie County produces about four-fifths of Pennsylvania's commercial grape production. But Allegheny and adjoining counties also offer interesting possibilities in grape production. Allegheny County ranks second. Beaver County, now in third place, reports a large increase in the number of grape vines. Allegheny County, in comparison, has been lagging.

Our New Navy Yard -:- -:- By Nelson Harding

Soon far beneath the waves will rest
The ships that we'll discard,
And they'll be rusting slowly in
Our strange new navy yard.

High Buildings

Warwick: Cook's perpendicular tours. Choose your floor and pick out the climate you like.

Ritz Towers: Holders of all non-stop records. One of our guests starved in elevator because he forgot to bring a thermos bottle and a sandwich along.

Cubby-Hole Terrace: Building so tall the roof leaks where the eagles scratched for worms.

Marine Merger: Our elevators have been slowed down temporarily until the contractors catch up to the elevator shafts.

Red Wood Plaza: We don't know whether this is an office building or a branch office of Washington's Monument. Get in one of our elevators and see how a postcard feels in a mail chute. All local stops in tubes 45 and 67.

MONSTERS OF THE AIR

By Archibald Henderson

Those mighty air navies, wheeling in the central blue, prophesied by Tennyson half a century ago, are virtually in being today. Already air monsters—whether a DO-X airplane or a R-100 are circling about our heads. They herald even more powerful, more bulky and speedier aircraft for the near future. Vast outlays of capital are being projected for the establishment of commercial air lines of travel. The promise for the future is roseate, as the range of experimentation is virtually unlimited. Airplanes, airships, sea beacons, land beacons, air fields, floating aerodromes, new fuel, non-inflammable gases, hangars, mooring towers—all these and many other features of the air transport of the future are being intensively studied, experimented with, invented, constructed. It seems clear that the future problems to be solved, the major difficulties to be surmounted are less of a scientific than of an economic nature. The major problem is to demonstrate to capitalists the safety of air travel and transport, and in consequence to enlist the indispensable support of capital on an almost unlimited scale.

Consider, for example, the huge flying-boat, DO-X, which has already made successful flights, carrying as many as 169 persons! This mighty machine is named after the inventor, Dr. Dornier, one of the profound scientific experimenters in the field of aircraft invention. The wing-span of the DO-X is 164 feet, the length of the hull and fuselage 147 feet. The approximate cost of this great flying-boat is $750,000. The calculated maximum speed is 156 miles per hour. In a trial cruise over Lake Constance, the DO-X made 110 miles in less than an hour.

This is a powerful aircraft, with the amazing load capacity of some 50 tons. It is propelled by 12 Jupiter-Siemens engines, with a combined horsepower of 6,300. The strength and stability of the structure is indicated by the thickness of the wings—10 feet! The tanks will hold 4,000 gallons of gasoline and 3,000 pounds of oil. When the DO-X makes her trans-Atlantic trip, it is unlikely that she will carry more than 50 passengers in addition to a crew of 12.

The new dirigibles, which are now planned, will be on an equally colossal scale. They will be designed to have a cruising radius of 10,000 miles, as against 6,000 for the Graf Zeppelin. They will use helium, a non-inflammable gas, available in this country in unlimited quantities, in order to be free from fire hazard. The light but very strong metal, duraluminum, will be used extensively in their construction. Each dirigible will cost between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Do good people get good breaks? They should, according to copy book maxims. And yet—you've seen those maxims disproved a hundred times, haven't you?

For example, you're assured that "honesty is the best policy." But look what happened to poor, honest old Steve. Worked like a slave all his life—never told a fib or cheated anyone out of a nickle. Trusted everyone. Then along came that slick crook with his phony investment scheme and robbed Steve out of every cent he had. Does honesty seem the best policy when you think of Steve?

"Be good and you'll be happy"—that's another one. But look at all the good people who are perfectly miserable! See how people impose on them—see what tough breaks they get. God certainly doesn't reward them for their goodness!

Sometimes you get pretty bitter thinking about it all, don't you? And you decide that goodness doesn't pay. But you're wrong. Goodness does pay. . . .provided you use gumption with it.

If good people would use as much shrewdness and spunk about being good as bad people use about being bad, their success would be as great.

But the trouble with most good people is that they expect God to hang around as a bodyguard and protect them from all mishap. But God doesn't make life foolproof for anyone. He expects all men to take their chances, regardless of morals. And of what use is your goodness if you won't protect it . . . if you allow bad men to make a joke of it?

It's very sad to think of poor old Steve being robbed by a crook. But it was Steve's business to look out for crooks. He had no right to "trust everyone." That kind of saga is not virtue—it is an actual vice and it does more harm to the cause of righteousness than a dozen crooks. For it makes good people look sappy and goodness seem silly.

Considering Steve, you decide that honesty doesn't pay. Steve had no right to let you think that. It was up to him to make his honesty pay—to so protect it that it did pay.

Being good is a two-fisted job. It implies much more than just keeping out of jail. It implies that you must respect and defend goodness and make the other fellow respect it, too. If you can't make goodness pay, you'd better not start it.

Why do the "wicked flourish?" Because they believe in what they're doing. Because they'll fight for what they're doing. Because they're on the job and don't expect anyone else to do it for them. But good people expect God to shoulder all the consequences and reward them with sweet kisses and free passes. Fat chances! Why should He?

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

Bacon is one kind of food that hasn't been discovered by the humorist yet. They love to manufacture jokes about food, you know. It gets to be a regular craze whenever somebody writes a song about beans or spinach or eggs or cabbage. One sort of grub after another has been used, and I reckon I might as well bring on the bacon, too.

"Here's that bacon you sold me Saturday. It's no good. It's bad."

"What's the matter with it?"

"What ain't the matter with it? I tell you it's bad!"

"Why, that bacon must be all right, if it's the same I sold you. That was good, extra quality, sugar-cured bacon."

"That's all right, too. Mighta been sugar-cured, as you say. But you can't always depend on that sugar cure in chronic cases, and this here bacon had a bad relapse!"

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAEL

When Autumn Comes

And the sad winds go wailing through the wood
In many hearts they wake a note of grief
For life, too swift, too little understood.

It is man's way to question the decree
That bloom and beauty still must end in dust,
To doubt the perfect plan, the mystery
That moves through all, the hand supremely just.

But falling leaf or leaf that buds, we know
Is but a phase of life without an end,
As tides of ocean, though they ebb or flow,
Their vast pulsations through the waters send.

Text For Today

The mercy of the Lord is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and his righteousness unto children's children.—Psalms, ciii:17.

Miniature Golf

HE CATCHES THE GOLF BALL

Whether you play miniature golf or full grown golf, you know that the interesting things are the "obstacles." There are bunkers, sand pits, drives across water. Sometimes on a big golf course, to avoid turning a corner, you drive over trees.

On one Chicago course the redoubtable "Chick" Evans used to surprise his opponents by driving over the clubhouse for a long distance, making in two or three a hole for which others needed six or more shots.

A tame bear stands chained on the course, and as your ball comes along, headed for the hole, the bear seizes it. It is quite an obstacle, a considerable ursine, plantigrade "HAZARD."

WHY should the bear seize the ball? He has been trained to seize golf balls smeared with honey, which he licks off carefully, then returning the ball. He never can be quite sure which ball has honey on it, so he reaches for all of them.

This is an illustration of human ingenuity.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—That eerie "Mystery House" at Thirty-ninth street on Fifth avenue is in the last lap of its historic stand against progress all around it. For years it has been a jarring note in the architectural ensemble. On tax records it is the Wendel mansion, a down-at-heel four-storied structure of the early 50's.

Adjoining it northward is the $5,000,000 vacant yard with its plain high board fence, used for years as a playground for a toothless and asthmatic poodle. The sole occupant of the house today is Miss Ella Wendel, survivor of the family that founded its fortune with Jacob Astor in the fur trade.

The eldest Wendel sister died recently, leaving a fortune of $200,000,000. The bleak mansion has 22 rooms, only three, however, are said to be used by the owner and two venerable servants. About the place hangs the musty suggestion of a crypt.

The windows are mostly curtainless, dilapidated shutters flap in the winds, and the only illumination is from one or two flickering blobs from wall gas jets. It has the same cloying atmosphere so frequently used by fictionists for the locale of shuddery stories. It is the theme of an English mystery novel.

Strangers to New York who ride in sight-seeing buses have the gloomy pile pointed out while the megaphonist shouts: "Shh-h-h-h! We pass Manhattan's Mystery Mansion! The five million-dollar dog yard! No one ever goes in. Or no one ever comes out. Two old ladies just sit and rock in the dark."

The ballyhoo is, of course, an exaggeration. The Wendel sisters have always been alert and cultured women who simply have no interest in modernity. Each preferred to live in the past. Their father's business maxim was to buy real estate, never sell. The children were loyal to the trust.

The Fifth avenue house and lot are said to represent an original investment in excess of $100,000. The lot alone is now worth many millions so the Wendel vision was not myopic. When the house comes down, the last touch of Victorianism on the avenue goes the way of the puff sleeve. And its about time.

The backgammon craze lingers. In its infancy 25 years ago it was later obscured by such rowdy parlor pastimes as parcheesi and crokinole. But one aristocratic club has had a backgammon room for years.

Backgammon is derived from the Saxon bac, back, and gamone game, a game in which the player is set back. Chaucer loved it. An especially designed board and dice are used.

* * *

Miss Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army lives aloofly in a Swiss-like chalet with two secretaries and two dogs at Hartsdale on the Hudson. Neighbors see her only on her morning gallop. The rest of her time is at her office in town, where she works until late.

* * *

They say Howard Thurston, the magician, is constantly manipulating a coin in his hand as he walks or sits in a cafe or theater to keep muscles in perfect trim.

* * *

Recently Elwood, the magician, wrote in he had given up trouping. For years he toured tank towns with his hypnotic-magical exhibitions. But this form of entertainment no longer attracts. And those of us who remember Prof. Boone's hair-raising lickety-split blindfolded drive down Main street for the hidden key heave a wistful sigh.

Prof. Boone appeared resplendent in Prince Albert coat and high hat of gold cloth and had "piercing catgreen eyes"—so the ads said. I remember interviewing him for our little four-page local daily. But I never looked him in the eye. He wasn't going to trick me and have me running around town flapping my arms and crowing like a rooster. No, sir!

* * *

The professor put a subject in a hypnotic trance and left him in a tailor's window to be awakened at the final Saturday performance. I was one of the goggle-eyed boobs, chalk white, and wearing a blue stock, who helped carry him on a cot from the window to the stage.

I suppose people today would laugh at such silly fears, ho, ho! But permit me, Mesdames et Messieures, I'm still afraid to look a hypnotist in the eye. And a giraffe's ears to you, loud mouthed chucklers.

And every grin, so merry, draws one out. —Wolcot.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

As a parent are you constantly talking to daughter about a marriage?"

You have often said that she should marry a young man of established position as to line and environment.

You prefer the man who is working with his father with possibility of his being taken in as a partner or a young man with abundant means to support her.

Not very often do you stress the fact that she should strongly love the man she plans to marry.

Of course you think that if she can find one who meets requirements and loves him too she will be fortunate.

But your greatest concern is as to whether the young man can furnish luxuries you want her to enjoy.

There may have been many you called fine fellows, but the "prospects" did not meet your desires.

For that reason you did not approve and so expressed yourself to daughter.

How much of this world's goods did you and your life partner possess when you were married and started a home?

You married for love irrespective of prospects at that time.

You both had health and ambition and you are not sorry now.
